

400-Mile Convoy Helped Prepare For Libyan Drive

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN THE WESTERN DESERT, Nov. 20.—The great battle for annihilation of Fascism in North Africa—a battle in which large German forces will for the first time in this war be decisively whipped by British forces—has now begun.
And now at last the story can be told of how the instrument was forged during several months; the story of Allied preparations across thousands of square miles of wilderness of sand.

A year ago General Sir Archibald Wavell's small forces knocked at the gates of Sidi Barrani, then held by the Italians. The gates fell open, and a few weeks later the British were at Bengazi and an Italian army of 400,000 was destroyed. Last spring, largely because the Allies were forced to send an army to Greece, German panzer divisions smuggled across from Italy stole the victory and pushed the Allies back to Egypt.

Last June Britain's Imperial forces tried to swing the pendulum back again and failed. Since then, really impressive supplies of aircraft, tanks, guns and a thousand other things essential in modern war have arrived in the Middle East. The British armies were re-formed and enlarged, and preparations began for a large-scale smashing attack, with every detail perfected.

It has been exciting, these last few months, seeing these preparations, and tantalizing for a war correspondent not to be able to mention them in any way. Three weeks ago I drove from Cairo to Sidi Barrani, some 400 miles, and it is hardly an exaggeration to say we passed a convoy 400 miles long.

Big guns, 25-pounders, antitank guns, machineguns, brigades and divisions, going forward with supplies of every conceivable kind; water-carriers, ambulances—it was an almost unbroken stream for hundreds of miles. And that has been going on for weeks. I had never before seen anything on this scale.

It has been a slow, laborious, almost heart-breaking process, getting the snowball of American supplies rolling, but it has certainly been rolling these last three months.

The difference in the western desert scene, as it was when I first saw it in July and now, is startling. Then there were great camps at intervals of 150 miles.

Now it is almost one long camp of 200 miles along the

U.S. Vulnerable Japs Charged To Propaganda, With Spreading Teachers Told Bubonic Plague

Distortion of Words Can Undermine Defense, Pooley Warns.

The United States is vulnerable to attacks through propaganda and the deliberate distortion of the meanings of words that could undermine the entire defense program, 2,500 members of the National Council of Teachers of English were warned as they opened their thirty-first annual convention here last night.

The warning was voiced by the council's president, Robert C. Pooley, of the University of Wisconsin, at the first general session, held in the auditorium at Georgia Tech.

But even before the initial meeting opened, council officials and leaders were strenuously active at headquarters in the Biltmore Hotel, endeavoring to prevent open attacks on this nation's foreign policy at a luncheon conference scheduled for noon today.

Flareup Expected.

The flareup over America's course in the war crisis is expected to come during a discussion of a preview of "Americans All," 1942 yearbook of the department of supervisors and directors of instruction of the National Education Association, and co-sponsored by the council.

The yearbook confines itself to methods of teaching foreign-born groups how to become good citizens in a democracy. Some scheduled participants in the round-table discussion, however, were reported to be "America Firsters" and planning to raise the issue of isolation or intervention.

Delegates were welcomed at last night's session by Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta's public schools. Jeannette E. Maltby, of Spokane, Wash., second vice president, presided.

Pooley Sounds Keynote.

President Pooley sounded the keynote of the convention, "Our Defense of American Traditions," and declared it is the duty of teachers of this country's common language to offset the propaganda attacks.

"Wars today are fought not only with weapons, but with words," Dr. Pooley said. "We have seen that guns and fortifications are powerless before the new kind of attack which is borne in upon a nation through the very medium of communication."

The fact that the United States is one nation without language barriers, he said, "is a defense second to none against the malignant forces in the world today which openly are striving to rend us apart as a people, to set us against each other by creating artificial lines of race, culture or region. So long as we remain a people of one language, the enemy can be held at bay."

"The awful examples of Norway and France stand as a solemn warning that reliance on patriotism, enlightenment, civil liberty and even arms are not enough," Dr. Pooley continued. "The insidious use of language, the deliberate debauchery of words can bring a nation to dire peril or actual conquest."

"We build first to repel attacks on our coasts, antiaircraft gun bases to repel attacks from the air; what defenses have we against attacks thinner than air, the subtle, hideously false misuses of language?"

"This nation is dangerously vulnerable to such attacks," he said. "We are a fluent nation—we talk a great deal and we listen a great deal," he said.

Dr. Pooley listed the radio and talking pictures in addition to newspapers and magazines as po-

First Use of Bacteria as Weapon Revealed by Chinese.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. CHUNGKING, Nov. 20.—The authorized spokesman of the Chinese army in a conference with foreign correspondents today accused the Japanese of starting germ warfare.

He said that on November 4 Japanese planes dropped food-stuffs and clothing at Changtem, northern Hunan province, and that many persons who ate the food or used the clothes developed symptoms of bubonic plague and died.

The Chinese government, the spokesman said, is sending investigators to make a full inquiry into the affair. He called it the first use of bacteria as a weapon in the Japanese-Chinese war.

The possibility of germ warfare has been widely considered since long before the outbreak of the present war. Stories have been circulated repeatedly of germ shells, germ bombs and other means of warfare by use of bacteria.

All major military powers are believed to have made plans for defense against the possible use of bacteria. High among such steps are strict protection of food and water supplies.

JAPS CHARGE PANAMA WITH UNFRIENDLINESS

TOKYO, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Japanese foreign office charged Panama today with an unfriendly attitude and presented firmly worded diplomatic demands for better treatment of Japanese nationals there.

Specifically the foreign office renewed strong protests against the recent action of the government of Panama preventing Japanese residents from continuing in or engaging in business there.

(Japan's original protest was rejected November 7 by the Panama government which termed it "couched in strong, even insulting terms." Panama said at that time that the law was not aimed directly at the Japanese, but "refers to a class of individuals of prohibited immigration.")

The Japanese said they were protesting not only for their subjects but for all Asiatic races.

The Japanese press continued to look to the Washington conferences between Tokyo's representatives and Secretary of State Cordell Hull or the answer to issues which Yomiuri summed up as "the key to Pacific war or peace."

The Japan Times and Advertiser, sounding board for foreign office opinion, commented editorially that there seemed to be a common ground in the desires of both Japan and the United States.

"What the United States wants," the editorial said, "is the removal of restrictions on international trade, allowing free flow with access to raw materials."

"Japan has no territorial designs. She wants full and frank co-operation between the Pacific states for increase of trade and exchange of resources and manufactures."

The newspaper declared, however, that Japan "would desire to conclude agreements with Pacific states without supervision of any third interest."

"HAPPILY EVER AFTER"—Reminiscent of fairy tales was the wedding yesterday of Sailor Bill Langford and Josephine Phillips, the jobless miss he befriended in New York recently. The newlyweds went into an 11-second clinch after vows were said before Mayor John Gabriel, in Garfield, N. J. Last night they were honeymooning as guests of a New York hotel. Bill broke the date he made with Josephine after their storybook meeting, but he was right on hand yesterday.

Methodist Conference Scores Interference With Education

Use of Tobacco by Ministers, Recognition of Rural Churches Stir Pastors; Bishop Moore Urges Rigid Observance of Vows.

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT. Highlight features of the opening day session of the North Georgia Methodist annual conference yesterday at Wesley Memorial church centered around five important points. They were:

(1) Retirement of nine active ministers;

(2) The admission on trial of five young men;

(3) The passage of character for every man in the conference, the special recognition given the superannuated members;

(4) Debate occasioned by a resolution offered by the Rev. R. H. Timberlake, of Winterville, asking that annual minutes show reports from each individual congregation rather than by charges;

(5) The statement made by Bishop Arthur J. Moore regarding preachers who take a vow to abstain from all use of tobacco and then prove unfaithful to that vow.

Debate again was occasioned when a resolution condemning interference with the state educational system, offered by 25 signers, was adopted practically unanimously.

Text of Resolution.

Whereas the members of the North Georgia conference believe in the brotherhood of man, and whereas we believe that the highest welfare of our state cannot be achieved unless there exist harmony, peace, good will, justice, mutual helpfulness between all classes, groups and races within our state;

"Be it resolved that we express our deep sorrow when there is any attempt on the part of any individuals in private or public life to foment prejudice against any class, group or race."

"Whereas we believe that only a free educational system can lead our people into a knowledge of the truth, "Be it resolved that we express our profound regret when any attempt is made by anybody, for political reasons or otherwise, to restrict the freedom of the educational system of our state."

The Rev. V. L. Bray, of Hogsenville, making a speech against the paper, moved that it be tabled. His motion was ruled out of order, since he had made a speech. J. Wilson Parker, a Fairburn layman, then moved that it be tabled. The Parker move was lost, 113 to 177.

Secret Parley Held At Airport by Regents

By LUKE GREENE.

One of the most grotesque meetings of the State Board of Regents o record unfolded act by act yesterday as sleepy-eyed and bewildered regents recounted their wild ride to the airport in the wee hours of yesterday morning to snatch pajama-clad L. W. (Chip) Robert from a Mexico-bound sleeper plane and obtain his vote for a plan designed to save the accredited standing of the University System.

There actually was a meeting of the Board of Regents at the airport about 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Regent Robert was on his way from Washington to Mexico City. By long-distance telephone he had agreed to stop 25 minutes at Candler Field and join the other seven members who had convened all day in approving a resolution authorizing the re-employment of ousted educators who were dismissed irregularly.

When the big silver sleeper

2 Crack Nazi Units Reported In Desert Trap

Italian Armored Troops Said To Be Successfully Engaged.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The center of the imperial British offensive into Libya has beaten forward 80 miles within Axis territory to within 10 miles of the outer defenses of the long-besieged British garrison of Tobruk, the Middle Eastern command announced last night, and it thus appeared that large bodies of German and Italian troops were in imminent peril of encirclement.

This advance of the central forces, said the communique of the British command, had overrun and captured the town of Rezegh on the plateau just to the southeast of Tobruk itself. Quick relief for that city was in sight.

But more important, the British apparently were about to drive a line from Sidi Omar, one of the jumping-off points for their offensive, clear to the Mediterranean—Tobruk being on its shores—and thus split the rear and forward Axis armies.

Italian Tanks Smashed. Moreover, the British declared that their armored forces—using American equipment—had smashed an Italian tank detachment on this line and on the right flank had advanced more than 30 miles west of Capuzzo, putting to flight a number of German units which refused battle.

All this strongly supported earlier expressions of belief in London that the great British expedition, which was charged with the supreme task of destroying the Axis armies in North Africa, had put the Germans and Italians in danger of envelopment.

(British troops, moving forward through the muck of the Libyan desert with American-made tanks in the forefront, have trapped two crack German panzer divisions in the "hump of Cyrenaica" by using Germany's own favorite encircling movement, according to front-line dispatches reported by the International News Service.)

Greatest Striking Force. The British, it was clear, had loosed their supreme effort since the fall of France and with by far the greatest striking force yet assembled by them in any theater were beating forward on land, sea and in the air with the grand objective of forcing the German-Italian Commander Erwin Rommel to a showdown in the border areas just beyond the Egyptian frontiers. The powerful British air arm

Mrs. Tunney Grants 'Transom Interview,' Her First in 15 Years

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

Mrs. Gene Tunney, the former Miss Polly Lauder of Connecticut and the social register, is a lady who turns out a light when she leaves the room—and turns on newspaper photographers when they get in her way!

The wife of the retired champ, herself a well-known figure in New York and Florida society, broke a precedent of 15 years' standing yesterday during her visit to Atlanta with her lieutenant commander husband. She gave out an interview.

But it was strictly a telephone interview. "Who is it?" asked Mrs. Tunney in a high sweet voice when a reporter and a photographer rapped on her door—the door to the suite which Mrs. Roosevelt occupies during her stays at the Henry Grady—yesterday morning.

"Oh, I'm so sorry. Never talk to reporters or allow my picture to be taken without my husband. Besides I'm not dressed now. No, it won't do you any good to wait because I simply can't do it."

That was the transom part of the interview. It revealed Mrs. Tunney as a lady with a New England voice and not the slightest curiosity—not even enough to open the door and take a look at her visitors before telling them good-bay.

But the telephone part of the interview was even more revealing. It disclosed: 1. That Mrs. Tunney has been married to the champ for 13 years and that not once during that time has she allowed herself to be photographed by newspaper photographers without him at her side. 2. That "hundreds of newspaper people have wanted interviews and pictures and she saw no reason why she should make an exception now." 3. That she was perfectly willing to be photographed "on the run" but would stay in her room all afternoon before she would run the risk of posing for a picture. In fact, Mrs. Tunney indicated that since it was such a rainy, dreary afternoon she would much prefer to stay in her room and have in a few friends whom she emphatically would not "subject" to an interview or photograph "because they don't care for publicity any more than I do."

But there Mrs. Tunney was simply displaying either a native caginess or a trick picked up from her athletic husband, whose footwork is famous. She had no intention of staying in her room. Instead, she donned a reversible plaid raincoat, pulled a small black hat over her short dark curls and, with the aid of a hotel employee, made a Greta Garbo exit—down the service elevator and out through the basement. A dash through the rain and

Clearer, Colder Forecast Today

Showers which fell intermittently yesterday will give way to clearer and colder weather today, the Weather Bureau forecast last night.

The temperature will start down today and continue its drop tomorrow, the weatherman predicted. Dropping to 45 degrees this morning, the mercury will climb only as high as 55. Yesterday's extremes were 58 and 65 degrees.

Woman Leader Cites Progress On 3,000 Fulton County Farms

Atlantans usually think of their town and county only as a commercial center, but a report yesterday showed the county has some 3,000 farms.

The great strides made by the county's farms can be seen from a talk with one of the county's leading women farm leaders. Mrs. Troy Rucker is president of the Fulton County Home Demonstration Council and state rural housing chairman for the council. She has served as president of the State Home Demonstration Council.

Picking yesterday as the time for a bit of reflection, Mrs. Rucker reviewed changes that have come about recently in farm life. "We raise more vegetables, have larger orchards, more beef for canning, more pork for curing, more poultry and eggs. . . . We even grow our own wheat for delicious whole-wheat bread," she said.

"We have learned about vitamins in our study of nutrition with the home demonstration agent. We realize the importance of the mineral content of the soil in growing nutritious vegetables and better pastures for more nutritious milk and butter.

"We have realized that soil erosion is the deadly enemy of better living. Our co-operation has meant additional income and better farm practices. By working with the extension service, we have improved our poultry flock; our livestock is better fed and is purebred."

The psychological effect of a program providing an interest for every member of the family has contributed to a happy and harmonious family group, Mrs. Rucker said.

Language Teachers Will Meet Today

Language instructors from colleges in the southeast will attend the 14th annual meeting of the South Atlantic Language Association today and tomorrow, on Emory University and Agnes Scott campuses.

Speakers at today's session, beginning at 10 o'clock this morning in the Church School building at Emory, will be Dr. Urban T. Holmes Jr., of the University of North Carolina department of French; Thomas B. Stroup, of the University of Florida; and Horatio Smith, of Columbia University.

Tomorrow's session will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning, in Presser Hall at Agnes Scott.

Council Group Backs $10,000 For Girls Home

New $30,000 Fireproof Structure Sought on Cooper Street.

Plans for construction of a new $30,000 home for the Community Home for Girls, operated by the city and Fulton county, were given impetus yesterday when council members agreed to sponsor a city appropriation up to $10,000 for the project.

Fulton county commissioners already have agreed to supplement any contributions made available to assure replacement of the ancient, ill-equipped frame structure in which the institution is housed at 318 Cooper street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong, superintendent, told the city officials the present site can be utilized if about $2,000 additional can be expended to enlarge the lot, so the girls can get some sunshine.

She added this would avoid any large outlay for a new site and will leave sufficient funds to insure erection of a modern, well-equipped, fireproof structure.

Detailed drawings and specifications will be prepared within the next few weeks and a concerted effort to expedite construction will get under way.

Dreadnought To Be Launched In Virginia

35,000-Ton Indiana Is Hitting Waves 6 Months Ahead of Time.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Nov. 20. (AP)—The 35,000-ton battleship Indiana, the first capital ship to be launched in Virginia waters in 20 years, will be christened six months ahead of schedule, at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company tomorrow.

Secretary of Navy Frank Knox, Governor Henry F. Schriker, of Indiana, heading a trainload of Hoosiers; Governor James H. Price, of Virginia, and a dozen or more congressmen will be among those on hand for the launching at high tide—10:53 o'clock—in the James river.

The $70,000,000 vessel, the third United States dreadnought to come from the building ways this year, will be christened by Mrs. Lewis C. Robbins, of Wichita Falls, Texas, daughter of the Indiana Governor.

Armed with nine 16-inch guns, mounted in three turrets, and the latest type anti-aircraft and secondary broadside guns, the 680-foot Indiana will have a speed in excess of 27 knots and when commissioned next year will carry a complement of about 75 officers and 1,000 men.

OFFICER TRANSFERRED. OGLETHORPE, Ga., Nov. 20.—D. C. Smith Jr., first lieutenant in chemical warfare, who has been stationed at the Augusta airport since July 1, has been transferred to Orlando, Fla. Lieutenant Smith had been a reserve officer for a number of years.

Huddle—City council members yesterday assured Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong, superintendent of the Community Home for Girls, that they will co-operate in a drive for new quarters. Shown, left to right, seated, in an informal conference, are Misses Celestia Matthews, Bronnie Meeks, Carolyn Kennedy and Vivien Johnson, Councilman Cecil Hester and Alderman Frank H. Reynolds. Miss Ola Mae Wheeler is at the left doing the talking, and apparently holding her hearers' interest.

Drizzle Seen As Beginning of Drouth Relief

Five Inches Would Eliminate Power Conservation, Engineers Say.

It was only a beginning, folks; but OPM engineers announced last night that, if the rains which started yesterday contrive to pile up five inches over the southeast between now and Christmas, it will be safe to call the whole power conservation program off.

Attaches of the Atlanta Weather Bureau, measuring the results of yesterday's gray, all-day drizzle as slightly more than a quarter of an inch, said in a normal year Atlanta could count on 5.11 inches between November 20 and December 25.

"If that amount falls generally over the southeast between now and Christmas, it will be ample to remove the threat of the power shortage—and with some to spare," engineers in the office of Power Chief J. A. Krug said.

16.21 Deficiency. Even if Atlanta and vicinity get the average anticipation of 5.11 inches, it will make only a slight dent in the deficiency of 16.21 inches which is recorded to date, weather forecasters said.

OPM officials said last night they could not tell at this time whether the curbing program would begin on schedule December 1, but added, "if enough rain falls, of course, the whole program will be dropped."

Meanwhile, the Weather Bureau looked for clearing skies and cooler weather today, with the temperature dropping even lower tomorrow.

Cold Spell in East. Chilly weather rolled eastward across the Great Lakes region, heralded by snow in the Dakotas and rain over much of the country, indicating an end to the warm weather which has lingered over the northern states. Temperatures ranged from the 10 degrees above zero recorded for Rock City, Wyo., to 32 at Omaha, 37 at Chicago and 58 at Atlanta.

In the southeast, these places made the following reports: Birmingham, Ala.—Steady drizzle since about 4 a. m. yesterday should be of some help to fall gardens and cover crops planted for spring.

Columbus, Ga.—Slight showers occurred, but have stopped. Not enough to benefit anybody. Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Drizzling rain all morning. Cloudy in afternoon. Savannah, Ga.—No rain.

Nation's Youth Weaker Today, Tunney Thinks

Former Boxing Champion Says Navy Uniforms Harmful.

By TOM McRAE.

Young American manhood today does not have the strength that the youth a generation ago had, Gene Tunney, director of the Navy's physical fitness program, said here yesterday.

The former world heavyweight champion attributed this to two things—excessive smoking and failure to take proper exercise.

Asked if whisky in any way was responsible for the poor condition of present-day youth, Tunney said its effect was negligible and inquired if any one in the group standing around him knew of drinking among the youngsters. No one said he did. Before entering naval service Tunney was a whisky firm executive.

Tunney spoke at length on the evils of smoking and revealed that he will have an article on smoking, called "The Slow Count," in the Reader's Digest soon. He blamed modern conveniences in part on the failure of youngsters to get proper exercise. He said the bus stops on every corner and all buildings now have elevators or escalators. He said he had walked five miles to school.

Radical Change Urged.
A radical change in the Navy's uniform is necessary from the standpoint of health and posture, Tunney believes. He urges suspenders for the blue jackets. He says sailors have to push out their belly muscles to keep their trousers up, adding that this is bad. He refers to the uniform as a "seventeenth century musical comedy costume."

When Tunney speaks of exercise, he is speaking of scientific exercise. So many of the old exercises that were considered good have actually been proven harmful, he said. When asked for a pamphlet of some simple exercises that could be passed on to the public, he said his exercises were copyrighted.

In a short talk to Tech R. O. T. C. students, Tunney pointed out the need for preparedness. He said a "professional approach" was necessary, just as it is for a prize fighter who seeks the championship. Tunney said for the United States to enter the conflict without preparing for every emergency would be like sending his 10-year-old son against Joe Louis. He gave as another illustration the famous "long count." He said years before he had prepared for the day when "some ruffian might strike me and knock me down." If he had not trained to run almost as fast backwards as forward, he said, he would have lost the championship.

Praises New Deal.
He praised the New Deal for giving us a Navy that is as "far superior to other navies as the Wehrmacht is superior to other land war machines." He said the United States Navy has as much equipment now as it can use.

Until the Army becomes a formidable fighting force, he said, the country must depend upon the Navy to preserve the American way. He said the Navy is doing that now in keeping the Japs out of the Dutch East Netherlands.

Tunney was founder and national chairman of the National Foundation for American Youth and helped prove that the American Youth Congress was full of Communists. He is now national chairman of the United Youth for Defense movement, which has organizations in every state.

Tunney's physique is a good recommendation for his special exercises. He looks trim at 208 pounds and said this is only two pounds more than he weighed before beginning training for the Heene fight, which was his last. His ring weight was 192 1-2 pounds.

The former champion spoke at the American Legion luncheon yesterday and at the Naval Reserve Air Base. He and his wife, the former Polly Lauder, left last night for Raleigh, N. C.

SCOUT MEETING.
BRUNSWICK, Ga., Nov. 20.—The annual meeting of the Okefenokee Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held in Valdosta Monday night, January 19, it was announced at a meeting of the executive board in Waycross presided over by Dr. B. H. Minchew, council president. Officers for the year will be named and plans for the 1942 program will be outlined at the meeting in Valdosta.

NOT IN 13 YEARS of marriage to a famous athlete has Mrs. Gene Tunney been "subjected," she said, to an interview or picture-taking without her husband being present. The Tunneys spent yesterday in Atlanta, he on Navy business and she dodging the press.

At the City Hall

Marvin L. Thomas, engineer of the city traffic bureau, will address members of the North Atlanta Civic League at 8 o'clock tonight at the Masonic temple, Hemphill avenue and Tenth street, it was announced yesterday by C. L. Reagin, president. Thomas will speak on traffic problems affecting the area.

Mayor LeCraw will address the United States Building & Loan Association at Miami December 4 on contractual relations between the United States Housing Authority and the city. The authority recently raised payments in lieu of city tax losses to the full 5 per cent allowed by congressional acts.

Mayor Pro Tem John A. White will take over the city's chief executive chair about noon today. Mayor LeCraw will join a group from Atlanta on a bird hunt in south Georgia, and White will be acting mayor. LeCraw will return to his desk Monday.

New Telephone Directories To Be Distributed

6,150 More Books Will Go to Subscribers Starting Today.

Reflecting an increase in population since last June, Southern Bell Telephone Company officials will send out 6,150 more directories to be distributed today than was sent out last time, R. N. Pfaff, manager, announced last night.

Distribution of 106,950 books will be finished in a week, Pfaff announced. Part of the increase in telephone subscribers may be attributed to the location of many new government agencies here, it was said.

The new directory is green-covered, to distinguish it from the gray one, which the company recommends that subscribers destroy to decrease the possibility of getting wrong numbers.

One of the features of the new directory is the civic section, four pages of information about Atlanta, including a map of the city, historical data, postal regulations and other facts. Subscribers who do not receive their copies by Saturday, November 29, should notify the telephone company, Pfaff said.

Hand Quicker Than the Eye? Well, Youth Almost Proves It

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 20.—(AP)—He changed hands but not eyes.

Iowa selective service officials today told of a prospective selectee who almost got into the Army even though he is blind in the right eye.

During the physical examination, the officials said, a selectee must read the visual test card with the left eye first, covering the right eye with the right hand meanwhile. Then he must repeat the process with the right eye, using the left hand to cover the left eye.

Train Hits Cage Of Circus Gorilla

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Toto, the circus' gorilla bride, escaped unhurt tonight when a train struck and overturned her cage.

Her pet cat, Principe, which had accompanied the big animal from Cuba, was killed. Toto rolled upon the cat as the cage turned upon its side.

Air-conditioning apparatus was put out of order, but Circus Manager George W. Smith said it is not vital in the warm climate of south Florida. Smith said only the fact that the glass of the cage is unbreakable kept Toto from escaping.

Seven Are Killed In Crossing Crash

PADUCAH, Ky., Nov. 20.—(INS) Seven persons were killed today at Oaks Crossing, seven miles south of Paducah, when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a northbound Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis passenger train.

Six of the dead were the parents and children of one family, the seventh a neighbor boy. The victims were: Charles Whalen, 58, residing near Oaks; Mrs. Charles Whalen, 51, his wife; their children, Ira, 16; Wayne, 7; Evelyn, 15, and Juanita, 9, and Randall Petway, 11.

Nazis Producing Giant Cannon

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Colonel Leys, of the German army high command, said tonight that "new giant cannon" were rolling from factories and "will be used in an unexpected manner and to an extent never before witnessed in a final attack to force the enemy to its knees."

Writing in Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter, the colonel declared Germany has "the fastest motorized heavy artillery in the world," and therefore is not dependent upon railways to bring up big guns.

At the end of the World War, he said, Germany had 4,800 heavy guns—all junked under the Versailles treaty. When Hitler came to power the leader immediately ordered heavy artillery, so that the Germans entered the Polish campaign "with several thousands of the heaviest guns—a number far exceeding 1914."

U. S. Officers Aid Training Of Red Fliers

Instructors Stirred by Success With American Planes.

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Colonel Boris Smirnov, commander of the first Russian air force unit to use American-built warplanes, said in an article in Red Star today that two United States Army officers helped train the pilots who now have taken the planes into action.

"Meanwhile, from America new fighting machines are arriving," Colonel Smirnov asserted. "With them we are arming a reserve force—a powerful air army which now is being formed at the rear so that tomorrow it can be taken to the front."

The American officers were identified as Captain John R. Allison, 29, of Daytona Beach, Fla., and Lieutenant Hubert Zemke, 27, of Missoula, Mont.

Partly through their work, Colonel Smirnov related, several air units already have taken over American planes without a single accident.

The Americans, British technicians and a force of Russian fliers got the new planes at a big air-drome built in a swampy region far back of the fighting lines.

As soon as the planes were assembled, Lieutenant Zemke went up for a demonstration flight and then he and Captain Allison began the instruction of the Russian fliers.

The Russians took the planes up for the first time one windy, rainy, raw day.

"I was watching Zemke," Colonel Smirnov said. "He was nervous, smoking one cigarette after another and looking anxiously at the gloomy sky."

Both Zemke and Allison were more cheerful with each succeeding flight as the Russian pilots handled the planes without mishap, Colonel Smirnov added.

He said that by the end of the day each Russian pilot had been assigned a plane, and formation flights were started.

"The success of the Russians sincerely stirred the Americans," Colonel Smirnov declared.

Buy More Cotton, N. J. Is Urged

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Governor Charles Edison called on New Jersey residents today to buy more cotton products to discourage the cotton-producing southern states from becoming competitors in the cultivation of general farm produce.

"Unless there is a great increase in the domestic consumption of cotton," Edison said in a statement, "the farmers of the south will have to enter into direct competition with farmers all over the nation in the cultivation of general farm products. Should this Edison's plea was part of a nationwide program to encourage Christmas shoppers to go in heavily for cotton products. He said, there will be a great economic upheaval in the general field of agricultural commodity prices."

FRUSTRATED PUP—That was Poochie. His mistress, Mrs. Gene Nachtwey, of Chicago, and a wooden salad bowl were the cause of it all. Poochie had been having the time of his life tootin' away on the horn of his mistress' car when she left him locked in while she shopped on Chicago's Loop. Poochie was beginning to acquire conceit about his exploits. One 55-minute tooting session attracted some 100 spectators. But over the horn button went the salad bowl. Poochie pushed, but got only a disgusting silence.

Robert Approves College Plan

streaked into the airport out of the darkness, Regent Robert emerged in a pair of bright red pajamas and accompanied the other regents to a near-by building, where they took a second vote and put eight members on record as approving the resolution.

This brief, secret rendezvous was completed quickly, and in a few minutes Robert was back on the plane, the motors hummed, and the transport slipped away into the night, bound for Mexico City.

This was the second time planes had figured in the epochal meeting. When the board met Wednesday morning and found it did not have a quorum, Vice Chairman E. Ormonde Hunter, of Savannah, grabbed a plane and flew to Atlanta, arriving in the afternoon.

Bizarre Session.

Among other developments growing out of the bizarre session were:

1. The Governor yesterday held the regents meeting was void because he contended a majority of the members was required to constitute a quorum, but Chairman Sandy Beaver retorted with a statement citing the board's authority for holding a legal meeting with a quorum of seven.

2. A copy of the board's resolution was made public, wherein the chancellor and college presidents were authorized to offer re-employment to Dr. Walter D. Cocking, Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, Professor P. D. Bush and the others. This meant, it was explained, that if the president of the institutions recommended re-employment and the chancellor concurred, the educators would be offered their jobs back.

Case of Dr. Cocking.

3. Authoritative disclosure that the case of Dr. Cocking, who has been the major center of fire, is now a closed book because the former dean informed Dr. Herman Caldwell, president of the University of Georgia, that he has a federal job in Washington. Consequently, Dr. Caldwell will not recommend him.

4. Indication that Chancellor Sanford, who has original jurisdiction in the case of Dr. Pittman, will recommend rehiring the former president of the Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro.

Chairman Beaver's committee, which went before the investigating group of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, came back to the board with the recommendation that the chancellor be "directed to offer re-employment to all such professors or assistants (those who were ousted) with a view to having them return immediately to the University System on the same salaries they were receiving when they left, and either to restore them to their former positions or to assign them to such other duties as the chancellor may deem proper and expedient for the best interests of the University System."

Resolution Amended. The board amended this resolution so as to authorize the chancellor "to correct immediately in the manner prescribed by the by-laws and the regulation on irregularities which in his opinion have occurred and to do what is proper and what is for the best interest of the University System of Georgia."

Out of the 10 ousters the chancellor said the only ones he regarded as irregular were those of Cocking, Pittman and Bush and three employees who were removed without cause from the Georgia Teachers College after Dr. A. M. Gates took charge. These were listed as C. M. Destler, Jane Fransoth and Mamie Veazy.

In challenging the legality of the regents' meeting, Governor Talmadge argued the 1937 general assembly increased the number of members from 12 to 16 and that the "trial" of Cocking and Pittman last July the board adopted the rules of the legislature, thereby necessitating nine for a quorum.

Rules for Trial Only. Chairman Beaver pointed out, however, these rules were adopted only for the "trial," and that the rules of the board never have been changed. Article 12 of the by-laws provides seven shall constitute a quorum, while another section provides the board can change the by-laws at any time to require a smaller quorum.

Chancellor Sanford said his recommendations on all ousted educators will be made at a meeting to be called by Chairman Beaver. The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is scheduled to act on the Georgia case December 1-5, although the investigating committee will meet earlier.

Just before he boarded a plane to return to Savannah yesterday afternoon, Vice Chairman Hunter brought up a point that had not been raised before.

Hunter Raises Point.

"In my opinion there is no doubt as to the legality of the meeting held yesterday, but I cannot help but state that the legality or illegality is not nearly as important as the Governor's attitude. In my opinion the most important thing is the Governor's support of what the committee did. What was done by the board would not have a great deal of weight with the Southern Association without the Governor's full support."

The Governor stayed away from the meeting and was instrumental in getting most of his crowd on the board to shun it, too. He was in his office for a while yesterday morning, set a press conference for 12:30, but left before reporters arrived.

Chairman Beaver was in the regents' office yesterday with a full day's growth of beard, having remained up most of the night to attend the airport meeting.

Member of Committee.

He pointed out that Robert's vote was not needed, but that it was desired because Robert was a member of the five-man committee which conferred with the investigating group.

It was reported from Nashville, Tenn., yesterday that the members of the investigating committee for the purpose of drafting a recommendation had been postponed indefinitely because of the death of one of its members—Dr. Richard C. Foster, president of the University of Alabama. President J. J. Tigert, of the University of Florida, will take his place.

In Statesboro, the student council of the Georgia Teachers' College called for the resignation of all regents who failed to attend the special meeting in Atlanta.

John Dunn, of Devereux, president of the council, said letters had been mailed to all absent regents, suggesting their resignation "if you do not have the interest of the University System at heart."

Federal Jury Indicts

Howard Carter at Rome

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ROME, Ga., Nov. 20.—A federal grand jury indictment was returned here Tuesday against a man listed as Howard P. Carter, who is alleged to have sold property which was previously mortgaged to the Farm Security Administration.

The indictment charges that Carter unlawfully sold four bales of cotton November 4, 1939, to R. H. McDaniell, the cotton having been included in a mortgage for a loan from the federal government.

Similar complaints from this section have been heard, Assistant U. S. District Attorney Jim Manning declared.

Mistrial Declared In Witt Will Case

A mistrial was declared in the legal contest to break the will of Mrs. Essie Witt when the jury failed to reach a verdict at 10 o'clock last night in Fulton superior court.

After three days of hearing evidence, the case was given to the jury in the afternoon by Judge Hugh M. Dorsey.

Mrs. Witt made a will, prior to undergoing an operation in a hospital, leaving her property, valued at about $15,000, to her sister, Mrs. J. V. Malcolm Sr.

On behalf of her husband, Carl Witt, Attorney Thomas M. Smith filed a caveat seeking to set aside the will. Mrs. Witt died last November.

Colonel Chases Tank With Pistol

Colonel Seeks To Rout Tank With Pistol

Officer in Bantam Chases Offending War Chariot.

By HAROLD MARTIN.

WITH THE BLUE ARMY IN NORTH CAROLINA, Nov. 20.—The guns are stopping the tanks, but the tanks won't stop.

The result is, according to a lieutenant colonel of an antitank battalion, somebody is going to get poked in the nose.

The officer in question feels very strongly about this matter. In fact, he felt so strongly about it the other day that he was seen pursuing a tank down the main street of Cheraw, S. C., riding in a bantam, or jeep, brandishing a pistol and yelling "halt" like a town marshal chasing a chicken thief.

The tank, it seemed, had come busting straight through a nest of his antitank weapons, paying no attention to the fact that the guns, theoretically, were blasting it all to bits.

Chases Tank With Pistol. "It made me sore," said the antitank man. "I guess I looked silly, chasing a tank with a pistol, but I was mad."

Witnesses to this amazing action agree that this was so. If the tank hadn't stopped, they said, they believe the officer would have leaped from his jeep, seized the tank by the turret and attempted to wrestle it to a halt like a cowboy bulldozing a steer.

It is always this way, the men who man the defensive weapons say, whenever a new assault weapon is first put into action. These powerful steel bathtubs wouldn't stop for the little piles of brush that theoretically were log barricades. They ran on over. So the boys started building real barricades out of trees and when the armored cars tried to go around these, the defending troops would pelt them with rocks. Now the armored cars play according to the rules.

Battle of Cheraw.

The battle of Cheraw, witnesses say, provided one of the funniest instances of the whole war so far. A Blue antitank gun, what the soldiers call a split-tail 75 which can lower its muzzle to fire point blank, was set up at one of the main intersections, close to the curb. A jeep bearing two Red officers and an enlisted man came screaming around the corner on two wheels, and squealed to a stop looking right into the muzzle of the 75 just as the gunner yanked the lanyard. There was a terrific roar and a spout of flame that licked out almost to the bantam's radiator. The car's windshield blew out and it bounced back about ten feet.

PORTABLE LANDING FIELD—Using a portable landing strip set up in 10 days by Army engineers, the air force operating with the First Army Blues in Carolina war games against the Fourth Corps is based at this temporary field near Marston, N. C. The landing surface is constructed of metal gratings, 10 feet long and 18 inches wide, moved by trucks and fastened together after arrival.

When the smoke cleared away the Red officer was seen standing up in the bantam howling at the top of his voice. What in the blankety blank blank, he wanted to know, was this blank blank gun crew trying to do? Kill somebody?

"Sir," said the gunner who had fired down the captain's throat, "All I know is our captain said, 'Bov,' when they come around that corner, let 'em have it. We was expecting you to be a tank."

The tangled state of the front lines in the mechanized war which has seen armored spearheads thrusting far back of the front has resulted in one or two things that would be tragic if this were real instead of mimic war.

The other day, for instance, a battalion of Blue antitank guns were moving along a road when out of the sky 15 dive bombers came swooping down from 10,000 feet. The leading plane dropped a note.

"Each plane in this formation," it said, "is releasing two 500-pound bombs upon you." It was signed by the officer leading the formation.

The antitank crew commander read the note and sent the following message to the Blue Air Command.

"Dive-bombing attack near road junction so-and-so highly successful. But suggest to our bomber squadron it probably would be better to bomb the enemy instead of us."

Press Experience.

This maneuver, like all maneuvers, is both a thing of joy and a disappointment to the press corps here. The other day, for instance, some of the gang went out and came back after witnessing much action. Some had seen the tank attack at Cheraw, a spectacular thing. Others had witnessed dog-fights in the air. Others had watched low-flying attack bombers strafing troops, all good stories.

Another who had been out all day hadn't done so well. He came in at midnight, dog-weary.

"How'd you do?" the others asked. "Wonderful," he said, wearily. After 14 hours of war corresponding along a hundred-mile front, I am now able to report—he thumbed through a note book—"that in the 104th Cavalry a horse named Dumdum has the thumps."

Mount Rushmore Memorial Finished

RAPID CITY, S. D., Nov. 20.—(P)—Fourteen years after the first granite was blasted from Mount Rushmore's face, Superintendent Lincoln Borglum today formally announced completion of final work on the memorial's great sculptured heads.

The last of $836,000 the federal government appropriated for carving the huge images of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt from the mountain has been expended, Borglum said, and the last workman of the crews that began work in 1927 has been laid off.

All but the finishing touches of the memorial were the work of the late Sculptor Gutzon Borglum. To Lincoln Borglum, who had been his father's chief assistant, went the final polishing after the sculptor died last March.

Fugitive Fleeing Police Runs Into More Officers

Patrolmen T. O. Sturdivant Jr. and Roy Etheridge were pursuing an automobile early this morning. The fugitive cut off his lights, the better to dodge the officers.

He went four blocks before a second police car coming from the opposite direction blocked his path. The second police car, unaware of the pursuit, stopped the Negro to learn why he had no lights.

Richard Davis, Boston, Gives Lecture Here

Discusses 'Mental Freedom, Happiness' at Scientist Church.

Richard J. Davis, C. S. B., a member of the board of lecturership, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, delivered a lecture at the Christian Science church last night. Mr. Davis, who was introduced by Mrs. Lella Moore, second reader, said in part:

"Mental freedom, continuity of health and happiness are conditions that every human being instinctively desires but has seldom seemed to attain in any satisfactory measure. For centuries men have worked and struggled for freedom. They have sought in many directions for health and they have tried devious ways to find happiness, but the evidence before us today would indicate that no degree of success has attended humanity's search for these legitimate and altogether desirable states of being.

"It must be apparent to anyone who thoughtfully considers the subject that, if this race had demonstrated the necessary intelligence and understanding, it would have long since attained its goal, and that what is needed is obviously more light—enlightenment.

"Today there are thousands of people who for years have stumbled and walked in mental darkness, and who, figuratively and literally, have lived in the shadow and dread of death, but who are now emerging into light through a rational and intelligent understanding of God, and of what being really means.

"Mary Baker Eddy, the revered discoverer of Christian Science, had from childhood been a seeker after God.

"A tree is known by its fruit, and the fruitage of Mrs. Eddy's great life of service to the race is witnessed in the grateful testimony of the thousands who have been healed and regenerated through the study and application of Christian Science."

Turnip Greens Are Good Buys, Army Believes

Quartermaster Corps Names Other Best Bets for Week.

Whether Georgians enjoyed turkey on President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving Day yesterday or plan to enjoy it on Governor Talmadge's Thanksgiving Day next Thursday, the Army Quartermaster Corps market buyers again put turnip greens and collards on the list of the week's best buys.

Sweet potatoes, cabbage, mustard greens, squash and onions also made the list of good buys, as compiled from information furnished by the Army Quartermaster market centers.

Of Savannah, the buyers reported: "Especially cheap and plentiful are good onions and cabbage, shipped in from Wisconsin. Sweet potatoes, turnip and collard greens, green onions and some cabbage and radishes produced in local growing areas are reasonably priced. New York cauliflower, Carolina and Virginia apples, Florida citrus fruits and California grapes are of good quality and moderate in price."

For Macon: "Collards, turnip and mustard greens, sweet potatoes and cabbage are priced low, in heavy supply, and of good quality. Acorn squash is of good quality and in moderate supply. Good Florida grapefruit is cheap and plentiful. Florida oranges are reasonable and in liberal supply."

For Columbus: "There is a moderate supply of homegrown greens and sweet potatoes on hand at reasonable prices. Good Florida grapefruit and oranges are also reasonable."

McCain Urges Permanent End To School Row

Educator Says Colleges, Politics Should Be Divorced.

Several hundred girls enrolled in state institutions have sought to enter Agnes Scott since the regents' controversy began, Dr. J. R. McCain, president of the school, said yesterday at the Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

The applications were rejected, Dr. McCain said, with the request that the girls wait until the whole matter has been cleared up. The action of these girls shows the demoralizing effect of the state's educational upheaval, Dr. McCain said.

"Faculty members hesitate to attend committee meetings because of the possibility of misinterpretation of their actions," Dr. McCain said.

"If the university schools are dropped from the accredited list, he said, Emory and Agnes Scott will feel the effects through disruption of the plans for the proposed education center here. A discrediting of the board in 1931 Georgia's educational improvements were greater than any other state with the exception of New York.

Dr. McCain said in the next political campaign the regents' issue probably will be injected and he expressed the hope that all factions will unite to clear up the situation and remove the Board of Regents from the domination of one official of the state. He added he hoped that in the next election it would not be just a case of the "outs" coming in, with the state schools still being politically dominated.

Public Aid Asked In Listing of Art

Public co-operation in preparation for the Atlanta Historical Society's catalogue of Atlanta artists with brief biographies and a complete listing of all worthwhile art in the city was asked yesterday by Walter C. Hill, president of the Atlanta Art Association, who has undertaken the task.

In the latter effort, Hill proposes to prepare information on the earlier history of art in Atlanta and to list both publicly and privately owned works.

ROAD MEETING. WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 20.—The city commission will participate in the sending of a large delegation to Atlanta Monday to confer with the Governor and members of the State Highway Board in reference to the modernization of United States Highway No. 1, according to a decision Tuesday night. The city attorney, Q. L. Garrett, and probably others will represent the city.

"If we are to escape this befuddlement of words and avoid prostitution of our rights and liberties through deliberate distortions of meaning, it will not be accomplished by indifference or a lucky accident," he said. "We can be saved only by a vigorous fight against insidious forces already at work, a fight against an enemy unseen, impalpable, but fiendishly clever. At the forefront of this fight stand the shock troops of democracy, the guardians of words, our writers, speakers, editors and teachers of speech and English."

Dr. Stella S. Center, native Georgian and former teacher at Bessie Tift College, now on the faculty of New York University, cited a recent report of the American Association for Adult Education that 16,000,000 Americans cannot read beyond the fourth grade level.

"We are, as a whole, a nation of sixth grade reading skill," she stated. "It requires at least seventh grade reading skill to read newspapers other than tabloids."

Reading Habits Urged. Urging the necessity of teaching reading habits to children and adults alike, Dr. Center said: "We are today a nation of semi-literate, addicts of trivial radio programs, cheap screen entertainment, tabloid newspapers, pulp magazines, mystery and detective stories. And this in a world that is tumbling around our heads and trembling under our feet. The universe is changing from every hour. An educated—a literate electorate —that is the only hope of a democracy, of maintaining our boasted way of life."

Dr. Thomas C. Pollock, of State Teachers College, Montclair, N. J., emphasized the importance of America's literary heritage.

Board of Directors Meet.

"Ours is a Hebraic-Christian-democratic culture," Dr. Pollock said, "opposed by a Fascist culture which is aggressively conscious of the educational means by which its barbarous standards can be made attractive to the youth of the world. The best we know is found in our literature, and can answer the vital questions of the day: What is worth living for? What is worth dying for?"

The board of directors of the council met at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and considered business matters.

The Atlanta Public School Teachers' Association held an informal reception and tea at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Biltmore for the gathering educators and authors.

Weaver, Koch to Speak. Andrew T. Weaver, of the University of Wisconsin, and Frederick Koch, of the University of North Carolina, will speak at a general session in Tech auditorium at 9 o'clock this morning.

Group discussions will be held at 11 o'clock on language, literature, composition, speech and reading.

In addition to the luncheon meeting on "Intercultural Relations," possibilities which have stirred the council's officials, other luncheon meetings will be held at 2:30 o'clock on "Books for Children," at which an "Uncle Remus" program will be presented; "Folklore," "College Section and South Atlantic Language" and "Individual Differences in the West."

Radio Demonstration. At one of numerous large-group meetings, pupils of O'Keefe Junior High school will participate in a demonstration of broadcasting a radio program, followed by classroom discussion.

The annual business meeting will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Biltmore hotel. Changes in the council's constitution are to be voted on.

The annual banquet will be held at 7 o'clock tonight at the Atlanta Athletic Club. The speakers will be John Erskine, noted author, who will talk on "My America," and Mrs. Willie Snow Ethridge, of Kentucky, who will give a "Shop Talk." E. A. Cross, of Colorado State College of Education, Greeley, Col., will preside.

The convention will close with the annual luncheon tomorrow noon.

PLANNED IT ALL—Here are Atlanta educators, some on the committee in charge of arrangements for the English Teachers' convention, which opened yesterday at the Biltmore hotel. Ex-Policeman Found Guilty In Shooting

William Harris Convicted of Assault With Intent To Murder Wife.

William Harris, former city policeman, yesterday was found guilty of assault with intent to murder his wife, Mrs. Mabel Harris, last October 6, by a jury in Fulton superior court which recommended a sentence of eight to 10 years.

Formal sentence will be passed at 9:30 o'clock this morning by Judge Walter C. Hendrix, who presided at the trial.

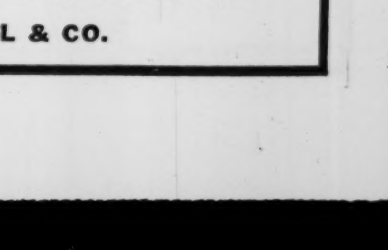

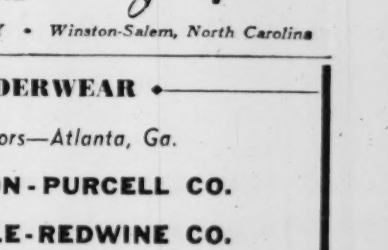

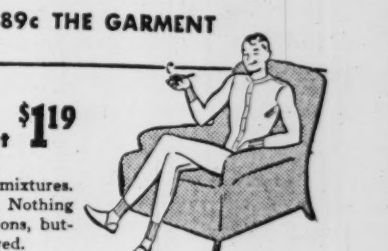

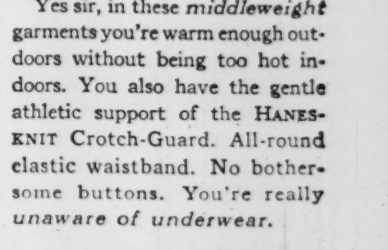

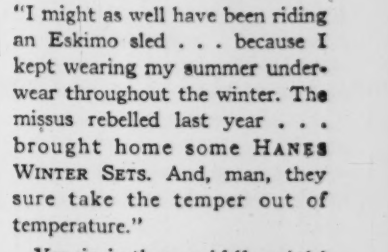

Mrs. Harris testified she had left her husband and that, on the day of the shooting, he came to an ice cream store on Mitchell street, where she was employed, and shot her in the hip. At the time he was a special officer at the Atlantic Steel Company.

According to the testimony of Lewis Watson, Harris fired five shots, only one of which took effect.

H. A. Allen, who represented the defense, pleaded his client was "not mentally responsible" at the time of the shooting.

Georgians Fire Blasts at Lewis

A variety of verbal blasts against John L. Lewis, CIO chairman, were fired yesterday in Atlanta and other Georgia cities, with one organization classing him with "traitors" and others passing resolutions condemning his actions in connection with the coal strike.

The Decatur Rotary Club went on record as condemning the recent actions of Lewis as "entirely unreasonable, unjustified, and detrimental to the safety and welfare of the nation"—especially in this critical time of our national defense program. W. J. Rountree, secretary, announced.

The club also voted to wire Senators George and Russell and Congressman Ramspeck, urging that they use their influence to "sustain the President in putting forward immediate legislation to prevent strikes" and that they "stand behind the President in his rebuke to Lewis."

At Cuthbert, citizens reported as "disgusted at the power and control allowed John L. Lewis" sent telegrams to President Roosevelt, Senators George and Russell and Congressman Stephen Pace, protesting Lewis' acts, and asked that full power be restored to congress and the President.

The Kiwanis Club at Vidalia passed unanimously a resolution addressed to the President protesting against strikes which are "stopping the wheels of industry, greatly hindering progress of our factories and producing Army and Navy supplies."

"We believe," the resolution said, "that the leaders of such strikes are guilty of treasonable attitudes and acts against the common weal and should be publicly condemned as traitors to their country."

This resolution was ordered sent to the President and the two senators from Georgia and to Congressman Peterson, of the first district.

The Cuthbert wire read: "We the undersigned citizens of Cuthbert, are thoroughly disgusted with the power and control allowed John L. Lewis, and we ask that laws be passed to relegate him to the class of traitor and collaborator of Hitler and restore full power to congress and the President so they may proceed with the defense program unhampered."

At Griffin, Judge W. D. Turner, assistant attorney general of Georgia, was quoted as telling the Griffin Kiwanis Club that the federal government should apologize to Al Capone every day so long as "John L. Lewis and his cohorts

Gallup Poll Reveals:

Coal Strike Called Unjustified

By GEORGE GALLUP.
PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 20.—Regardless of how convinced the coal strike leaders are as to the merits of their case, they have apparently not succeeded in convincing the public that their action in calling the strike was justified.

Even when the miners went out on their brief strike in late October—before the dispute had reached an impasse—the majority of voters throughout the nation polled by the Institute felt that the union grievances did not justify striking.

The poll was conducted among a representative cross-section of all income groups during the first week in November—shortly after John L. Lewis had called a strike in the captive mines which led to a truce until November 15. The issue in the poll was:

"Do you think John L. Lewis was justified in calling this strike?"

The results were:

Taking all those who had heard or read of the strike as one group, the division of sentiment was 9 per cent favorable, 74 per cent unfavorable and 17 per cent undecided.

A special analysis was made of the opinions of skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled workers as a group in the survey.

The results show that while this group was more favorably disposed toward the union side of the case than the rest of the country, nevertheless a majority of the worker group expressed the belief that the strike was not justified.

are permitted to act as they are now."

Jaycees Condemn Defense Strikes

The Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday adopted a resolution condemning labor strikes detrimental to national defense.

"First," said a resolution sent to the President, "we feel that it is the constitutional right of every American to work when it is his individual will."

"Secondly, we feel that it is the government's duty to put an immediate stop to labor disputes which retard our program of national defense. Now is the time. Act!"

Halt Rail Strike, Club Asks F. D. R.

Direct appeal to President Roosevelt to prevent the threatened railroad strike was made Wednesday by the Transportation Club of Atlanta in a telegram to the White House.

Apprehension that the government may take over the operations of the railroads was one of the reasons that motivated the message to the President, W. E. Thompson, president of the club, said. The telegram follows:

The Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Washington, D. C.
The Transportation Club of Atlanta, Incorporated, which includes both shippers and traffic representatives of all forms of transportation, oppose any interruption whatever in the present excellent transportation service of the nation and we are unalterably opposed to any change in private management and operation of our carriers. We respectfully appeal for your firm stand in the present threatened rail strike crisis and toward the end that the democratic way of settling these questions be preserved.

The Transportation Club of Atlanta, Inc.
By W. E. Thompson, President.

Copies were mailed to Senators George and Russell, Congressman Ramspeck and 150 Transportation Club presidents throughout the nation, Thompson said.

Huge Convoys Prepared for Libyan Drive

coast and stretching some places several miles inland. Here, where the Phoenicians, Greeks, Romans, Turks and Vandals have come conquering during the pageant of North African history, a great commonwealth army is now gathered for the greatest battle since the Punic wars.

Going far south into the desert from Sidi Barrani last September, I saw sights which stirred my blood but could not be described. Imagine a convoy of 150 great lorries roaring across the vast emptiness of the desert, along a track two miles wide, each lorry raising its own cloud of sand as if a bomb had burst there. It was like seeing 150 battleships at sea, each enveloped in its own smoke-screen.

We would overtake and pass one such convoy and soon after getting clear of the dust we would overtake another or meet one returning. Indeed, it was a sight which stirred the blood, because day after day, week after week, month after month, these convoys were taking supplies of every description and hiding them cunningly away in a hundred places against the day when the armored divisions, tank brigades and motorized infantry would strike.

Our supply train with 50 open freight cars can do the work of nearly 50 lorries.

It is difficult to realize the vast amount of mechanical transport and skilled men needed to maintain a mechanized army in a desert hundreds of miles from civilization. Maintenance alone is an immense task. The task becomes gigantic when it is a matter of attack on big scale.

Hundreds of Tanks.

You need thousands of lorries for rations alone, a thousand for water, a thousand for gasoline and oil; thousands for munitions and hundreds and hundreds for gun-carriers. You have your hundreds and hundreds of armored cars and tanks and many hundreds still to supply the air force.

The great captains of past wars have had to be great administrators with a genius for detail. Today the need for such genius is almost paramount. Incidentally, I believe the British are not inferior to the Germans in organization—once they have enough stuff. This time they have as many war instruments of all kinds as the enemy—probably more planes.

In desert camps from Bagush to the coast from beyond Sidi Barrani and thence to Siwa and Jarabub, at times during the last three months, I have talked to officers preparing this campaign and everywhere I found supreme satisfaction.

Most Seasoned Warriors.

I have talked to men of the great Commonwealth host who are doing the fighting—Britons chiefly, for the armored divisions are entirely British; privates in certain of the most illustrious regiments of England and Scotland, South Africans and Indian New Zealanders and proud Indians from the great warrior state of Rajputana and the Punjab. At the risk of banality, I say their morale is terrific.

Most are seasoned warriors, but thousands are young men smelling the smells of battle for the first time and for the first time experiencing that feeling in the stomach which is frightening in its rather unholly exhilaration, but not otherwise, to most men.

For the first time on land in this war, Englishmen are going to beat Germans.

That England which unarmed but almost gaily took the protection of civilization on its proud and fearless shoulders a year ago last June, when worlds we had known were crumbling, has not only survived; it has renewed its mighty youth and, as I write, is delivering here, in annihilation's waste, the first of that series of lion strokes which will end as this race's long-drawn battles always end.

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 21, 1941.

Libya, Again

Once again the forces of Britain are driving westward across the Libyan desert. Again the familiar names of Tobruk, of Halfaya, of Benghazi, etc., will dot the war news from Cairo and London. Once again the eyes of a hopeful democratic world will turn to the African coast, along the Mediterranean, praying to hear of crushing defeat there dealt the Axis forces.

It is as yet too early to evaluate the full significance of the new British drive. As described by Prime Minister Churchill, in London, modern, mechanized warfare on the desert is similar to battle at sea; it is a problem of wide maneuvers, of sudden attack, of quick decisions, in which tanks and trucks and planes take the place of battleships, of cruisers and destroyers.

For the first time, in this new campaign, a British force faces the enemy on at least equal terms. Thanks to deliveries, via the Red Sea, of American planes and tanks, the armies under General Auchinleck go into battle with mechanical equipment at least the equal of that available to their foe.

There is high reason for hope that Libya will soon again be the theater of decisive British victories, that the occupying forces of Germans and Italians will be driven completely out. It is significant the British are reported to be seeking out for first attack the German units. They believe, once the Nazi divisions there are broken and destroyed, the Italians will be easy prey—just as they were a year ago.

The season of best weather for war, in Libya, has begun. The heat of summer is over and men may face the natural hazards of the desert with impunity. It was undoubtedly to gain advantage of this more equable winter weather the British delayed their onslaught so long. But those waiting weeks were used wisely. It is reported the organization and preparation of the attacking force is well nigh perfect. Certainly, the Axis forces were taken completely by surprise, as the 50-mile advance on the first day of battle indicates.

The value of a great Libyan victory can scarcely be overestimated. It would remove the Axis threat against the Suez canal, lifeline of supply to British forces in the Near East. By the same token, it would keep open an important route to Russia.

Perhaps most important of all, however, is the threat to Italy inherent in a British occupied Libyan coast. That would bring the bombing planes of the RAF within easy reach of the industrial cities of Italy and subject Mussolini's unhappy land to continued and intensified attack from the air.

It is not at all improbable that British air bases directly south of the Italian "boot," would become the spring boards for assaults that would put Italy completely out of the war.

Libya is the new battlefield, the "second front" which may well relieve German pressure upon the Russians. For days, weeks to come, Libya will be the focal point of the eyes of the world. Decisive events are rapidly shaping.

And, as minor but dramatic incident, will come rescue of the besieged defenders of Tobruk, ringed by foes for the greater part of a year.

The civilian defense director, LaGuardia, is under fire by some of the clergy for sending out a canned sermon. No, to be confused with salmon, which is a quartermaster delicacy.

Distinguished Guests

This weekend Atlanta will be host to two groups, holding their annual conventions here. It is rare for any city to be honored with two such distinguished gatherings as these at the same time.

One is the National Council of Teachers of English, with the Atlanta Public School Teachers Association as their immediate hosts. The other is the South Atlantic Modern Language Association, here on the invitation of Agnes Scott College and Emory University.

Both groups center their interests upon words, the symbols of our language, the medium for the interchange of thought. In so doing they deal with something both beautiful and alive. For words and their usage provide the materials with which mankind creates beauty, the media through which he lifts himself above the lower orders of the animal world and makes himself but little lower than the divine.

In words lies the power for all good, or for all evil in the world. In words rests the salvation or the damnation of man. Without words we should be nothing, with proper use of words we may make the angels jealous.

Atlanta welcomes these two groups and accords to them a respect reflected from the high purposes of their organizations.

Hess complains about being confined; also about his prison fare. The case seems hopeless unless someone bakes the fellow a cake, with a saw in it.

Not the Lash

It is gratifying that the joint house and senate penitentiary committee has turned thumbs down upon the proposal to restore the lash as a method of enforcing discipline in the convict camps of Georgia. To have reverted to the barbaric whipping of human beings would have been a step of retrogression that would, rightly, have branded Georgia as lacking in those qualities of the humane which distinguish civilization from savagery.

There are convicts who require stern measures for control. Confinement to "solitary," as recommended by the committee, is ample authority for the competent warden, however, without putting into his hands a weapon which reduces those in his power to the status of beasts of burden, or of the field.

Some of the recommendations of the committee are rather surprising; not, it is true, in themselves directly, but surprising that there should be, in Georgia, any need for such recommendations.

For instance, the committee urges separate sleeping quarters, mess halls, hospitals and other buildings for white and Negro convicts. It will come as a shock to most Georgians to know the races are, as this would indicate, comingled in the camps.

Then the recommendation that wardens be required to visit and talk with prisoners in solitary confinement each morning and evening would be totally unnecessary if the wardens are men fit for their duties. For surely no man could be so lax in care for the human lives entrusted to him as to leave a prisoner in solitary confinement without such regular visits to see that the man was suffering no irreparable harm.

By all means keep the lash away from Georgia prisoners. This state has not yet reached such depths of inability in control of its convicts that it need turn to the knout or the cat o' nine tails to enforce discipline.

It may help—discussing the post-war peace as if it were here—but we wonder. We tried talking of a depression in the past tense, and it hung on for years.

They say science now has isolated particles even smaller than the objects which throw puts out of line for the fussy golfer.

More Muddy Thinking

Governor Talmadge once more revealed a peculiar mental twist when he expressed sympathy with the night-riding Klan floggers of East Point.

How any decent citizen can express such a feeling is beyond comprehension. That the Governor of a state would admit to similar activities is too much even in a state which has been forced to accept so much that is shocking from him.

He indicated he would issue a parole—going so far as to instruct the attorney for Dan Eldon to have a number of preachers prepared to "speak for these men."

Truly is the state of Georgia wallowing in the sloughs of error.

A biologist says there never was a basis for the old fear of an overpopulated world. Hitler's project, of plowing under every third race, can, therefore, be abandoned.

A worker for world amity sees no hope for mankind until it unloads the weapons of war. Also, of course, the dice of diplomacy.

Georgia Editors Say:

AN EXPERIMENT.

(From The Waycross Journal-Herald.)

Canada is trying out an experiment. Beginning November 15 basic wages will be stabilized in all except a few industries.

In addition a bonus on account of the cost of living must be granted wage earners making $25 a week or more.

This bonus amounts to 25 cents a week for each 1 per cent increase in the cost of living.

This order now applies only to the duration of the war and ceases when peace is signed unless otherwise ordered by Parliament.

In its preamble the order says: To achieve a stabilization of wage rates at fair and reasonable levels in the interest of war effort.

The cost of living in Canada has risen 13.8 per cent since the outbreak of the war.

That increase calls for a bonus under this new plan of $3.45 a week.

Four dates in the year are selected for revision of the cost of living bonuses, these being the fifteenth of the months of November, February, May and August.

The wage stabilization order supplies only to firms in which not fewer than 15 men and women are employed, with the exception of the building trades, where the plan is applicable if there are 10 or more employees.

The exemptions include farmers, fishermen, hospitals, religious, charitable and educational institutions not operated for profit.

A board is set up to administer the plan composed of representatives of employers and representatives of employees.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

MISSION WITHOUT OBJECTIVE? WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—If the continued bellicose outbursts from Tokyo government sources are to be accepted at anything approaching their face value, it becomes somewhat of a diplomatic mystery just why the Japanese special envoy, Saburo Kurosu, was ever sent to the United States on a "peace" mission.

According to the announcement from Tokyo at the time, he was sent to Washington to negotiate the basis for a better understanding with the United States in the Pacific. Yet, since he arrived here, both the Japanese premier, Tojo, and Foreign Minister Togo have made highly inflammable speeches before the diet setting forth uncompromising demands upon the United States as the price for peace.

Adding to the mystery is the fact that Special Envoy Kurosu, far as known, did not come prepared to offer any new basis for the negotiations on which he has carried on for several months by the regular Japanese ambassador here, Admiral Nomura. If he brought any, they seem not to have been disclosed yet, judging from the comments coming from the White House and State Department after his initial conferences with President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull.

OFFERED ALL COURTESY It is beginning to look like a diplomatic mission without an objective, although our own officials are not quite ready to write it off as a total loss. Every courtesy will be extended the special ambassador and every opportunity given him to explore the situation for what it is worth. If, in the end, he has any new proposals to make for harmonizing our differences, they will be given patient consideration. But, at the moment, there is still absolutely nothing to indicate that the administration intends to yield any of its determination that Japan relinquish ambitions for complete domination of the Pacific.

Students of Far Eastern affairs say much of the confusion arising from the warlike utterances coming from Tokyo at the very time "peace" negotiations are supposed to be in progress here may be attributed to a lack of understanding of the basic psychology that governs the Japanese mind. They do not mean exactly what they say always. Also, they are suspected of putting exaggerated emphasis on an issue for the purpose of negotiation.

Obviously Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Hull must take this lenient view of the situation, or they wouldn't bother to give the Kurosu visit the serious attention it has commanded.

JAPANESE CUSTOM Much of the same tactics were employed by the Tokyo government in dealings with the Chinese earlier. The same kind of dire threats and grandiose claims of armed invincibility were made then that we are hearing now. It seems to be a Japanese concept of diplomacy, embellished by copying the belligerent methods of Hitler, one of her Axis partners.

PRACTICED POLITICIAN Old-time politician that he is, one who has come up through the stages of the mill, Mr. Hull probably feels that most of the blather talk heard in Tokyo is intended for home consumption, and that the special ambassador now in Washington is authorized to make concessions agreeable to this government.

He is also aware of the peculiar quality of "saving face" that forms such an inbred part of the Oriental mind. If the belligerent tactics of the Japs will enable them to save face in later concessions designed to maintain peace in the Pacific, Mr. Hull is not averse to them assuming this attitude.

Quite a Few

Work Gloves.

Business took me to Summerville and Trion this week. While there I was shown over part of the plant of the Trion Manufacturing Company, where the dairy farm and made my headquarters at the Montgomery Knitting Company, operated by our good old friend, Harvey Phillips. Harvey, you recall, used to sell pianos in Atlanta, and makes children's socks. The best, too.

The chief product of that Trion Manufacturing Company is work gloves. How many of these articles do you guess we use? Well, of course this company is not the only one, but it is the biggest. And they turn out 400,000 dozen per week. Try and grasp that astronomical figure.

I stood in one room of the plant, a room so large you could scarcely recognize your best friend if he stood at one end and you at the other. In the room 1,200 employees, mostly Japs, make gloves of varying types, of fabric ranging from leather to different kinds of cotton material.

I forget how many the pattern machine stamps out at every cut. Way up in the hundreds, I couldn't describe the different styles. You see them, anyway, on the counters of the stores. But the quantities alone seemed to me unbelievable—if I hadn't seen the place.

The company does everything to the cotton. Has its own gin. And takes it through every process to the finished glove, ready for you to put on your hand and go to work.

They make towels, too, though this is but a minor activity compared to the glove-making. They consume something around 80,000 to 90,000 bales of cotton a year. They've just finished a smallish side job, the making of an essential cotton article for the Army, part of the defense industry set-up. A small thing, but the order they have completed was for fifteen millions of 'em.

Fascinating place to visit.

To Save

A Tree.

There is a remarkable item to be noted at the Montgomery Knitting Company in Summerville. Recently they remodeled their building, enlarging and modernizing. There was a particularly attractive tree on the site where their building extension was planned, and they didn't want to cut down the tree. So they built around it. There is a sort of bay, or recess, in the building at that point. It makes an attractive and unusual sight, but you wouldn't find many industrialists who would go to that trouble to save a tree. But, in this case at least, I think it was worth it.

Then there was the dairy farm, owned by the Trion Manufacturing Company people. A modern, perfect dairy farm, where 200 head of purebred Guernseys are kept. Inspected a cow that sold for $8,000 and several bulls worth as much or more. Calves that sell, less than half grown, for from $150 to $1,500, a head. Special buildings for every purpose, even including a cow hospital with a maternity ward.

That is dairying as it should be. Takes a lot of capital, of course, for that scale but any intelligent,

An Ancient

Establishment.

Of course, today's buildings from cotton gin to hospital, are entirely modern. But the Trion Manufacturing Company, they told me, began more than a century ago, before there was even a railroad in the section. When the raw material, the cotton, was hauled in on great wagons and the finished textiles were sent away to market by the same means of transport.

For forty years caravans of these wagons would leave the mill and, each wagon drawn by five or six mules, would make a journey of about 20 miles the first day, to a camp, regularly maintained, about eight miles north of Rome. The second day the wagons would go into Rome, unload and reload with the raw cotton, and return to camp. The third day took them back to Trion.

The name of the company, it is believed, derives from the fact that a trio, three men, founded it just about a century ago. The reason for the choice of location was water power.

Incidentally, the town of Trion has a population of 4,500 and the manufacturing company employs 4,500 people. Many of them, of course, commute 15 or 25 miles daily from the surrounding countryside. And everything in the town is owned by the company. With the possible exception of one house. The department store does $1,000,000 annual business.

Incidentally, the town and the plant is strictly, positively prohibited. Not a drop of any hard-hol beverage to be had. They tell of one hospital attaché, an Atlanta, who came to Atlanta one Saturday night, had a few drinks and, cold sober, returned to Trion Sunday night. On Monday morning he received his late salary check and was politely fired.

Vincent Sheehan, foreign news correspondent, says: "The great London daily papers write, print, and distribute newspapers of a wider range than can be found anywhere else in the world except New York. That is, our best newspapers will suppress nothing and GARBLE nothing in a moment of great crisis."

HAVE NOT EDUCATED

TO PRODUCE WEALTH

Editor, Constitution: May I say the reason why boys and girls quit school at the fifth and sixth grades is because the fathers and mothers are sold on the idea of the kind of education the common schools furnish adds no qualifications to a boy or girl in the field of agricultural and industrial endeavor.

The reason why Georgia is not able to spend more money for education is because education has not furnished a kind of training and equipment which qualifies men and women to produce wealth and increase the taxable property of the state. Wealth comes from surplus production. The average crop production in Georgia is just 45 per cent of the national average. Being primarily an agricultural state, we are not getting ahead in the matter of wealth fast enough to meet the financial needs of our schools, by reason of the fact we have not accumulated the taxable property.

Out of more than 37,000,000 acres of land surface, over 6,000,000 acres has been totally ruined because farmers were not educated and trained to conserve the soils and forests. The rank and file of the people are totally ignorant of the subject of land usage. Timber has been taken off of millions of acres of our lands, which should never have been cleared at all. Thus, these cleared lands have been ruined.

Our lands have become so eroded and poor by reason of the fact people are not trained to conserve the soils, that in 1940 over 750,000 tons of commercial fertilizers were purchased by Georgia farmers at a cost of $15,000,000, and even after this amount of money was spent on commercial fertilizers, our average crop production in this state fell to the low level of 45 per cent of the national average.

In New England the people have been trained and educated to produce wealth. In Georgia, our system of education has contributed the largest possible amount to human misery and soil erosion. When my friends, the politicians, and the newspapermen, get a belly full of pernicious politics and our eternal Negro question, then, perhaps, we will turn to business and begin the creation of wealth so that we will have something to do for the support of our educational system.

HAS THREE RELATIVES

ON PAY ROLL OF STATE

Editor, Constitution: I noticed in The Constitution an article stating that Lamar Coffin, of Richland, Ga., who is a student at Georgia, was organizing a Talmadge Club at the university. Here is the reason for it. His uncle, Billie Coffin, and two of his cousins are employed in the revenue department. And Mr. Talmadge got Billie Coffin to get Lamar Coffin, his nephew, to start this Talmadge Club so as to embarrass the other students that are fighting to rid the schools of Georgia of such a thing as Hitler No. 2, which is a disgrace to Georgia.

PEDESTRIANS PERILED

BY LACK OF SIDEWALK

Editor, Constitution: How long will the taxpayers of Forrest avenue suffer for the injustice of our city fathers? In the widening of Forrest avenue years ago the property owners on the south side of the street were forced by the city to give for sidewalk on the front yards, placing our building, Ridley Court, parallel with the sidewalk, a great disadvantage.

On the corner of Peachtree and Forrest avenue at the intersection of four streets, with both left and right sidewalks, the city is allowing the sidewalk to be fenced in and rented out for the parking of automobile, thus making their taxes out of city property, while pedestrians have to walk in the street.

I am amused at the co-operation of the insurance companies and Mayor LeCraw campaign for saving the lives of pedestrians and the slogan "Walk with Wisdom." It takes more than wisdom to walk from Peachtree to Courtland on Forrest avenue—it takes an acrobat forced to walk in the street to dodge cars. It would be wise of the insurance companies to investigate the danger zones in Atlanta before they co-operate with Mayor LeCraw in their "Walk with Wisdom" campaign.

You can't walk with wisdom on Forrest avenue between Peachtree street and Courtland unless you have a sidewalk to walk on.

We have appealed to the city authorities but to no avail, so now I am appealing to the Pulse of the Public.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

DR. GRAHAM'S LABOR VOTE With this piece I will be done, temporarily at least, with this subject and will move on to others.

Two things frightened me in viewing the coal mine strikes in Alabama and in my talks with people there.

One was the failure of some leaders of labor to see the real problem and their folly in slowing national defense.

The other was the anger and frenzy of some enemies of labor who hate John L. Lewis, not because he has become arrogant and drunk with power, but because he has made successful efforts in the past in behalf of labor.

I don't know which frightened me the more. Some of the voices now in full cry, demanding that John L. Lewis and labor be abolished, are the old voices of reaction which for years have been demanding essentially the same thing.

There is not a single doubt in my mind but that John L. Lewis is a swollen egotist; that he has become arrogant, grasping; that his personal hatred of Roosevelt has led him to use his power in a vicious manner.

I think he was personally and intellectually dishonest in his shift to Wendell Wilkie. In my opinion, he and some other leaders and many of the better-paid workmen have forgot their original ideas and ideals.

So much for that.

To my mind the most significant vote cast against labor was that by Dr. Frank Graham, of the University of North Carolina, as a member of the National Mediation Board. I agree with the editorial comment of the Raleigh News and Observer that his vote meant he simply declined to participate in what he believes to be labor's mistakes.

"TOO BIG FOR HIS BREECHES" Georgians would join the North Carolinians in saying that John L. Lewis has grown too big for his breeches and is a dangerous man.

There are some reforms needed in the labor laws, some vitally needed reforms.

Yet the course of Dr. Graham is the one for thinking Americans to take. He voted against what Lewis calls his union's "legitimate aspirations." He would not destroy labor.

The tragedy of John L. Lewis lies in the fact that he did a good job for thousands of submerged peoples in mines and shops and now allows his personal hates to endanger them. He helped improve the condition of men and women whose lot urgently needed to be improved. Any man or woman who rides the highways of America can see with his or her eyes that we still have a long way to go before we achieve the desired American standard.

One reason John L. Lewis has strength today is that he became concerned with the welfare of thousands of unskilled laborers and was not content merely to be concerned with the well-paid men in the skilled crafts.

Organized labor, under Roosevelt, has made substantial progress. It has been so fast that it was never asked to define itself and its responsibilities.

Like some governors or individuals who attain money and power in large quantities, some labor leaders are abusing that power. Power is a dangerous drug. It often makes for dangerous ambitions, for arrogance, for arbitrary grasping.

That has happened to Lewis and that is the essential tragedy of the man.

LET'S NOT FORGET We must remember that the great majority of people in this country are working people. We are spending billions for defense and will spend more.

Yet there will remain millions of people who will have less to spend and who even now are having to make each nickel count. Labor leaders, in their failure to consider themselves citizens and the welfare of the whole population, forget in their power and demands, the hundreds of businesses are making less money, not more, because of defense. Hundreds of legitimate businesses, with long and honorable records of employment, are seeing their revenues severely reduced. They cannot match the demands and increases demanded by labor. It is a national emergency, and the failure of labor to realize it is the tragedy of the moment. The better-paid laboring man is in danger of forgetting others not so fortunate as such as any employer ever forgot.

Extremists in and out of labor, are making the big noise today. Let us not forget that it is the skills and the strength of labor at machines in England and in this country which make every day more effective the effort to save our way of life and to defeat Hitler and his philosophy.

Sensible Americans will not so lose their tempers, because of the folly of some leaders of labor or the shoutings of the old enemies of labor. The welfare of labor is tied up in the welfare of the whole people and the army of the people. The great tragedy is that some men don't see that, even though they do not see the immediate

No Turkey Hash
For Soldier Lads?
Wire Your Senator

L. K. S., a feminine columnist of the Augusta Herald, who likes opera, symphony and recital and occasionally dives into politics, is incensed. And rightly so. About turkey hash. But she needs no support from me—so I'll use quotes.

"I know what's the matter with soldier 'morale,' that is, if anything is the matter, which I seriously doubt. I read, and doubtless the soldiers also read, that while there would be turkey for Thanksgiving Day, there would be no turkey hash on the day after. Now that is enough to upset any soldier. It would upset me and I am not a soldier."

"One article even said no soldier would be subjected to turkey hash. Now anyone who looks with scorn on turkey hash just hasn't got a cook who knows her business. Properly made turkey hash is quite as good (some say better) than first day turkey. I know one woman who says the chief duty of turkey is to provide the makings for hash. It sounds like the Irish woman who said men were so crazy about widows that the often wondered how any woman got married until she had reached the state of widowhood."

"Now to get back to turkey hash, of course if by turkey hash you mean a few lumps of the tougher part of the bird warmed over and served in an ocean of pale gray liquid, then you are right to scorn it. I have occasionally seen that sort of thing myself. But that is not what my cook means when she says turkey hash and as for the turkey hash which I make, when the cook is out or when she allows me to officiate, well, if you don't like it there is something wrong with you. There is certainly nothing wrong with the hash."

"As to what you add to the hash besides turkey, that depends on how much turkey you have left and how many people you want to serve. If you need to reinforce your supply add mushrooms and if it is a really large and hungry crowd that you are preparing to fill, a can of green peas, the little French ones, is excellent, and cheaper."

"I hope those camp cooks will change their minds and let those boys have a good turkey hash the day after Thanksgiving. If they don't then they aren't fit to cook for those boys."

What About Redfern?

What do you suppose became of Paul Redfern, who flew alone from Brunswick to Brazil in 1927—14 years ago—and disappeared? The story bobs up again because his father died a week or so ago and left Paul $1,000—demonstrating his belief that his son lives.

The news story said nine expeditions had failed to find him in the South American jungles. But one explorer stated definitely he had found the spot where Redfern's plane crashed.

There have been several strange stories since Redfern took off. About a white man who was ruling a tribe in the jungle. That kind of thing.

It works out in fiction. Chap named Scoggins has done a story or two about plane crashes in the impenetrable forest. But I can't see it in fact.

Redfern, I think, was killed in the crash. Or he was badly hurt and died.

Because he was an intrepid and resourceful fellow—and I refuse to believe even the most remote jungle would have kept him from getting back to civilization—or communicating with some white men's settlement. I am afraid Redfern has been buried a long time. But wouldn't it be a great story if he turned up? I'd like to have the assignment for that first interview.

Lord, Save Us!

Taxicab company in Albany, Ga., put an ad in the paper expressing a desire for four women drivers.

Response next day showed 137 women wanted the jobs.

Wartime Meals Monotonous, But Food Is Okay, He Asserts

By J. B. PRIESTLEY.

Copyright, 1941, Overseas News Agency, Inc. (By Wireless).

LONDON—(By Wireless)—What are the worst and best features of our war-time life here?

I shall try to answer this important question as frankly as possible. But I shall confine the answers to ordinary social life. This, obviously, is the worst feature of war-time life—simply the fact that you are at war and not in peace, that destruction and death are always just around the corner and that already you have been thrust into a thousand tragedies. But I expect the reader to assume all that.

Let us begin with the worst features. One of them—and I mention it first because it probably has not occurred to you—is that you lose sight of and touch with your friends. Nearly all old pre-war circles of friendship have been shattered.

This was inevitable. War work scatters us. People seem to disappear for months on end. Even when they do not disappear, they or you may be too busy to see each other. Many of my friends are still in London, and at the present time I spend two or three days in the middle of each week in London, but I rarely see these friends simply because I am overwhelmed with urgent work and so, probably, are they. And there does not seem to be time even for writing letters.

War work keeps many of us moving about the country, and travel in wartime is anything but pleasant. But I have no severely rationed that we cannot often travel by road and the trains, usually very crowded, are slower than they were.

From the viewpoint of maintaining reasonable health, our food is all right and many people are probably healthier than they were before the war. But food is apt to be rather monotonous and dining has largely ceased to be counted among the pleasures.

There is, too, a shortage of tobacco and drink. And holidays are anything but the pre-war scale are, of course, things of the past. Rationing of clothes naturally bears harder on women than it does on men, and the shortage of many household furnishings and commodities worries housewives more than it does their menfolk.

But in many departments of life there has now to be a good deal of "making do," though I am not sure that that does us much harm. But things like automobiles, radio sets and watches that need repair are apt to be out of action now rather a long time. This is especially true of those districts where evacuation has increased the local population but has not produced more local skilled labor for such repairing jobs.

On the credit side, however, is the fact that you need less than you did. A lot of the frills of life are gone, and as far as I am concerned (I am not sure most women would agree with me), they need never return. In many ways life is at once more simple and more sensible than it was before the war. We have stopped worrying about non-essentials. All the small snobberies are vanishing at last. Except for the black-out, the rationing and the rest, I think most Americans would feel far more at home at this wartime in Britain than they ever did before the war. I think some of our visitors have told me so.

There is far less social stiffness and conservatism than there was. People are easier and friendlier, even in spite of the fact that long working hours and difficult conditions may have tired them. Common danger soon creates a fellow-feeling, and this is very marked during periods of intense bombing. Typical English folk are at their very best during a crisis.

Common danger soon creates a fellow-feeling, and this is very marked during periods of intense bombing. Typical English folk are at their very best during a crisis.

On the credit side, however, is the fact that you need less than you did. A lot of the frills of life are gone, and as far as I am concerned (I am not sure most women would agree with me), they need never return. In many ways life is at once more simple and more sensible than it was before the war. We have stopped worrying about non-essentials. All the small snobberies are vanishing at last. Except for the black-out, the rationing and the rest, I think most Americans would feel far more at home at this wartime in Britain than they ever did before the war. I think some of our visitors have told me so.

There is far less social stiffness and conservatism than there was. People are easier and friendlier, even in spite of the fact that long working hours and difficult conditions may have tired them. "from now on...I'm going steady with a HICKEY-FREEMAN SUIT"

"I used to have just a 'show window' acquaintance with Hickey-Freeman suits. It wasn't long, however, before I realized that I must be missing something. My friends and associates who looked the smartest, the best-groomed—who seemed most at ease in their clothes—were preponderantly 'Hickey-Freeman men.' And the way they bragged about the length of service they got from their clothes, made me doubly curious. So the other day I bought a $65 Hickey-Freeman suit—and now it looks like the beginning of a 'beautiful friendship.' For this suit does more for me than any other I've owned—it's a refreshing new experience in clothes-comfort."

U. S. Threatens Break in Relations With Vichy French

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The United States today suspended economic assistance to France's North African colonies, and broadly hinted that diplomatic relations with the Vichy government might be severed because of increasing Nazi domination of French affairs.

In announcing that "American policy toward France is being reviewed," Secretary of State Hull made it clear that the attitude of the United States would be determined by France's future action toward Hitler's schemes "to take over by force or threat of force the sovereignty and control of the French empire."

His statement stemmed from the Vichy government's action in removing General Maxime Weygand as France's pro-consul in North Africa. This step, Hull said, was taken at "the express demand of Hitler" and it was regarded here as conclusive evidence of "collaboration" between France and her Nazi conqueror to the detriment of American interests.

Japanese Talks Continue.

After devoting the morning to the European situation Secretary Hull, disregarding the Thanksgiving holiday, met with Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, the Japanese ambassador, and Saburo Kurosu, special envoy, in another talk designed to find a peaceful solution of Japanese-American tension in the Pacific.

State Department officials said that today's meeting was at the request of the Japanese for the purpose of elaborating further on some phases of the international situation.

In view of Hull's frequent reiteration that the situation in the Pacific was not an isolated diplomatic sector but must be considered as closely tied up with Nazi schemes of world-wide conquest the use of the phrase "international situation" was considered significant as indicating the wide scope of the conversations.

Base Seizure Feared.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull have previously made it clear they were apprehensive lest the Nazis seize control of the French fleet and French colonies providing strategic bases for military operations.

The French fleet, of more than 100 warships of all categories, would provide Germany with a naval force for operations in the Mediterranean, now the scene of a large-scale British offensive.

German bases in French colonies, particularly at Dakar, on Africa's west coast opposite Brazil, and Casablanca, on the Mediterranean, would also be of tremendous military value to the Nazis.

HOPES TO SEE DADDY—Reno Jerome Slear Jr., shown here with his mother, Mrs. Sarah Slear, of Lansdale, Pa., was only a year old in 1939 when his father, Reno Jerome Slear, formerly of Atlanta, disappeared, apparently an amnesia victim. Wednesday a postcard came to Atlanta relatives explaining that the long-lost husband and father had regained his memory. So maybe Jerome will see the daddy he didn't know he had.

British Smash 30 More Miles

appeared to be in command of the main road on General Sir Alan Cunningham's right flank running from Salum, on the Egyptian border, to the Axis position of Fort Capuzzo to the west. Axis tank and transport columns falling back westward into Libya were declared under heavy running bombing attack, but British informants nevertheless cautioned against accepting this as proof of a major retreat.

General Stand Sought.

Neither the British field force, fleet nor RAF, it appeared, was trying to drive the Germans and Italians back so much as to pen them up and force them to make a general stand.

On Sir Alan's left—at the southern end of his 140-mile front—the available information indicated that the British advance was continuing roughly parallel to distant Tobruk, the long-besieged British position on the Mediterranean coast to the northwest, and in this maneuver the British hoped to get behind Rommel while the right wing was beating forward along the difficult terrain in the vicinity of Fort Capuzzo and Halfaya (Hellfire) pass.

German claims during the day to have thrown back strong British forces west of Sidi along Sir Alan's center were waved away in London as of no consequence even if true. For, they said, the British advance in that area had started from south of that point.

"Like Clash of Fleets." It thus was asserted that any German success west of Sidi Omar was local and did nothing to relieve Rommel's necessity to dispatch large forces to the south as the alternative to an interrupted British advance flanking him on his right.

Before the house of commons in London Prime Minister Churchill made it plain that the British were striking for the utter destruction of Rommel's forces, not for terrain, and declared that the action to come was "like a clash of fleets and flotillas, and as in a sea battle all may be settled one way or another in the course of a few hours."

"Marked Advantage" Reported.

Having told the house that Britain's troops already had won positions of "marked advantage," he dispatched to the British commanders, on land, afloat and in the air, a message reminiscent of Lord Nelson at Trafalgar:

"For the first time, British and Empire troops will meet the Germans with ample equipment in modern weapons of all kinds. The battle itself will affect the whole course of the war. Now is the time to strike the hardest blow yet struck for final victory, home and freedom."

"The desert army may add a page to the history which will rank with Blenheim and Waterloo. The eyes of all nations are upon you. All our hearts are with you. May God uphold the right."

Gibbs Memorial Services To Be Held at Jesup

Special to THE CONSTITUTION, BRUNSWICK, Ga., Nov. 20.—

Memorial services for the late Willis Benjamin Gibbs, former congressman from the eighth district, will be held by the lawyers of the Brunswick judicial circuit in the superior courtroom at Jesup next Monday afternoon. Judge Gordon Knox will preside at the exercises.

Before entering congress, the late Mr. Gibbs served for a long period of years as solicitor of the Brunswick judicial circuit. The committee in charge of the memorial services, which bar associations in the 20 counties in the eighth congressional district have been invited to participate in, are Millard Reese, of Brunswick, chairman; J. P. Highsmith, of Baxley; Norman E. Emery, of McIntosh; and Judge D. M. Clark, the latter under whom Mr. Gibbs served as solicitor of the city court of Jesup.

Darlan Takes Full Control in North Africa

Weygand Was Obstacle to German Ambitions, London Says.

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Nov. 20.—(AP)—General Maxime Weygand, regarded as lukewarm to collaboration with Germany, was "retired" tonight as delegate-general and military commander of French North Africa, and that strategic area was placed under the direct control of the pro-German vice premier, Jean Darlan.

The 74-year-old Weygand, who commanded the final unsuccessful Allied stand against Germany in France, sent this farewell message to his African Army and colonial heads:

"Remain faithful to your magnificent traditions and to Marshal Pétain."

Lieutenant General Alfonso Juin, 53, released by the Germans from a prison camp June 16, was sent to North Africa to command the troops there amid indications of increasing French-German commitments.

Reaction Feared.

Informed London quarters took the view that Weygand was removed because he was an obstacle to German ambitions in Africa. The 74-year-old Weygand, who wanted to oust the general for fear of Weygand's reaction should the British succeed in sweeping west across Libya and Tripoli to make a junction with French Tunisia.

Vice Admiral R. A. Fenard, former Weygand aide, was named permanent secretary-general of French Africa, answerable to Darlan. Yves Chatel, assistant governor-general of Algeria, became governor-general.

In French West Africa the military command was given to 59-year-old General Jean Barrau. These changes came as the German-controlled Paris newspaper Nouveaux Temps demanded that France allow "German military collaboration" in French Africa to withstand what it called "British-American attack" and while the British are driving into Libya in eastern Africa.

De Brinon Is Visitor.

In a day charged with diplomatic activity, Fernand de Brinon, Vichy representative in the German-occupied zone, flew to this capital, conferred quickly with Darlan, then returned to Paris.

De Brinon also saw Marshal Pétain. The latter canceled all other engagements and spent most of the day in seclusion.

A new drive began in Africa today against Free French followers of General Charles de Gaulle. In Algiers one man was condemned to death on charges of spying for foreign powers, and another received a 10-year prison sentence.

In Casa Blanca a military court sentenced an air France radio operator to 10 years at hard labor. He was accused of stealing equipment for foreign agents and of seeking to enroll himself as a spy.

at the COURTHOUSE

Tax collections in Fulton county yesterday were $200,000, or 4 per cent, higher than the amount collected on the same date last year, Tax Collector T. Earl Suttles announced.

Judge Jesse M. Wood, in Fulton criminal court, yesterday gave Charles Jones, alias Pervine, a sentence of 12 months in the chain gang following his conviction on a charge of larceny. He and his confederate, Margaret Thompson, who received a 12-month sentence Wednesday, were alleged to have "rolled" C. B. Hall for a wrist watch and $15.

R. M. McDuffie, clerk of the Fulton criminal court and special deputy of Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks John S. McClelland, will conduct an organization meeting of prospective Elks at the Colquitt hotel in Moultrie next Tuesday. The new lodge will be instituted December 5 by former Governor Dave Scholtz, of Florida.

A special meeting of the county board of commissioners has been called for tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. It was understood that the tax collector and assessors would be called to report on the progress of tax collections.

Broadcast To Feature Bishops' Convention

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Nov. 20.—Brunswick and the island resorts will be featured in a nation-wide hook-up broadcast through station WSAV at Savannah, Thursday, December 11, at 12:30 to 12:45 o'clock when Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk, religious news commentator of NBC, will broadcast a description of the Council of Methodist Bishops during their winter conference to be held on Sea Island December 9-12.

This publicity of the locale of the meeting, which is unique in Methodist history, in that the Council of Bishops are holding their conference near the spot where Charles and John Wesley first preached establishing the large denomination of Methodists, as well as in world events, will focus attention of millions on the historic spots that abound in this vicinity.

Keep Your Vows, Bishop Moore Tells Methodists

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

This annual conference session, in the opinion of many regular attendants of the annual meetings, will long remain in the memory of persons present yesterday for the tenseness of the interest in Bishop Arthur J. Moore's statement relative to ministers taking vows to abstain from tobacco-using and then disregarding the vows.

During a 37-year membership in the North Georgia Conference, this Constitution reporter never before observed a more intense interest on the part of the thousands present than when Bishop Moore was speaking relative to violation of the vows to refrain from the use of tobacco. And heartier applause had never been heard in the conference room than when the bishop said, "I am not lecturing on the use of tobacco—there are worse things than using tobacco, and breaking one's vows is worse than using it. Die, or keep your vows." Thunderous applause greeted the bishop's remarks.

Methodist law, since 1918, urges all Methodist preachers to abstain from the use of tobacco. Since the general conference of 1918, the law has been operative that all men applying for admission on trial take a solemn vow before God and man to abstain from all use of tobacco.

RIDING THE CIRCUIT AT THE METHODIST CONFERENCE

BY THOMAS M. ELLIOTT

Members of the East Point First Methodist church thought last Sunday they had gotten their dates mixed, that conference had met and adjourned, and that they had a new preacher—"cause their regular preacher, the Rev. E. C. Wilson, was so dressed up and polished after the similitude of a palace. Here's the secret of the affair: Three months ago the congregation lacked $7,500 of being out of debt. Pastor Wilson told them the money could be raised. One man told him that if he should raise the money before the conference a new suit was waiting him. Another proffered shoes, another a hat, another some shirts and socks and ties. He got the money, and the glad rags. And that's why on last Sunday Pastor Wilson was on a par with Solomon in all his glory.

People ask me where this circuit riding business originated. The answer is in the Bible. I feel that I am following worthy leadership as I ride the circuit in advance of Chapter 7 and Verse 16 in First Samuel are found the following words: "And Samuel went from year to year in circuit to Bethel, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh."

So Samuel was the first circuit rider, and records show that he did a first-class job at it. Circuit riders since then have given a good account of themselves. Francis Asbury was a circuit rider, and the only preacher ever to have the United States government erect a monument in his honor. In his book, "Winning the West," Theodore Roosevelt says American civilization is largely to be credited to the Methodist circuit riders who pioneered 150 years ago.

Last Sunday at the Kirkwood Methodist church Bishop Arthur J. Moore let the cat out of the well-known bag, and thereby brought upon himself more different kinds of trouble than a cat ference to reduce the number of districts from 10 to nine. Methodist law stipulates that each conference may determine the number of districts. The law was later voted 168 to 177 against the nine-district proposal.

The ministers retiring yesterday are as follows: Dr. R. C. Cleckler, of Bolton; the Rev. J. W. King, of Decatur; the Rev. J. O. Brand, of Social Circle; the Rev. G. C. Knowles, of Eatonton; the Rev. G. P. Gary, of Turin; the Rev. J. H. House, of Hogansville; the Rev. Nath Thompson, of Cedartown; the Rev. J. L. Hall, of Mayesville; and the Rev. Walter Millican, of Hardwick. The Rev. B. L. Betts, of Manchester, who had been on the retired list, was returned to active work.

Three Granted Location. Three active conference members were granted location at their own request. They are the Rev. Arthur Kinsey, of Eatonton; the Rev. Lester J. Coe, of Lithia Springs; and Mrs. Leila Fountain, of Atlanta. Bishop Moore announced the transfer to this conference of the Rev. Harry E. Armstrong, from the Southwest Texas Conference. Armstrong is director of music for the Atlanta First Methodist church. He will be a member of the first-year class of undergraduates.

Five young ministers admitted on trial are the Rev. Henry Grady Walker, of Bishop; the Rev. Bascomb Cosby Barrett, of Dalton; the Rev. John Carroll Moore, of Culverton; the Rev. William Earl Strickland, of Brookhaven; and the Rev. William Hoyt Henderson, of Emory University.

Conference debate was provoked by the Rev. R. H. Timberlake, of Winterville, when he moved that the annual conference minutes publish individual reports from each church in the confer-has lives. In brief, here's how it all came about:

The bishop was at Kirkwood to dedicate the first unit of a $40,000 building in process of erection. An immense audience was present, and joy like a river around them bubbled. Pastor J. R. Turner was the hero of the hour. Bishop Moore told the people that an unusual man and an unusual situation had come together. He then took the audience into his confidence, and told them in advance that Pastor Turner would be their pastor for another year.

Methodist procedure, as a rule, is for conference appointments to be kept secret until the closing hour. When the bishop took the Kirkwood folks into his confidence, and told them in advance who their pastor is to be, some between 274 and 276 other congregations immediately want to know who their preacher is to be. So the bishop has his hands full and running over.

Straws are said to indicate the direction of the wind's blowing. The remarks I quote herewith may be considered as indicators of a drift that is not very reassuring. You can figure out their meaning as well as I can.

"Our preacher in four years' time has not called anyone to the altar for prayer; and, so far as I know, no one has held up a hand in request for prayer," thus spoke a layman to me with reference to his church life.

"I have never preached on hell; I do not have a sermon on that subject," a Methodist preacher made that remark.

"In our church the word 'hell' has not been spoken six times in five years," a Methodist steward told me that.

"I come away from church on Sundays hungry for gospel preaching. Our preacher talks about twiddle dum and twiddle dee; but he doesn't give us the gospel. I'm hungry for some real gospel preaching," thus spoke a layman ence. Conference Minutes Editor G. W. Barrett told the conference that such a procedure would nearly double the number of papers in the minute book and almost double the cost price.

Timberlake suggested that $400 be taken from the budget to care for the cost increase, which was declared illegal by Editor Barrett. Dr. A. M. Pierce suggested that the cost price be increased, which Editor Barrett said would make the sales of minutes prohibitive. Timberlake argued that the 720 rural churches should have individual recognition. On motion of Dr. E. Nash Broyles, of Atlanta, the matter was referred to a committee for study and recommendation.

Conference organization was made yesterday by electing the Rev. George W. Barrett, of Atlanta, secretary for his 18th year. Associate secretaries are M. M. Maxwell, C. W. Frazer, William Greenway, Elmer F. Dempsey, J. C. Callaway, P. A. Turner and J. W. Chidsey. The Rev. L. F. Van Landingham, of Lithonia, was named statistical secretary, with associates as follows: R. H. Timberlake, H. H. Blackburn, A. M. Sibley, H. H. Blackburn, R. F. Searns, H. F. Lawhorn, H. F. Barfield, G. W. Davis, J. R. Phillips, V. O. Gentry and A. W. Williams.

Program Features. The conference program for today features an order of the day at 11 o'clock this morning, when special consideration will be given to the theme of Methodism and its world responsibility. Dr. F. W. Mueller, of New York, a secretary of the mission and extension board, is to speak on "Methodism and Missions." Dr. John Gross, also of New York, a secretary of the board of education, will discuss "Methodism and Christian Education." Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory University, will speak on "Methodism and Its Laymen," and Bishop Moore will discuss "North Georgia's Responsibility."

The session last night was featured by the Wesleyan College Glee Club's singing, and the introduction of Miss Catherine Johnson, dean of women at Wesleyan; Miss Annabelle Horn, dean and registrar at the conservatory and instructor in the college; and Dr. Ralph Ewing, director of voice culture.

Highlights in the conference program for tomorrow will be the "Come and Stay Party" to be given by the Atlanta Parsonage Dames at the First Methodist church from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. All ministers' wives are invited guests, and Mrs. Arthur Moore and Mrs. James E. Dickey will be honorees of the occasion. Saturday evening at Wesleyan Memorial church Bishop W. C. Martin, of Omaha, is to address the Methodist Youth Movement rally.

VOCATIONAL SPEAKER. VIDALIA, Ga., Nov. 20.—C. G. Arnette, of Sylvania and Savannah, who is a livestock and permanent pasture specialist, addressed the vocational agriculture students at the Vidalia High school here Tuesday evening. Vocational Instructor Oliff arranged the meeting.

DOCTORS WARN CONSTIPATED FOLKS ABOUT LAZY LIVER
IT IS SAID constipation causes many human discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. BUT DON'T WORRY—
For years a noted Ohio Doctor, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully treated scores of patients for constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists everywhere. Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful! They not only gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO stir up liver bile secretion to help digest fatty foods. Test their goodness TONIGHT without fail! 16¢, 30¢, 60¢.

one of the churches served by the Rev. Frank Moorhead, of Alpharetta. Mount Pisgah Methodists are justly proud of their $7,000 new church building, and through the brilliant neon-lighted cross would declare their faith in gospel principles to all the world. Although they have preaching only one Sunday each month, they propose to let their light shine and not put it under a bushel.

RICH'S STORE FOR MEN

Party for Stuart Broeman Jr. Will Be 'Definitely Yale'

By SALLY FORTH.

... A GALA EVENING is in store for sub-debs and their escorts planning to attend the dinner party at which Stuart Broeman Jr. will be guest of honor this evening in the Mirador Room of the Capital City Club. Hosts at the elaborate affair will be Stuart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Broeman, who are noted for their grand parties.

The party was inspired by the honor guest's return Wednesday from Yale University, where he is a popular student—hence table appointments will be DEFINITELY YALE!

Realists who believe that footballs are always made of pigskin will be surprised and fascinated by one made of fragrant white carnation petals and laced with blue and white ribbons which will be suspended between blue and white goal posts on the table tonight. A bronze Yale bulldog will snarl by candlelight glowing from silver candelabra, and 12-inch figurines, depicting a boy and girl en route to a Yale game, and wearing Yale's symbolic blue sweaters, will be effective additions to the decorations.

Marking each cover will be a placecard supported by a tiny plaster football player in action. Masculine guests will be given white carnation boutonnieres centered with tiny penants in the Yale colors, blue and white, and girls will receive wristlets of white carnations bearing the Yale colors.

Invited are Addalee McDougall, Mary Sutherland, Tatty Shipp, Ralford Ragsdale, Clara Jones, Evelyn Block, Anne Burkhardt, Joan Smith, Mary Alice McDougall, Carroll Smith, Helen Beaudry, Peggy Robinson, and her guest, Vivian Lee Cummings, of Virginia; Margaret Speas, Ann DuPre, Margaret Emmert, Mary Ameline, Ed Gay Jr., Lawrence Harrison, Billy Donnellan, John Westmoreland Jr., Waldo Mallory Jr., Clark Howell Jr., Bill Swanson, Bobby Newman, Ed Rose, Bobby Bruce, Frank Block, Frank Connor, Tom Patton, Sam McConnell, Henry Caulkins and Lloyd Jones.

... HAVE YOU HEARD about the young man who is crashing all the debutante parties? He never receives invitations to these affairs, but when guests begin to arrive, there he is.

The latest is that he asked a certain member of the Debutante Club the date of her coming-out party.

When she answered, he blithely announced: "Fine! I'll be right on hand. So save me some dances."

Do you know that over $300 was cleared at the benefit bazaar given Tuesday by the American Women's Voluntary Services? And that the organization is still in need of some furniture for its downtown office which will be opened soon?

... THE good-neighbor policy aimed to cement relations between the United States and Latin America should receive a decided impetus, now that Raoul Fernandez has volunteered his service to Uncle Sam as a good-will ambassador. For not only is the former Cuban playboy a very personable gentleman, but his suave and polished manner is just what the general would order for a diplomatic go-between.

In order to express the good feeling his countrymen harbor toward Pan-American unity, Senor Fernandez has made a tour of American Army camps, his latest visit having been made last weekend to Fort Benning, which he described as "the

LIEUTENANT AND MRS. RICHARD A. BEARD JR.

Miss Wight Becomes Bride Of Lieut. Richard A. Beard

Arrayed in white duchesse satin and exquisite rose point lace, Miss Selma Hahr Wight became the bride of Lieutenant Richard Alexander Beard, U. S. M. C., of Miami, Fla., formerly of Atlanta, at a high noon ceremony taking place yesterday in the chapel of Glenn Memorial church.

A Grecian urn of white chrysanthemums and gladioli centered the altar, which was flanked on either side by 14-branched candelabra holding glowing white tapers. Dr. Lester Rumble officiated.

Ushers were Steve Bird and E. A. Erwin. Mrs. John W. Cherry, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. She was gowned in victory red jersey, the bodice of which was embroidered in gold and encrusted with a gold bugle beads in a sunburst design. Her pillbox red hat was ornamented with cerise birds, and she carried a tallman and Herbert Hoover roses.

Laleah Alice Wight was bridesmaid for her sister, and was a charming figure wearing a gown like that of the matron of honor. Her bouquet was also similar to that carried by Mrs. Cherry.

Ward Wight Sr. gave his lovely daughter in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his father, Richard A. Beard Sr., who served as best man. The groom wore full dress Marine uniform.

Beautiful Bride. The exquisite blond beauty of the bride was accentuated by her wedding gown of lustrous duchesse satin fashioned with a fitted basque of rose point lace and flowing skirt, which extended several yards in length to form a train. Her veil of illusion tulle billowed from a high-pointed crown of rose point lace, the center of which was filled with fragrant orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white purple-the bodice, which she bought in New York. ... Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mitchell chatting with friends, Mrs. Mitchell accentuating her costume with a shoulder spray of orchids. ... operation between the chapters; Mrs. Robert Hanna, junior chairman, and Mrs. Boyce M. Greer, regent of the Athens chapter, who will discuss juniors holding chapter offices.

Mrs. Erwin Kinne, regent of the Macon chapter and chairman of the junior committee, will speak on why juniors should attend the state conference. Mrs. Albert F. Geesling, of Dublin, will talk on publication of historical records; Miss Lois Hatcher, of Milledgeville, will discuss help with the underprivileged child, and Mrs. Deming Whiting, of Albany, will talk on help with chapter finance.

Welcome to juniors attending the assembly will be issued by Mrs. John W. Rice, regent of the Atlanta chapter. Other messages from senior members of the Atlanta chapter will come from Mesdames Howard McCall and Mrs. Bun Wylie.

For Mrs. Waldrup. Mrs. Robert Edward Holbrook entertained at a buffet supper last evening in honor of her niece, Mrs. Eugene Charles Waldrup, the former Miss Edna Turner.

D. A. R. Juniors To Meet Today

Invitations to a luncheon honoring delegates to the fourth annual state assembly of the junior membership committees of the Georgia D. A. R. have been issued for today by Mrs. Reuben A. Garland, state junior chairman. The affair will be held at Craigie House at 1 o'clock.

Coffee will be served by Mesdames Logan Thompson and Robert Latta. Assisting will be Mesdames Roland Neeson, Robert Perkins, Ben Hines, Zachary Layfield, Carson Smith, Lloyd Davis, Harvey Pate, William Bowers Jr., Forest Adair III, Misses Marguerite McKay and Fan Galt.

Receiving at the door will be Miss Sarah Hoshall, chairman of the Atlanta junior membership committee, Mrs. George Bland Jr., chairman Joseph Habersham, and Mrs. A. S. Cartledge.

Mrs. Garland will speak on membership. Talks will be made by Mrs. Owen McConnell, state chairman of the Junior American Citizenship clubs; Mrs. Leonard Wallace, of Madison, state chairman of the C. A. R.; Mrs. A. S. Cartledge, state chairman of gift scholarships, who will speak on approved schools; Mrs. Albert Sealy, of Cuthbert, Ga., state chairman of the National Historical Magazine; Miss Sarah Hoshall, southeastern reporter for the National Magazine and for Echoes; Mrs. George Bland, who will talk on American Red Cross work as done by her group; Mrs. A. A. McCurry, of the Savannah chapter, who will discuss entertaining soldiers in camp; Mrs. Charles W. Bowen Jr., of the Augusta chapter, who will speak on "Meadow Garden," historic home of George Walton, signer of the Declaration of Independence; Miss Margaret Piddock, of Moultrie, who will discuss patriotic education in the schools; Mrs. Betjel Salter, of Thomaston, who will talk on co-

Additional Fetes Will Complement Season's Debs

A number of interesting new parties are announced today for popular members of the current Debutante Club.

Miss Josephine McDougall and Mary Ellen Orme will share honors at the luncheon to be given by Mrs. Tom Brumby on December 15, and on December 13 Mrs. Tom Cheves will entertain at a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home on Tuxedo road for Miss Betty Hoyt.

Mrs. Walter Elcock has chosen December 22 as the date for the cocktail party at which she will compliment Miss Margie Troutman from 5 to 7 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club.

The dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Mitchell were to have entertained on December 5 for Misses Margaret Harmon, Carolina Yundt and Josephine McDougall has been changed to the evening of December 11. The affair will be held at the Mirador room of the Capital City Club.

Miss Margaret Harmon will be honored on December 2 at a luncheon by Mrs. P. G. Sanford at her home. On December 4 Miss Harmon will be central figure at the party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brooke at the Mirador room of the Capital City Club.

Mrs. H. W. Beers has planned a luncheon for December 5 for Miss Harmon, and Mrs. James Speas gives a tea in her honor on December 16. On December 18 Mrs. Stephens Mitchell entertains at a luncheon, and Mrs. C. D. Harrison's luncheon is set for December 19. She will share honors with Miss Mimi Pappenheimer on December 10 at the luncheon to be given by Mrs. Edward Cauthorn at her home on Peachtree road.

Four hundred members of the married and unmarried social sets were invited to the elaborate tea at which Mrs. Edward S. Wright entertained yesterday afternoon at her Howell Mill road residence in compliment to Miss Josephine McDougall.

Mrs. Wright and Miss McDougall received guests standing in the drawing room before a table adorned with white snapdragons and orchid cosmos.

The tea table in the dining room was overlaid with a yellow Venetian lace cloth and centered with yellow roses and yellow snapdragons. Mrs. Frank Dean poured coffee from the handsome silver service, and Mrs. Calhoun McDougall, mother of the debutante, served tea. Another tea table was placed in the game room. This was adorned with orange gerberas and tallies, and presiding were Mrs. Goodloe Yancey, who poured tea, and Mrs. Sam Johnson, who served coffee.

Anne Rumph and Caroline Sauls received guests at the door, and others assisting in entertaining were Miss Marian Dean, Mesdames Edwin Pough, Henry Poir, Sam Rumph, Louis Smith, W. H. Chambers and H. W. Beers Jr.

Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy, national director and state manager, will be honor guest at the next meeting of American Grove No. 217. Election of officers takes place for next year. Plans will be made for the Christmas tree to be given next month. The attendance contest closes at the next meeting, the winning side to be entertained at the Christmas party.

The Do-All-Tea team girls and Captain Alexander Schofield met recently at the home of Mrs. Jewell Sanders, 504 Jefferson street. Mrs. Ethelene Phillips assisted in entertaining.

Social Courtesies Planned To Honor Football Visitors

Parties galore are scheduled for the weekend of the Tech-Georgia football game, and the city will be thronged with prominent visitors who will form the inspiration for the social affairs.

One of the largest parties planned for Saturday, November 29, is the breakfast at which Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson Sr. will be hosts in the Mirador Room of the Capital City Club.

Distinguished visitors at the party will include former Governor and Mrs. Max Gardner, of Washington, D. C.; Senator and Mrs. Walter George, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Warren, of North Carolina; Congressman Eugene Cox, of Columbia, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Vereen, of Moultrie.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford Ellis have planned a breakfast at their residence on West Wesley road preceding the game, the affair to assemble a group of Atlantans and their visitors for the weekend. Also entertaining at breakfast on that day will be Mr. and Mrs. Ashton Country, who will entertain at the Biltmore hotel.

Included in the list of prominent visitors who will be in the city for the game are Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Driver, of Wilmington, Del., who arrive on Thanksgiving to visit Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dugger on Brookhaven drive. Mr. and Mrs. English Robinson will have as their guest at their Howell Mill

Fraternity To Fete Miss Liz Jones

Four New Shows Are Billed Here; Three Holdovers Listed

'Kathleen,' Starring Shirley Temple, Seen as Hit for Theatergoers; 'Appointment for Love,' 'Hot Spot' Are Other Features.

By DUDLEY GLASS.
Perhaps the most important picture of the movie week which opened yesterday—for the average theatergoer—is "Kathleen," which marks the return of Shirley Temple to the screen.

The Fox has a most delightful picture, "Appointment for Love," featuring Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullivan. The Paramount started a new one, "Hot Spot," with a good cast, instead of its usual hold-over from the Fox. Sticking on are "You Belong to Me," at the Rialto, with Henry Fonda and Barbara Stanwyck; "The Chocolate Soldier," which has moved from the Grand to the Rhodes, and "Swamp Water," starting its second week at the Roxy. They all have been reviewed—and favorably. The Capitol starts a new picture today, "Lacy Scarface," and a stage show called "Memories of Paris."

SHIRLEY, AT 12, IS A NICE LITTLE ACTRESS

I was never a Shirley Temple fan. Because I never did like child actors, singers or fiddlers. But that's water over the mill. Little Miss Temple, now aged 12, has come back to the screen after a rest of 18 months and is playing at Loew's Grand in "Kathleen," with Herbert Marshall as her father. And she does quite well. She is by no means a Betty Davis, but she is darn good—for a 12-year-old. She isn't so kittenish and maybe she isn't so cute—but she reads her lines well and handles her situations well—and she's either going to be a big success as a grown-up or a terrific flop. You never can tell. Marshall has a tough role. Rich and busy father of a spoiled child, who is badly repressed by the governess, she steals away to join her boy friend—an old dealer in antiques, Felix Bressart. He rather overplays a fine character part.

Gail Patrick, the Birmingham brunette, is given her first really good chance in a year or two—and does well with it. Laraine Day, as the doctor and child psychologist, gives a highly satisfactory performance.

I think all the millions who like Baby Shirley will like the new Shirley. I'm not nuts about her—but I never was.

BETTY GRABLE'S LIMBS MAKE 'HOT SPOT' HOT
"Hot Spot," a screen melodrama taken from Steve Fisher's novel, "I Wake Up Screaming," is at the Paramount. Fine bunch of stars—in which the leads are Betty Grable's face and two legs; Victor Mature and Carole Landis.

It's one of those crime stories with comedy—started off perhaps by the "Thin Man" series and added to by Damon Runyon's "A Slight Case of Murder."

The story is good, the plot interesting, the cast excellent. This Mr. Mature is quite a good actor. William Gargan and Alan Mowbray, of course, hold up their ends.

It may not properly be a part of a picture review, but I was interested in the audience reaction to the newsreel. I never heard a man get so many hisses as did our friend Mr. Lewis of the CIO, when he explained, under those beetling brows, just why strikers were wrong, just why strikers were right. He didn't have a friend in the house.

"APPOINTMENT FOR LOVE" OFFERS EXCELLENT ACTING
New picture at the Fox is "Appointment for Love," starring Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullivan. It is most interesting. With two such players it could hardly help being.

Boyer goes up-to-the-minute in this, playing a Broadway playwright and member of "café society" and the night club crowd. He falls for—and weds—Miss Sullivan, a successful woman doctor. There's your angle. He wants to rumba, and she wants to cut out people's insides. And their hours conflict.

Eugene Pallette, the big husky, does a nice job as Marshall's pal around town. Rita Johnson, an up-and-comer, is pleasant as Boyer's would-be roommate.

When you have two married folk living in separate apartments and leading separate lives you have something of a plot. That is it.

Pitts Senior Class To Study Newspapers
Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
PITTS, Ga., Nov. 20.—During the month of December the senior English class of Pitts High school will study a daily newspaper each day. Each pupil will have a copy of a state paper as a text. Emphasis will be placed on the editorial pages.

The objectives of this are to teach a pupil how to read a paper and how to analyze problems they think they will soon be facing as citizens; how to think for themselves and how to become better educated.

Iturbi Pauses Here for Practice

Noted Pianist Turns Out To Be Good Sport

Smiles When Photographer Introduces Him as 'Mr. Burpey.'

By EUGENIA BRIDGES HARTY.
Jose Iturbi, the famous—and some would say "fussy"—Spanish pianist, arrived in Atlanta Wednesday, quietly practiced away at a local piano store nearly all day and departed in a downpour from Candler Field yesterday. He is en route to fill 86 concert engagements all over the country.

On the way to the airport to interview him, we said to ourself here's a guy that you've got to handle with kid gloves. Didn't he get his feelings hurt last summer about the Robin Hood Dale authorities asking him to play on the program with Benny Goodman? And isn't he suing them for $100,000 now, because their apology wasn't nice enough?

Then, too, the city editor had suggested that we have our picture made with him, and we wondered who would get sued next. So we powdered our nose, and prepared for the worst. And the worst happened!

Pressure of Introduction.
First, the photographer in his smoothest manner introduced us to Mr. Iturbi, and he called him something that sounded more like "Mr. Burpey." The pianist did not flinch, but flashed us one of his best smiles. Next the photographer asked him if he would mind posing with his fiddle, as well as us.

Here it became apparent that Mr. Iturbi is a swell guy. He threw back his head and laughed and laughed, and I guess you get the idea. He's most interested in anything that goes on around him. And he doesn't miss a trick.

"Is that a speed camera?" he asked the photographer, who answered in the affirmative—still insisting throughout the interview that the artist's name was a synonym for a hiccup.

Photography is not his hobby, however. Flying is. He has a plane and 800 hours' flying time to his credit.

Says Trains Too Slow.
"Trains are too slow for me," he shrugged, and we can well believe it. He is one of the few artists today, if not the only one, who can conduct an orchestra

Grand Arranges 'Party' for Shirley

A special "Welcome Back" party for Shirley Temple has been arranged by Loew's Grand theater to celebrate her return to the screen, after an absence of two years. She is now 12 years old and two and one-half inches taller, but still retains the qualities that made her the screen's ranking favorite for three years, her studio says.

Her new picture, "Kathleen," which opened a seven-day engagement at Loew's yesterday, gives Shirley her first grown-up part and an excellent chance to display her talents. Her voice has grown with her, and her singing of the new hit tune, "Around the Corner," is one of the highlights of the picture. She is supported by a cast including Herbert Marshall, Laraine Day and Gail Patrick.

As a special showing of "Kathleen," Loew's has arranged for a children's showing of the picture tomorrow morning. The doors of the theater will open at 8:30 o'clock and the show starts at 9 o'clock.

Materials Held Available for New Almshouse

Commissioner Brown Expects County To Exercise Option.

Defense priorities will not stand in the way of the construction of a new county almshouse in the Grove Park section, it was indicated yesterday by Commissioner Charles Brown. He added he understood that the county purchasing agent and county engineer would be able to secure all the materials required, and that, if they did so, the 30-day option, obtained two weeks ago, on the Grove Park site would be exercised. The price of the site is $16,000.

The commissioners voted to remove the almshouse from North Fulton park at the time it acquired the option from the West Side Development Company, overriding opposition by a group of West Side taxpayers, represented by Charles Henry, and by the Atlanta League of Women Voters, which contended that almshouses are obsolete institutions.

Candle-Lit Ceremony Unites Miss Laughlin and Mr. Sharp

A myriad of lighted candles cast a soft glow over the bridal tableau last evening when Miss Frances Irene Laughlin became the bride of James Harvey Sharp at the North Avenue Presbyterian church. Dr. Vernon S. Broyles officiated at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives. The musical program was presented by Mrs. Walter B. Spivey, organist; Miss Charlotte Bruce, soloist, and Steve Owen, violinist.

The altar was banked with palms and ferns and baskets of white chrysanthemums. The family pews were designated by bouquets of white chrysanthemums tied with white satin ribbons.

Alexander L. Lottin was the best man and the usher-groomsman were William T. Bearden and Claude F. Duteil. Miss Jane Sharp, the groom's sister, was the maid of honor, and wore a gown of rose-colored velvet, the basque waist featuring a sweetheart neckline and the full skirt falling in graceful folds. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet tied with blue ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. William T. Bearden, cousin of the bride, and Miss Mary Cheston King. They wore blue gowns fashioned with velvet basques and bouffant skirts of nudesette taffeta. They carried old-fashioned bouquets tied with yellow ribbon.

The pretty young bride entered with her father, Buell Starke Turner, by whom she was given in marriage. Her titian beauty was further enhanced by her handsome bridal gown of snowy duchess satin made with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves that ended in points over the hands. The back of the fitted bodice was trimmed with a row of tiny, satin-covered buttons and the long, graceful skirt fell into a stately train. Her veil of illusion tulle was caught to a hair of shirred tulle trimmed with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried an heirloom handkerchief, which was also carried by the groom's great-grandmother, Elizabeth McClure Sharp, at her wedding. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, the gift of her father, and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies tied with wide satin ribbon.

Mrs. Buell Starke Turner chose for her daughter's wedding a French model of dusty blue crepe and her flowers were talisman roses. Mrs. William Joshua Bush, of Fitzgerald, the groom's mother, wore a costume of blue crepe and her flowers were gardenias.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Turner entertained at a reception in the church parlor. A musical program was presented by Mrs. R. S. Wickham, pianist, and John Osborne, violinist.

The lace-covered bride's table was centered with the tiered wedding cake, which was placed on a mound of white flowers and fern. Silver candelsticks held lighted white tapers.

Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames Henry S. Johnson, I. B. Burton, Sam Hinton and Misses Bernice McArthur, Lucile Towney, Alice Lee Penn, Harriet Fiske and Eleanor Lewis. Mrs. E. C. Turner Dows and Mrs. W. B. Hutcheson kept the bride's book.

Later in the evening the young couple left for their wedding trip to Miami, Fla., the bride traveling in an ensemble of caramel wool trimmed with sable-dyed squirrel, her matching felt hat being trimmed with similar fur. A shoulder spray of violet-throated orchids completed her attire. Upon their return they will reside in Gadsden, Ala.

Out-of-town guests attending the nuptials included Mrs. Buell, W. J. Bush, and Miss Jane Sharp, mother and sister of the groom, of Fitzgerald; Mrs. John L. Towney and Miss Lucile Towney of Akron, Ohio; Warren Slyhoff, of Gadsden, Ala.; Miss Dora Turner and Mrs. Fred Davis, of Rome.

Miss Stevens Is Honor Guest.

Miss Genevieve Stevens, who will marry Lieutenant Bruce Bailey on November 29, was honored at a spinster supper given last evening by Mrs. Wilbur Blackman at her home on West Andrews drive.

The table was covered with a white satin cloth and was centered with an arrangement of gardenias. The guests included the feminine attendants in the wedding.

Tuss McLaughry You could ask twice a dozen coaches his first name and they wouldn't know. But ask them what kind of fellow he is an dnot one of the group would have anything to say against him.

That's the true measure of a man in any kind of profession, and it is consistently so of De Ormond (Tuss) McLaughry, coach of the Dartmouth Indians.

Tuss comes to Georgia today with a football team for the first time. The Big Green will finish their pre-game practice at Athens this afternoon. And they'll be ready, you can safely bet, to present a colorful answer to all the talk of Georgia superiority Saturday at Sanford Field.

One thing about Tuss McLaughry, among many others. He never wails on the eve of a game. He is always cheerful. The boys aren't led to believe they are facing prohibitive odds. They are given to understand they have a swell chance in all their games—and probably that's why they play the sport with such reckless abandon. (Up to now the Indians have cut loose with touchdown dashes of 92, 70, 60 and 40 yards.)

There is never any "defeatist" psychology employed on a McLaughry-coached team. Which makes the present Dartmouth setup just the opposite of what it was when Red Blaik had charge. Nobody was any good. The Big Green would be lucky to have 11 men ready. And so forth. And so on.

But ask Tuss McLaughry, a newspaperman's coach as well as a coach's coach, what he thinks about things, and he'll quickly tell you the boys have a good chance against anybody. It's good common sense.

Famous Personage Except for folks who have moved down this way from New England or other eastern sections, it is quite likely that the name of Tuss McLaughry as a coach is somewhat vague. He has been heard of—and that's about all.

So it might be well to sketch his career briefly, for he is really a famous personage in coaching circles. He spent 15 years at Brown, of Providence, R. I. He was the coach of the famous "Iron Men" of 1929, rated as the top team in the nation. Brown also developed, before McLaughry's time, the coach of Duke, Wallace Wade.

Before McLaughry coached at Brown he gained fame at Amherst college, where he turned out the best teams among the small New England colleges. He also was successful at Westminster college.

A highly notable coaching achievement, and one in which he alone has been successful, was McLaughry's ability to prepare a squad of college All-Stars to beat the New York Giants in the annual pro-college All-Star game in the Polo Grounds last year. The score was 16-7. Coaches such as Jack Sutherland, Jim Crowley and Andy Kerr were unsuccessful.

After completing his education at Michigan State and Westminster college—he played football at both schools—McLaughry turned to the pro game and was a team-

Rest May Help Tired Jackets To Be at Peak

Alex Not Sure It Will Work That Way, He Declares.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY, Assistant Sports Editor.
EN ROUTE TO JACKSONVILLE WITH TECH FOOTBALL TEAM, Nov. 20.—The rain which forced Georgia Tech indoors for their final Atlanta workout this afternoon may prove a blessing in disguise.

In fact, Coach Bill Alexander frankly doesn't know whether it will help his battered Yellow Jackets, who are headed south for their fifth Southeastern Conference game of the season against Florida in Gainesville Saturday. Coach Alex says the lack of hard work this week may have given the boys a badly-needed rest, but on the other hand, it may work in reverse and leave them flat against the 'Gators. Only time will tell.

Anyway, there was little work before 30 men boarded the train early tonight. The team looked at pictures of last year's Florida contest, which it lost, 7-16, and then retired to the gym in sweat clothes to walk through plays and check blocking assignments.

IT MAY HELP. It was the first time this season that the Yellow Jackets have been forced indoors because of the weather. And a lot of folks believe it will help them, as the task of playing Notre Dame, Vanderbilt, Auburn, Duke, Kentucky and Alabama on successive Saturdays was beginning to tell.

The squad is in top condition for the 'Gator game as far as physical injuries go. Only Bobby Sheldon, sophomore tailback, Slim Sutton, senior center, and Pat McHugh, sophomore wingback, have injuries and they are all slight. Sutton, who didn't play against Alabama last week, is back in shape and ready to go.

But whether the team is mentally right for the game remains to be seen. It's been playing 'em tough week in and week out, winning a few and dropping a lot. It's pretty hard to keep an edge up under these conditions.

FLORIDA "RIGHT." Then, too, Florida is expected to be mentally "right" for the contest. It's the 'Gators' homecoming and Tom Lieb's team got a new lease on life by defeating previously unbeaten Miami University last week for the state title.

Of the Tech coaching staff, only Alexander is new to the team. Line Coach Mack Tharpe is driving down in his car and Backfield Coach Bobby Dodd remained behind, expecting his second heir. He plans to fly down Friday night.

The team will arrive in Jacksonville early Friday morning and go to its headquarters at the George Washington. A workout is scheduled Friday afternoon and the Jackets will go to Gainesville for the game Saturday morning.

Players making the trip: Ends—George Webb, Haley Ector, Harry Arthur, Charlie Burroughs and Jack Marshall.

Tackles—Tom Anderson, Charlie Sanders, Sterling Eaves, Jack Heins and Preston West.

Guards—Jack Jordan, Wex Jordan, Ed Ryckley, Harvey Hardy and Elmer Dyke.

Centers—Slim Sutton, Jim Wright, Mutt Manning and Bubber Quigg.

Backs—Johnny Bosch, Davey Eldredge, Bobby Dodd, Jim Kuhn, Al Faulkner, Jack Hancock, Bobby Sheldon, Pat McHugh, Hal Lamb, Ralph Plaster and Wilbur "Stinky" Stein.

Others making the trip include Trainer Claude Bond and Managers Davis, Sanders and Tutwiler.

Florida To Blitz Tech With Passes.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Coach Tom Lieb of Florida, had his best passers throw today in preparation for Saturday's homecoming game against Georgia Tech.

Halfbacks Tommy Harrison and Jack Jones and Quarterback Frank Buell did most of the tossing. Harrison's passes to Forest Ferguson and Miami gave the 'Gators the state title last week, and Lieb apparently planned to place plenty of emphasis on passes against Tech.

Part of today's workout, which lasted until after dark, was devoted to defense against Tech plays as run by the freshmen. Little Harvey Comfort, freshman speed merchant, played the role of Johnny Bosch, and Junior Horsey, former Lakeland High school star, doubled for Tech's Davey Eldredge.

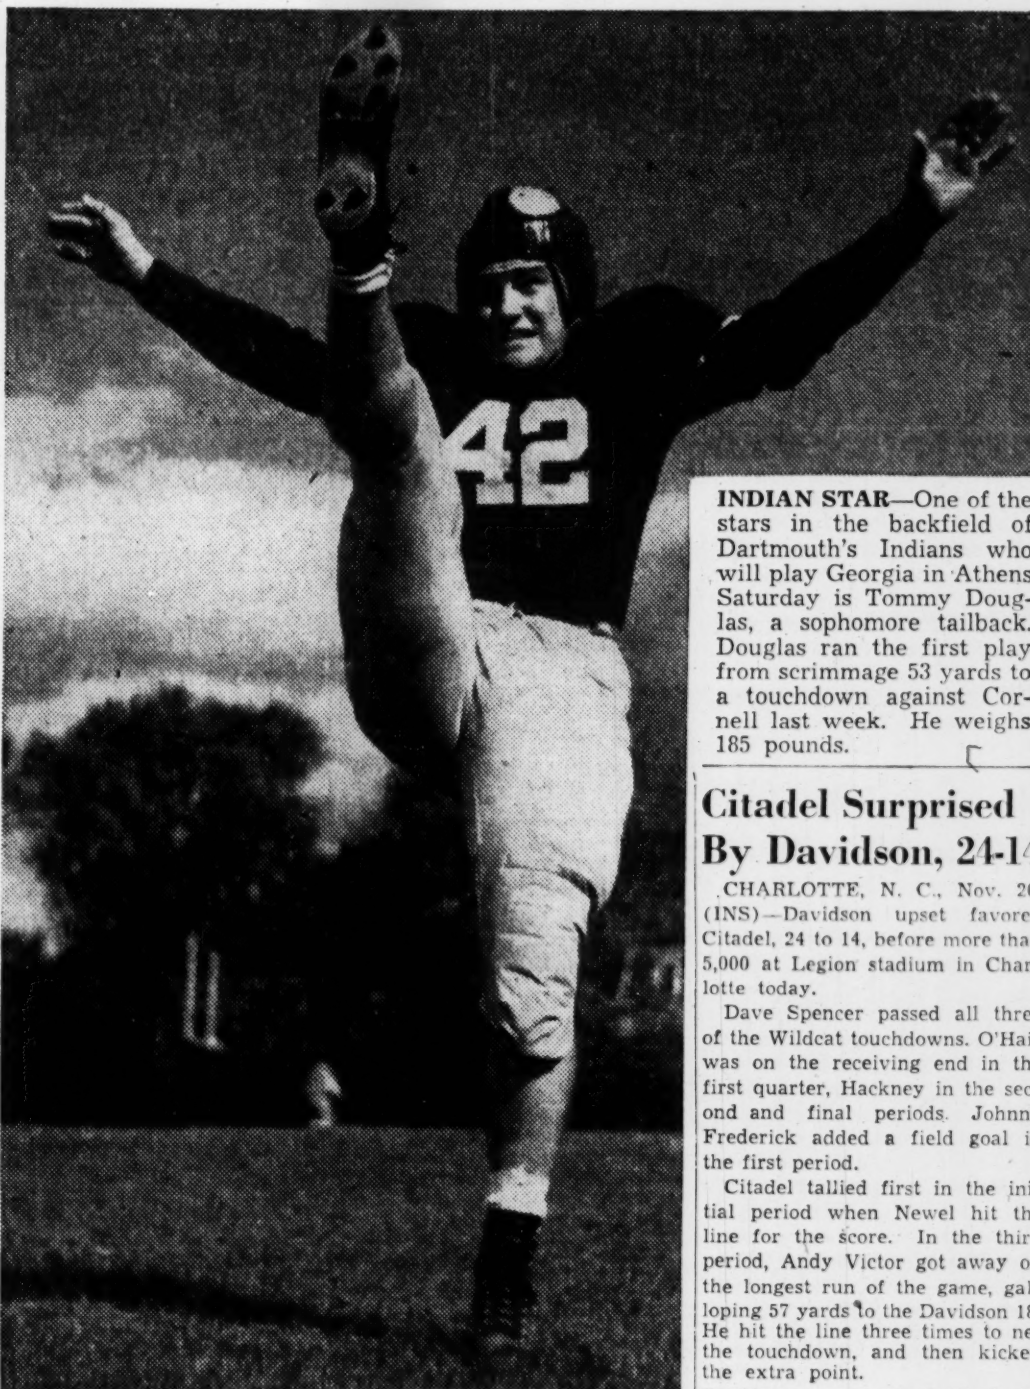

A light workout is scheduled for tomorrow.

Citadel Surprised By Davidson, 24-14

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 20. (INS)—Davidson upset favored Citadel, 24 to 14, before more than 5,000 at Legion stadium in Charlotte today.

Dave Spencer passed all three of the Wildcat touchdowns. O'Hair was on the receiving end in the first quarter, Hackney in the second and final periods. Johnny Frederick added a field goal in the first period.

Citadel tallied first in the initial period when Newell hit the line for the score. In the third period, Andy Victor got away on the longest run of the game, galloping 57 yards to the Davidson 18. He hit the line three times to net the touchdown, and then kicked the extra point.

Purple Line Blocks Extra-Point Try That Would Have Meant Defeat.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.
MERIDIAN, Miss., Nov. 20.—Over here in Mississippi, where they celebrate Thanksgiving on the right day, they were thankful this day for the sea of mud in Ray Stadium that slowed Boys' High's speed merchants to a walk, and aided Meridian High's scrapping Wildcats to gain a 13-13 tie, break the Purple Hurricane's record of 20 straight victories and also their mark of 20 consecutive games in which they had not had a touchdown scored against them.

The Wildcats also maintained their record of never having lost a Thanksgiving Day game on their home field, and had 3,500 partisans frantic with glee in the fourth quarter as they surged from behind a 13-to-7 deficit to a tie and a chance for victory.

BLOCK EXTRA POINT. The Atlanta line rose to the occasion to protect their unbeaten record, however. The whole middle swarmed in to block the extra point try which, had it been good, would have given the Meridians a 14-13 verdict.

Georgetown Trims Manhattan, 7 to 0

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Halfback Frank Dornfeld and Right Tackle Al Blozis gave a very fine football demonstration at the Polo Grounds today in leading the Georgetown Hoyas to a 7-to-0 victory over Manhattan College.

Dornfeld took care of the passing and the kicking (getting off an incredible punt that rolled 83 yards), while Blozis, the huge shotputter, bulwarked a bulky Georgetown line that threw the Jaspers' ground attack for a net loss of five yards during the balmy afternoon. A crowd of 12,000 witnessed the fray.

The Hoyas scored the winning touchdown after only nine minutes of play. Dornfeld, on the Manhattan 14, drifted back and pegged one into the end zone to Lou Falcone, who took it on his fingertips amid a cluster of Jasper defenders. Bulvin added the point.

Boyd, No. 1 Dartmouth Golfer, Will Watch Big Green Battle

Dartmouth's No. 1 golfer, Polly Boyd, will get a chance to see his beloved Big Green in action at Athens Saturday for one of the few times since he left Dartmouth in 1922.

The Chattanooga is the only Dartmouth golfer ever to take the national intercollegiate title. Although he turned the trick in 1922, no Dartmouth man has been able to do it since, so Polly remains the No. 1 golfer of the college after 19 years.

Since leaving Dartmouth, Boyd, 116-pounder, has won four Tennessee titles and he has been a prominent figure in southern golf circles. Not so long ago Boyd, who is 41 now, and his partner, Adrian McManus, of Nashville, advanced to the semifinals of the Southern States Four-Ball tourney for the Bob Jones trophy.

He'll be here tonight for the festivities. His son, Buddy, 14, whom he is training to win the national golf title for Dartmouth about 1946, will be with him.

Dawson Rates 'Bama Better By Thin Margin

Coach Whose Team Has Met Both Thinks Reserves Hold Key.

By GRANTLAND RICE.

The Pacific Coast Conference is too badly tangled in its own title race to watch outside bowl affairs, but the other three bowls will keep a close watch on this week's happenings that may easily have a vital bearing on the program at large.

In the east, unbeaten Duquesne is sitting on top of the bowl map far as her record goes. Fordham, still a leading candidate, must take St. Mary's by a decisive margin to keep her grip.

Missouri, another favorite, should have a romp against Kansas.

But, in the meanwhile, Mississippi must face Arkansas, and a major meeting will be between Alabama and Vanderbilt on Saturday.

Just at present there are strong rumors that Fordham and Alabama are the leading choices for the Sugar Bowl in the Big New Orleans celebration. But Alabama, to reach and hold this spot, must first beat Vanderbilt on Saturday. That may not be as simple as it sounds.

VANDY-ALABAMA.

Red Dawson's Tulane team met Vanderbilt and Alabama on successive Saturdays. Tulane beat Vanderbilt with something to spare, and then lost to Alabama. But Dawson is far from sure that Alabama is any set pick.

"Tulane was at her peak against Vanderbilt," Red says, "and not at her peak against Alabama. I should say we played our best game against the Commodores, and yet it was nip and tuck until we finally wore them down at the finish. Red Sanders has a smart, fast Vanderbilt team waiting for this game—a team that can run and pass. And in Jenkins, Vanderbilt has one of the roughest blocking and tackling backs I've seen—a fellow who makes you remember you've been hit."

"Alabama has a high-class squad. Frank Thomas has three fine players in Nelson, Rast and Wyhomic. They are not outstanding, but they are good. Very good. But Vanderbilt can match them in this respect. I should say Alabama's main edge rests in her reserve strength. Certainly, Alabama's first string is no better than Vanderbilt's."

MORE DIZZINESS. If Vanderbilt should beat Alabama, the Commodores would have a big bowl edge over the Crimson Tide. But if Vanderbilt can turn this trick Red Sanders' team still has Tennessee to face at Knoxville a week later. And this Vanderbilt-Tennessee game is always fought to the hilt.

It is asking too much for Vanderbilt to handle Alabama and Tennessee on successive Saturdays.

But suppose Vanderbilt beats Alabama and Tennessee beats Vanderbilt? This would blow a large hole in the bowl situation, so far as the deep south is concerned. If Fordham is named for

Dartmouth's Sophomore Backs Are Real Threat to Bulldogs

Scout Elmer Lampe Says Troxell, Douglas and Myril Frost Likely To Score From Any Spot on Field.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 20.—Dartmouth's brilliant sophomore backs will offer a real test to the Georgia Bulldogs here Saturday when the Indians attempt to close their season with a victory.

Georgia Scout Elmer Lampe reports Dartmouth has one of the finest trio of sophomore backs in the country—George Troxell, 190, fullback; Tom Douglas, 185, left halfback; and Myril Frost, 175, right halfback. They will team with 200-pound Stub Pearson, captain and blocking back, in the Big Green's backfield.

Troxell is the lad who scored a 92-yard touchdown against Princeton. Douglas and Frost joined his long-distance touchdown club last week with 60 and 70-yard touchdowns runs against Cornell.

A psychological factor favors Dartmouth. Georgia still has Tech to play, but the Big Green is closing out its first season under Coach Tuss McLaughry, and a victory over the Bulldogs would serve as a great climax.

Georgia is on the hot spot, being favored to win.

'Assassin Al' Set To Battle Overlin

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—For years, reports of the socking stunts of Assassin Al Hostak have been drifting out of his native Seattle, until citizens of Bash boulevard have decided he must be Paul Bunyan's twin brother. Largely, these reports have told about how Al lets go one wallop and—that's all, brother.

He's going to tussle with Ken Overlin tomorrow night and from their tea party may come the next challenger for Gus Lesnevich's light-heavyweight championship.

The gambling guys along the 49th street betting stalls lean to Overlin to finish on top. In fact, they like him so well, they've installed him at prices up to 1 to 2 to do that thing to the Seattle Skyrocket, who is making his first major start under the managerial banner of the Silver Fox, Pete Reilly.

Marlin Not Ready Yet, Sanders Says

NASHVILLE, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Gloom spread in the Vanderbilt football camp today as Coach Red Sanders announced that George Marlin, varsity fullback, would not start against Alabama Saturday.

"Marlin has not responded satisfactorily to treatment of a knee injury suffered in the Sewanee game and may not be able to play at all against Alabama," Sanders declared.

The Vandy mentor said he would start sophomore Bernie Rohling at fullback, with another sophomore, Jack McDavid, held in reserve.

City Basketball

In two games staged Thursday night in the Atlanta Basketball League at the Y. M. C. A., Athens downed the Lids from Fort McPherson, 28 to 26, while the Sons of Pericles took Rogers Stores, 30 to 17. The game between White Provision Company and the Rebels of the Civic League was awarded to the former by forfeit.

The game between Ahepa and Lids was close throughout. Ahepa took an early lead but was forced to come from behind in order to win. Economy led the attack for the winners by bagging 11 markers while Butler, of the "Soldiers," tallied eight to lead his mates. The Sons of Pericles and Rogers Stores played even the first half, but in the closing period, the Sons of Pericles took the front by a 13-point margin.

Walter Ruark Pulls Leg Muscle, May Miss Dartmouth Game

Maryland Defeats W. and L., 6 to 0

BALTIMORE, Nov. 20.—(P)—Mearle Duvall of Maryland's Terrapins teamed up with Tommy Mont, sparkling sophomore halfback, to give Maryland a hard-fought, 6-0 victory over a dogged but hapless Washington and Lee eleven today before 6,000 Turkey-Day fans at Baltimore stadium.

The lone score climaxed a 38-yard drive fired midway in the third period by a brilliant 22-yard punt return by Duvall, aided by a hard block thrown by Mont.

Loss of Ace Bulldog Guard Is Heavy Blow

Both Georgia and Indiana Work Out at Athens Today.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 20.—Georgia's battling Bulldogs, all primed for the fight of their lives against Dartmouth's colorful eleven in a Homecoming Day game Saturday in Sanford stadium, took another blow between the eyes today when it became known that "Chief" Walter Ruark, best guard on the squad, probably would not be able to go against the Big Green.

Ruark pulled a muscle in his leg while running plays Wednesday afternoon, but it was not known until this morning that the injury would hamper his playing against Dartmouth.

Trainer Fitz Lutz wouldn't say definitely whether Ruark would be able to play Saturday, but Coach Wallace Butts held little hope. It will be the last minute before a final decision is made.

TOUGH BLOW.

If Ruark is unable to play, it will be one of the toughest of many tough breaks for Georgia. He will be the third regular lost in the last month, joining George Foschner, who broke his arm in the Alabama game, and Dick McPhee, victim of an appendectomy, on the sidelines.

Georgia worked out very lightly today. The entire squad didn't even go down, some of the boys who have been battered about right regularly lately being left in the training quarters.

Those who did work out, drilled in sweat clothes and the entire practice session was devoted to running plays.

Georgia will take a few warm-ups tomorrow afternoon before ending preparations for the Dartmouth game. Coach Tuss McLaughry's club is also due to work out on Sanford Field during the afternoon.

20,000 EXPECTED.

Advance sales of tickets has been slower than usual, University officials announced, but a last-minute rush is expected to show total attendance around the 20,000 mark.

This will be the last home game of the year for the Bulldogs and for those who haven't already bought tickets to the Tech game, it will be the last opportunity to see Frankie Sinkwich and his mates in action until 1942.

Homecoming weekend officially gets under way tomorrow night at the first of four Pan-Hellenic council dances. Practically every fraternity and sorority on the campus is planning some kind of social functions, and all of them will have open houses to welcome alumni Friday and Saturday.

DIES AT GAME.

BOONVILLE, Mo., Nov. 20.—(P)—Coach Ralph Conger, 41, died of a heart attack today while watching his Wentworth warriors battle Kemper in the traditional Thanksgiving Day football game between two military academies.

READY TO RIDE—Wisconsin's chances for an upset over the mighty Minnesota Golden Gophers turn out to be none too bright as Captain Bruce Smith (center) definitely will see action. Fullback Bill Daley (left) and big Urban Odson, tackle, keep Bruce curbed as they prepare for action against the Badgers in their final game Saturday.

Morris Brown To Show Twice In Bowl Games

Most football teams are satisfied with one big bowl game a season, but Morris Brown College, of Atlanta, top-ranking Negro eleven, will play in two—the "Peach Blossom" at Columbus, Ga., December 6 and the "Vulcan Bowl" at Birmingham on New Year's Day.

Morris Brown, winner of eight straight games and defending national Negro football champion, will meet North Carolina College for Negroes, only other unbeaten Negro team, at Columbus. Its Vulcan Bowl foe will be either Langston, Okla., University of Kentucky State College.

Langston, winner of six out of seven this year but never a bowl game participant, probably will get the Birmingham bid if it downs once-beaten Prairie View, of Texas, Saturday. Otherwise, the invitation may go to Kentucky State, winner of five out of seven.

While tentative plans for the Vulcan Bowl were rounded out yesterday, Tuskegee Institute announced it had agreed to play Florida Agricultural and Mechanical College in Orlando's ninth Orange Blossom game. Both elevens lost this season to Morris Brown, but to no other club.

Three Hit Bogey In Play at Lake

Howard Blasts Mercer, 27 to 6

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 20.—(P)—Little Jimmy Tarrant, 147 pounds of backfield dynamite, played only 10 minutes against Mercer today, but that was enough to give Howard Bulldogs 27-6 victory in their Dixie Conference game.

Mercer counted first on a 61-yard pass, Rod Blaylock to Carlos Phillips, and then Tarrant was sent into the game.

On the first play, he slipped through tackle for 12. Then he passed to Jack Hartsfield for 5. After a play into the line, he took the ball, faked a pass, and ran 48 yards to score.

A few minutes later, he passed 34 yards to Hartsfield for another touchdown. In another five minutes, he passed Howard to the Mercer 10, from where Austin Dean counted on an off-tackle slash.

Warren Best, Tarrant's sub, made the other touchdown on a four-yard end run.

teammates hoisted him high over their heads and carried him triumphantly from the field.

The amazing 175-pounder, who looks like Slinkwich and runs like a prairie fire, gained 307 yards running and passing against the hapless Tarheels. He kicked off, converted four extra points and averaged 40 yards with his punts. In the meantime, he was tackling fiendishly and playing smartly on defense.

This 50th meeting between the old rivals was scarcely four minutes old when Dudley rifled a pass 20 yards to Preston, end, in his peculiar side-arm fashion and Preston stumbled the remaining two yards for the first Virginia touchdown.

Two minutes later Dudley ran around end and outdistanced every man on the field in a startling 67-yard drive across the goal line.

Early in the third quarter the Cavalier demon raced 81 yards around right end for his team's third touchdown. This feat completely broke the spirit of the Tar Heels, who were trailing by only 14-7 at the time.

Bullet Bill's passes sparked the fourth Virginia touchdown drive in the fourth quarter and he finally took it across on a two-yard plunge.

The third touchdown in the spectacular first quarter went to North Carolina. From their 40 the Tar Heels employed power, passes and luck to score. Bruce Cox's fourth-down pass was batted into the air by John Neff, Virginia quarterback and Dave Barksdale, Tar Heel back, caught it in the end zone for the touchdown. Captain Dunkle added the extra point.

Dudley was the show. He rushed the ball 195 yards and passed for 112 more. He'll play in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery New Year's. His name in the lineup should be a boon to a ticket sales.

O'Brien's Mark Is Surpassed

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 20.—(P)—It took Wilson (Bud) Schwenk, Washington University's triple-threat halfback, less than a quarter today to throw three forwards and establish a new national collegiate record of 94 pass completions in a season.

Schwenk went into the game against the Missouri School of Mines with 91 completions for seven games against Davey O'Brien's record of 93 with Texas Christian University in 10 games in 1938.

With more than three-fourths of the Miners' game to go and another game against St. Louis University November 29, Schwenk seemed certain to pass the 100 mark.

G. M. A. Battles Morgan Today At Cadet Field

Decatur and Richardson Vie; Tech High Meets Florida Team.

By HENRY DAILEY.

G. M. A.'s Cadets will wind up their home season this afternoon at 3 o'clock when they engage the strong Morgan School eleven from Petersburg, Tenn., on the College Park gridiron.

The Cadets, under their head coach, Captain "Doc" McKay, have had more than their share of the bad breaks in injuries and like and have won only one game this season. However, in the recent tests, they have been showing considerable defensive power and the offense is clicking better than at any time during the campaign.

Despite the fact that Morgan defeated the strong T. M. I. eleven, a team that won a decisive victory over G. M. A. earlier this year, G. M. A. is all set to avenge last fall's 20-0 loss.

Over on the other side of town, Decatur's Bulldogs—Tulane of the N. C. I. C.—will entertain the small but scrappy Richardson High team in a conference tilt. Frank Broyles, "Swede" Olsen and company aren't expected to have much trouble with the Rams, who haven't been able to get started again after defeating Newman High in their opening game. The game is the last on schedule for Richardson, but Decatur has a Thanksgiving Day tilt arranged with Marietta.

Coach Allen Shi's Tech High Panthers will put the lid on their 1941 campaign box in their game today at St. Petersburg, Fla., with the high school of that city. The Blacksmiths, still stunned by their 45-0 rout at the hands of Boys' High last Saturday, will be gunning for a comeback and may give the Florida boys a lashing.

Hapeville High, in the midst of a slump, will end things in their final game this afternoon with Marietta at the Blue Devils' home field. Marist goes up against a strong Lanier High outfit tonight in Macon and North Fulton rings the curtain down in a contest with Glynn Academy tonight in Brunswick, Ga.

Valdosta Clutches To Playoff Hopes

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 20.—The Valdosta Wildcats stayed in the fight to win a place as one of the playoff contestants for the South Georgia Football Association championship by defeating the Albany Indians here Thursday afternoon, 18 to 12. The narrow squeak victory, scored on a long pass late in the game, gave the Cats a record of five victories and one defeat in conference play.

The Moultrie Packers, leading with six wins and no losses, will risk a perfect record at Thomasville Friday night.

with little chance for rest after they arrived here, left the Purple Hurricane sluggish, and the quagmire and a big bruising Meridian line combined to give the visitors a miserable afternoon, though Castleberry, Gordon and Paschal gave flashes of brilliant running and passing that gave the home-ings an idea of how tough the going would have been on a dry field. The phantom Castleberry was hurt in the fourth quarter but refused to come out of the ball game with the game so close and continued to play magnificently to the end.

Meridian ran up eight first downs to five for Boys' High chiefly because little Forrest Page, who scored both touchdowns, ran the ball 24 times to gain 82 yards net. He and that bruising line were the whole show for Meridian.

After being badly outplayed in the muddy first quarter mulling, the Purples got started in the second when Lee Jenkins dropped a 54-yard punt down on the Meridian 16. Shortly afterward Castleberry raced a punt back 30 yards to the home-ings' 35. Castleberry got five and Magbee blistered 22

Joe Kenimer and Maurice Furchgott were particularly vicious on defense, with Furchgott blocking a punt and recovering it on the Meridian 10. That led to the second Purple touchdown, which gave them a 13-0 lead in the third period. Charlie Furchgott was also great on defense, considering he had a painful hip injury. Little Joe Floyd and Gordon Clay were tops at the ends. Ray Smith and Buck Miller did yeoman duty backing up the line, and the punting of Lee Jenkins, who is playing his first game this year since making up scholastic deficiencies, bordered on the sensational.

There was a famous McLaughry innovation in 1932. He introduced the triple-wing attack when he had, in his opinion, the proper backs to make this type of attack go. He used it with great success at Brown.

Today Dartmouth is attacking from single wing, lining up in what closely resembles the Notre Dame box, with a man in motion. The Big Green employs flankers. It's a passing, kicking and running team that leans heavily on flashy sophomores.

The coach is one of the country's best—a man on the giant side, standing 6-4 and weighing over 200 pounds—and he doesn't fear Sinkwich or anybody else in a football suit.

If Georgia wins, it simply will be because Georgia is better than Dartmouth. That's all.

mate of such famous personalities as Knute Rockne and Gus Dorais.

He was president in 1937 of the American Football Coaches' Association and currently is secretary-treasurer of the organization. He's quite a fellow, Tuss McLaughry, and one of the more radical as to coaching technique.

Used Triple Wing Tuss McLaughry is one of the first, if not the first, to have set plays on the kickoff. He had men cross and hand the ball off or fake handing it off and keep it. He had men throw laterals as well. He is rated as an offensive mastermind. Dartmouth today might be unbeaten had it not been for the loss of his own son, Bob, one of the nation's foremost backs. He suffered a neck injury in spring practice and will never play again.

There was a famous McLaughry innovation in 1932. He introduced the triple-wing attack when he had, in his opinion, the proper backs to make this type of attack go. He used it with great success at Brown.

Welcome south, brother!

Tech Departs Georgia Tech rolled south to Jacksonville, Fla., last night. The Jackets conclude their work for the Florida game there before proceeding to Gainesville, where it's home-coming for the Gators on Saturday.

Tech wants to beat Florida and Georgia, thereby closing out the season in a blaze of glory. If the Jackets play the sort of football against Florida and Georgia that they did against Alabama, they might not fail, either.

There wasn't anything like 20 points' difference between Alabama and Tech. In fact, if I were a coach I wouldn't swap that Jacket line if Alabama threw in Craft in the bargain.

yards on three reverses to put it on the eight, before Jimmy Gordon sailed the wet pigskin into Paschal's arms in the end zone. Clay's kick hit the crossbar and bounced back. The half ended two plays later with the Purples out front, 6 to 0.

CASTLEBERRY SCORES. Two plays after the third quarter started, Maurice Furchgott blocked Rush's punt and recovered for the Purple on the Meridian 10. Two plays failed and Gordon rolled to his right and whipped a pass back to his left. Castleberry took it on the goal line and stepped over. Clay's kick was no good, but Meridian was off-side. He booted again—and it was lucky he did—and made the point that later meant the difference in a tie and a loss.

Meridian came back to march 61 yards for the first touchdown against Boys' High since the Miami game in 1939. Two passes from Page to Culpepper ate up 29 yards and after a few short gains a fourth down pass from McWilliams to Page gained the score from 15 yards out with Page running the last 10 yards of the route. Pete Piggott booted the extra point and it was 13-7.

FUMBLE COSTLY. Midway the fourth period the break came when Paschal, who had played a great game, foolishly elected to handle McWilliams' punt as it rolled on the Purple seven. He fumbled and Culpepper recovered there for Meridian. Page crashed to the tying tally on four rushes into the middle. The Purples proved their class by taking the next kickoff and marching 45 yards, with Gordon passing to Kenimer and Castleberry running the ball himself, but his last heave, intended for Castleberry, was intercepted by Smith, who made a diving catch at the Meridian 20, and the game ended a few seconds later.

Soldiers Stand Ready To Go On Strike Call

Camp Forrest Officials Deny Troops Already In Fields.

CAMP FORREST, Tenn., Nov. 20. (AP)—Admitting they were standing in readiness for possible strike duty, officers of the 58th Signal Battalion tonight branded as false reports that their troops had left camp.

Earlier reports from usually reliable sources said part of the 58th, which consists of more than 500 soldiers, had left the camp in trucks bound for Pennsylvania's coal fields.

The officers said their unit as a whole was not expected to be called to duty.

Second Lieutenant Hubert P. Hall, acting adjutant, declared officially, however, that "we have received no orders whatsoever about strike duty." He added: "About half our men and officers are on Thanksgiving holiday leave, the rest are here in the barracks. There has been no special preparation by us for any action, although our outfit always stands ready to move because we have to go on so many maneuvers. Right now, we're carrying on regular training."

Our troops in the camp, besides the 58th Signal Battalion, had reported that field stoves and other equipment were being checked for possible strike duty. Earlier in Washington a defense spokesman had said that "the government will not give in, but it doesn't want to use troops."

This was followed by hints from other defense officials that legislation would be offered shortly for government seizure of the closed workings.

Holiday calm prevailed at headquarters of the UMW, where President John L. Lewis last night gave a blunt, personal "no" to two alternative peace proposals advanced by Mr. Roosevelt. The chief executive suggested a moratorium, for duration of the emergency, on the UMW's union shop demand, or submission of the case to arbitration.

Lewis made it clear that final action must come from the union's 200-man policy committee at its meeting Saturday, but there was not the slightest hope in official quarters that the committee would fail to follow Lewis' lead.

Miss Bellows, 85, Dies at Residence

Miss Marcella R. Bellows, 85, died yesterday at her residence, 1130 Hudson drive, N. E. She held membership in the Presbyterian church.

She is survived by three nieces, Mrs. E. R. Bellows, of Danburg, Miss Alice Bellows, of Danburg, and Miss Lucy Bellows, of Danburg, and two great-nephews, Lunny Venable and John B. Sutton.

The body will be taken to Chattanooga for funeral services and will be held at the residence in charge of arrangements.

Dr. DeBoer Slated For Teachers Post

Dr. John J. DeBoer, of Chicago Teachers College, is slated to be elected the next president of the National Council of Teachers of English, according to apparently authentic "grapevine" reports following an executive meeting of the council's board of directors yesterday.

Extreme secrecy is thrown about the selection of new officers under the council's constitution. Formal announcement of the new list will be made after tonight's business session.

Mrs. R. M. Clayton Dies at Hospital

Mrs. Richard M. Clayton, of 585 Ashby street, S. W., died yesterday at a private hospital.

She is survived by her husband; daughter, Miss Kathleen Askew Clayton; eight sisters, Mrs. E. L. Winslow, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Mrs. A. T. Reeves Sr., of Selma, Ala.; Miss Sara B. Askew, of Trenton, N. J.; Mrs. R. C. Morrow, of Mexico City; Mrs. Z. V. Meyers, of Brownsville, Texas; Mrs. H. N. Clark, of Fairfax, Va.; Mrs. I. W. Summerlin, of Chapel Hill, N. C.; and Mrs. S. Horton Askew, of Rome.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

FARM MEETING.

VIDALIA, Ga., Nov. 20.—Farmers of the Vidalia community met at the municipal auditorium today, where they were addressed by Eugene Brogden, assistant farm supervisor of the FSA setup, who discussed the food for defense planning program. Brogden's office is in Lyons.

Final Rites To Be Held Today for Dr. Foster

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Funeral services for Dr. Richard Clarke Foster, 46-year-old president of the University of Alabama, who died last night, will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in Christ Episcopal church here.

Burial of the university president, who died from creeping paralysis, will be in Evergreen cemetery. The body will lie in state at the school library from 7 a. m. to 10 a. m.

Classes at the school will be suspended throughout the day. The Alabama-Vanderbilt football game played yesterday, Saturday, will be played, however, although the school band will not make the trip.

Governor Frank Dixon and many other prominent residents of the state have arranged to attend the funeral rites.

Warm Springs Patients Defer Thanksgiving Turkey Dinner

Georgians for the greater part yesterday pursued their labors as usual, and even at Warm Springs, President Roosevelt's "other home," the patients at the foundation deferred eating Thanksgiving turkey, hoping that the nation's chief executive may be able to be with them next Thursday.

The President set yesterday as Thanksgiving, but Georgia and 15 other states designated November 27, the traditional last Thursday, as Thanksgiving.

Urgent business at the capital caused Mr. Roosevelt to postpone his annual visit to Warm Springs to eat turkey dinner with patients, but he may be present to celebrate on the Thanksgiving proclaimed by the Georgia Governor instead of the time he set for the observance. Other public buildings were open all day.

Banks, schools and federal government buildings were closed yesterday, but aside from this there was little evidence that the early Thanksgiving was getting much attention. Some absentees were reported at the Fulton county courthouse.

Merchants reported little sales for the usual tastes purchased for the festive day. Soldiers in camps ate turkey, but will eat regular fare next Thursday, as will a majority of Georgia citizens.

City white schools were closed for the day and will remain closed today. Next week, they will be closed Thursday and Friday for Thanksgiving. Yesterday, the closing was for the National Council of Teachers of English, in session in Atlanta.

Only 4 Attend White House Thanksgiving

Small Family Party Shares Traditional Turkey Menu.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(P)—Roast turkey, with giblet gravy, chestnut stuffing and all the fixings, symbolized the celebration of an old-fashioned Thanksgiving at the White House today.

The hour of seven was reserved by the busy President, deeply concerned with the strike and foreign situations, for a small family dinner attended only by himself, Mrs. Roosevelt and their son and daughter-in-law, Captain and Mrs. James Roosevelt.

Much of the day Mr. Roosevelt spent at his desk, as usual, and numerous other government officials, too, found it impossible to take a holiday, including Secretary Hull, who continued his discussions with Japanese envoys on the situation in the Orient.

It was the last of the "early Thanksgivings," an innovation begun by the President several years ago to promote retail-store trade by providing additional time between Thanksgiving and Christmas for Christmas shopping. Next year, he has announced, Thanksgiving will fall on the traditional last Thursday of November.

Thirty-two states celebrated Thanksgiving today, with 16 still holding out for the traditional date.

Ship Grounded, $500,000,000 Spent for Food To Aid Britain

Noted Correspondent Encounters Bad Weather in Washington.

John T. Whitaker, the foreign correspondent, was unable to fill a lecture engagement at Emory University last night when the plane on which he was scheduled to fly here was grounded in Washington by bad weather.

Eastern Air Line officials said strong winds between Atlanta and Washington and a low ceiling here caused cancellation of plane flights both to and from the nation's capital.

Flights through Atlanta and other points were continuing last night and the Weather Bureau predicted clearing weather.

Whitaker was scheduled to have arrived here at 5:15 o'clock in the afternoon. He was to have been the guest of Walter T. Candler while in Atlanta.

Kenyon Edwards, president of the Emory Student Lecture Association, said last night he was hopeful that Whitaker's bookings may enable him to speak here later in the season. The scheduled address was cancelled, with no "pinch hitter" appearing, Edwards added.

Police Chief Bagwell Dies At Gainesville

Rites Will Be Held Today for Officer, Victim of Heart Attack.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 20.—Funeral services for William Daniel Bagwell, 54, police chief of Gainesville, who died last night in a local hospital, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at Central Baptist church, the pastor, the Rev. Jones, assisted by the Rev. C. E. Vaughn, officiating. Interment will be in Alta Vista cemetery.

Chief Bagwell suffered a heart attack last Friday. He was a native of Gainesville, a son of the late R. Truman Bagwell and Mrs. Bagwell. His father served on the police force over 20 years. He himself served 17 years, and was made chief early this year. He was a member of the W. O. W. Surviving are his wife and four children, T. J., Earl, W. D. Jr., and Miss Edith Bagwell, all of Gainesville; three brothers, Eugene Bagwell, Gainesville; Elmer and Felton Bagwell, Atlanta; three sisters, Mrs. R. T. Carson, Mrs. J. R. Pinson and Mrs. T. V. Collins, all of Atlanta.

Miss Annie Sutton Dies at Clarksville

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. CLARKSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 20.—Miss Annie Sutton, cousin of Judge I. H. Sutton, member of the Georgia court of appeals, and a member of a family long prominent in this section, died at her country home near here yesterday and funeral services were held today. Interment was in the local cemetery.

Miss Sutton was a daughter of the late Judge C. H. Sutton and Eliza Byrd Sutton, and is survived by one sister, Miss Fattie Sutton and several other cousins.

Sharp Upturn in Shipments From U. S. Is Reported.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(P)—A sharp upturn in shipments of food and other agricultural products to England was disclosed today as officials made public the first breakdown of supplies actually sent.

The Department of Agriculture announced that 1,650,000,000 pounds of agricultural commodities had been turned over to British officials for shipment in the five-month period from April 29 to October 1. They said the products cost $200,000,000.

Shortly before T. F. Hendrickson, administrator of the Surplus Marketing Administration, disclosed that the $500,000,000 mark in lend-lease expenditures for farm products had been passed this week.

Hendrickson's statement indicated that $300,000,000 for British aid supplies had been sent in the past six weeks, compared with $200,000,000 in the five months prior to October 1. He said that the increased buying program would continue with expenditure of another $500,000,000 by the end of February. Thus, by that date, the government will have spent two-thirds of the $1,500,000,000 provided by congress for purchase of farm products under the lend-lease acts.

Hendrickson, head of the agency conducting the vast purchase program, said that foods "which left our docks before October 1" included 10,600 carloads of dairy and poultry products; almost 5,000 carloads of pork; nearly 5,500 carloads of dried and canned fruits and vegetables; more than 2,900 carloads of fats, mainly lard; almost 1,600 carloads of grains and cereals; more than 5,100 carloads of non-foodstuffs, principally cotton and tobacco, and several hundred carloads of miscellaneous foods.

5 Men Injured In Explosion Near Tate

Track Crew Takes Shelter in Tool House and Blast Follows.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. TATE, Ga., Nov. 20.—Five men were injured, two of them seriously, this morning when an explosion occurred in a small tool house near here, in which they had sought shelter from a rain.

The most seriously injured were Howard Cantrell and Howard Ray, both of Tate, and less seriously hurt were Charles Crow, of Marble Hill; Olin Fountain, of Tate, and Harlie Young, of Ball Ground.

The injured men were taken to the Coker hospital in Canton, where it was reported late this afternoon that the condition of Cantrell and Ray was "only fair," and the condition of the others, severely burned, was "good."

The explosion occurred on the private railroad line extending from Tate eastward to the quarries of the Georgia Marble Company, and all the men were employed on the track crew, it was stated, of which R. F. Key is foreman. At about 10:30 o'clock this morning, the men sought shelter from a rain in the tool house alongside the railroad track. Inside the house, it was stated, there was some powder, which evidently became ignited, causing the explosion. Foreman Key and another employee, Vester Young, who remained outside the building, were not injured.

The injured men were first treated at Whitfield clinic at nearby Jasper and were then taken to the Canton hospital.

Courthouse Quiet On Thanksgiving

Lawyers having business at the courthouse decided to celebrate two Thanksgivings and as a result many of the usually bustling courts were quiet yesterday. Most of those who had cases coming up for trial asked that they be postponed.

Officially, only the county board of education was off, so members of the staff could attend sessions of the National Council of English Teachers.

Offices of the AAA remained open despite the Thanksgiving holiday proclaimed by President Roosevelt. It will observe the state holiday proclaimed by the Governor for next Thursday.

Good used bikes are in demand. They put cash in your hand when offered through the Want Ads of The Constitution.

Thanksgiving

Our Time-Honored Dishes Preserve the Feast Day Spirit

The thoughts of all Americans, now are turning toward the Thanksgiving holiday and the great feast which celebrates the harvesting of crops. Thanksgiving this year will have deepest significance. We are troubled and anxious about many things of grave importance, and it is doubtful whether even the Pilgrims faced weightier problems. But Americans have a way of seeing things through, and though our dinner this year will cost more, we'll manage it somehow and with our families will sit down to a splendid table. Our thoughts will be upon our blessings, not upon our problems at the Thanksgiving dinner. Following are suggestions and recipes for use in preparing your dinner:

To Roast a Turkey.
Select turkey for plump breast and smooth, clear skin. Wash and dry the bird inside and out and rub inside of body cavity with 1 tablespoon salt. Do not salt outside.
To stuff fill neck cavity first and skewer neck skin to back of bird. Then fill body cavity lightly (do not pack dressing in). Sew up cavity and tie feet to tail piece. Rub turkey all over with soft or melted butter, margarine or shortening. Add no salt to outside as salt makes skin blister and break. It may be roasted breast side down for first half of cooking time if the breast seems dry; then turn breast up and finish roasting. Turkey may be basted during cooking with butter melted in a little hot water, if it seems dry. Turkey should be roasted in a slow oven, 325 degrees. Cooking time: A 6 to 10-pound turkey requires 20 to 25 minutes per pound; 10 to 16-pound turkey requires 18 to 20 minutes per pound; 16 to 20-pound turkey requires 16 to 18 minutes per pound.

To Roast Chicken or Other Fowl.

To roast chicken, duck, goose or guinea hen proceed as directed for turkey and allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound in 325 degree oven for these fowl. Duck and goose should be basted with orange juice during cooking.

The stuffing, which to many is the best part of the meal, may be a giblet dressing, oyster, chestnut or any favorite of the family. Choose your stuffing from these:

Savory Giblet Dressing.
3-4 cup butter or margarine
3-4 cup stock from giblets
1-2 cups celery, chopped
Giblets, minced
3 quarts toasted bread cubes
1-2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 onion, minced
Cook giblets in water to cover until tender. Save stock and chop giblets. Add celery and onion to melted butter and cook until onion is clear. Add to bread cubes. Add seasonings, giblets and stock and mix. Dressing should be only slightly moist.

Basic Celery Stuffing.

1-2 cup minced onion
3-4 cup shortening or butter
4 quarts bread crumbs
4 to 6 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
Simmer celery in 4 cups boiling water 15 to 20 minutes. Drain, reserving 1 cup of liquor. Simmer onions in shortening over low heat until tender but not brown. Mix bread crumbs and seasonings. Add celery, celery liquor shortening and onions and toss thoroughly with fork. This quantity will stuff a 10-pound fowl.

Oyster Stuffing.

Use recipe for celery and substitute oyster liquor for celery liquor, then add 1-2 to 2 cups raw oysters to mixture.

Cranberry Stuffing.

Use recipe for celery stuffing and add 1 cup raw cranberries, which have been chopped and combined with 2 tablespoons sugar. Allow cranberries to blend with the sugar while other ingredients are being prepared.

Chestnut Stuffing.

Use recipe for celery stuffing and add 2 cups cooked and mashed chestnuts, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon and a dash of mace.

Next in importance is the cranberry sauce, and here are recipes for making it with and without the whole berry.

Cranberry Mold.

(This makes a tart sauce).
2 pounds (8 cups) fresh cranberries
2 cups water
2 cups sugar
Cook cranberries in water until soft. Add sugar, bring to boiling point and cook until a drop jells on a cold plate. Pour into a mold and chill until firm. Unmold for serving.

Cranberry Jelly.

2 pounds (8 cups) cranberries
3 cups water
Sugar
Cook cranberries in water until soft. Strain juice through a jelly bag. Measure juice and allow 1 cup sugar for each 2 cups. Heat juice to boiling point, add sugar and stir until dissolved. Boil rapidly for 5 minutes. Pour into mold or molds and set aside until firm.

Traditional Thanksgiving Dinner Menu

Fresh Fruit Cup
Oyster Soup
Stuffed Celery
Pickled Onions Olives
Roast Turkey with Chestnut Stuffing
Mashed Sweet Potatoes
Cauliflower
Cranberry Sauce
Pumpkin Pie
Nuts Mints
Coffee

The scene at right will be enacted in many a home as America prepares to observe Thanksgiving Day. The noble bird should come to the table beautifully brown. Corn stuffed tomatoes surround the one below.

Economy Steamed Pudding

A steamed pudding may be your choice for Thanksgiving dessert. You may buy excellent canned ones or buy your own. This pudding is good and inexpensive.

Steamed Carrot Pudding.
1 cup grated raw carrots
1 cup grated raw potatoes
1 teaspoon mixed ground spices
1 cup brown sugar, packed
1 tablespoon margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup seeded raisins, lightly floured
Combine carrots, potatoes, spices, sugar and margarine. Add the mixed and sifted dry ingredients and the raisins. Place in lightly greased pudding mold; cover tightly with heavy waxed paper and steam in flat pan which contains enough water to come to half depth on the mold. Steam for about 2 1/2 hours. Remove from water and take off waxed paper the last 10 or 15 minutes.

Below: Steamed pudding with lemon sauce.

Fruit Relishes To Go With Meats

Cranberry Orange Relish.

1 orange
1 can jellied cranberry sauce
Put orange, rind and all through food chopper. Crush cranberry sauce with fork and mix with orange. Let stand 1 hour before serving. Keep in refrigerator until ready to use.

Cranberry Pineapple Relish.

1 can jellied cranberry sauce
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple, drained
Rinds of 2 oranges, grated
Crush cranberry sauce with fork and mix well with pineapple and orange rind. Place in refrigerator until ready to use.

If your family is small perhaps a roast will be your choice for Thanksgiving dinner. Above, slices of roast pork are garnished with parsley and served with dishes of tart fruit relish. Recipes for the relish are given above.

Using Leftovers

The days immediately following Thanksgiving may be lean ones for the housekeeper's budget and every bit of the Thanksgiving dinner will have to be utilized. These suggestions may be of help in achieving this purpose:

Creamed Turkey With Macaroni.

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
1 pint milk, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 cup milk
1 cup turkey broth
2 cups cooked turkey
1-2 cups cooked macaroni
Melt butter and add flour; blend. Combine milk and broth and cook slowly, stirring, for three minutes. Add turkey and macaroni and pile into baking dish. Bake in moderate oven 25 to 30 minutes. Serve 6 to 8.

Use any stewed or canned fruit for this. You'll need 1 cupful. Crumble several graham crackers and 1 large slice of day-old bread into fine crumbs and mix with 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, and 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon. Spread a thin layer of this mixture in a small baking dish, add half the fruit, another layer of crumbs, then the rest of the fruit. Pour 1-2 cup fruit juice over this and bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, for 20 minutes. Serve warm with cream.

Country Loaf.

Combine any left-over meat and vegetables, carrots, peas, celery, etc., about 4 cups mixed, with 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 egg and seasonings. Moisten with 1 can mushroom soup and press into loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven until firm, about 40 minutes.

Supposing the refrigerator has some of these items in varying quantities: Peas, beans, potatoes, beets, celery, cooked onions, corn, fish, liver, tongue or sausage, a single chop, a fragment of ham, cheese or macaroni and so on. Combinations of these may be used in the following ways:

1. Chop or grind and mix with mayonnaise. Spread on white or brown bread as sandwiches and saute in shortening in a shallow frying utensil.

2. Grind the left-overs and fry in hot shortening, calling the mixture hash. If the mixture is dry, bind with an egg, a few drops of cream or melted butter.

3. With a medium white sauce, combine the left-overs, letting them stand until firm. Mold into shapes, dip in powdered crumbs and fry in shallow shortening, calling the dish croquettes.

Ideas From A Cook's Notebook

Lentil Soup.

Pick over 1-2 cups lentils (or split peas), cover with cold water and soak overnight or for several hours. Drain, put in a saucepan, add 2 quarts cold water, 1-2 cup diced bacon, a large onion sliced, 1 carrot cut in dice, a handful of celery leaves and a very small piece of bayleaf. Cover and cook slowly for about 2 hours or until the lentils are very tender. Rub through a coarse strainer and season with salt and pepper before serving. Serve with a thin slice of lemon in each plate. If desired the bacon may be omitted and 1-4 cup butter added, or omit the bacon and add a small ham bone or scraps of boiled ham.

Limas With Sausage.

1-2 pound sausage
1 medium sized onion
1 cup cooked, dried lima beans
1 cup tomatoes
1-2 teaspoon chili powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
Fry onion and sausage until well done. Add other ingredients and simmer for 30 minutes.

A jellied carrot salad is crisp and light and, importantly, adds no weight to an otherwise heavy meal.

Jellied Carrot Salad.

Grate crisp raw carrots to make 2 cups. Mix a package of lemon gelatin with 1-2 cups hot water and stir until dissolved. Add 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon worcestershire sauce and 1-2 teaspoon grated onion. When cool add the grated carrot, 1-2 cup celery and 1 tablespoon parsley, coarsely chopped. Makes 6 individual molds. Serve on crisp lettuce or endive and garnish with a piece of pimiento.

Fish-Potato Pie.

1/4 teaspoon salt.
1/4 cup cooked green peas.
1 tablespoon grated onion.
1 tablespoon minced green pepper.
1 cup well-seasoned mashed potatoes.
Cream sauce:
2 tablespoons flour.
2 tablespoons shortening.
1 cup milk.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
Use all shortening or part butter and shortening. Blend it with flour in a heavy fry pan. Add salt and gradually blend with milk, stirring until creamy. Add all ingredients, except potatoes and heat through. Place in a buttered baking utensil, and cover with the mashed potatoes. (Note: Keep fish flakes large.) Bake 15 to 15 minutes in a hot oven 400 degrees F.

Try serving a mixture of creamed ham and hard-boiled eggs in cases made from soft rolls, scooping out part of the crumbs and toasting them lightly. Fine for a late Sunday morning breakfast.

Prize Winning Recipes For This Week

Ski Salad

Submitted by Mrs. James Austin, 145 Barkdale Drive, N. E. Atlanta, Ga.

3 to 4 tablespoons top milk
2 medium size, firm, tart apples
1-2 cup diced celery
1-2 cup white raisins
1-2 cup diced raw onions (blanched)
Mash cream cheese. Gradually stir in milk, enough to make cheese the consistency of salad dressing. Peel and dice apples that have been previously chilled. Add all to cream cheese. Mix lightly and serve on salad green. Six portions.

Winter Salad

Submitted by Mrs. Grace L. Epps, 108 Brown Street, LaGrange, Ga.

1 cup celery
1-2 cup sweet mixed pickles
1-2 cup stuffed olives
1-4 cup onion
1 tablespoon pickle juice
1 pinch salt
Lettuce
Dissolve gelatin as directed on package. Let stand until thick. Chop ingredients finely and add to gelatin. Place in refrigerator until congealed. Unmold and serve on lettuce with salad dressing.

White Fruit Cake

Submitted by Mrs. G. Fred Smith, Salem, Ala.

2 cups sifted sugar.
1 cup sweet milk.
1-2 cups flour.
7 egg whites.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 pound coconut.
1 pound nut meats.
1 pound white raisins.
1-4 pound pineapple, crystallized.
1-2 pound citron.
1-2 pound cherries, crystallized.
Cream the butter and the sugar together; add the eggs. Sift flour with other dry ingredients (reserving 1-2 cup of flour for dredging the fruit) and add alternately with the liquid to the first mixture. Bake in a 275 or 300 degree oven for about 2 3/4 hours.

Spare Ribs With Barbecue Sauce

Submitted by Mrs. Hill R. Healan, 332 West Benson Street, Decatur, Ga.

1 pound spare ribs.
Salt.
Black pepper.
Catsup.
Prepared mustard.
Wash spare ribs and lay them in a skillet. Sprinkle each rib with a generous amount of salt and black pepper. Pour on each rib some tomato catsup. Put about a teaspoon of mustard on each. Then cover with hot water, filling the pan. Let them simmer slowly for an hour, uncovered, or until the sauce is about one-inch deep. Remove from heat and just before serving place under flame, turning each, to brown.

Oatmeal Bread

Submitted by Mrs. J. E. Brown, Box 212 (Fox Hill), Hampton, Va.

1 cup milk.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 cup rolled oats.
1-4 cake dry yeast in 1-4 cup lukewarm water.
2 1-2 cups white flour (1-2 cup of cornmeal may be used with 2 cups of flour.)
Scald the milk and salt and pour over the rolled oats. Cool slowly, letting it become lukewarm. Then add the yeast and beat in the flour. Let it rise in pan until light and bake in a moderate oven from 50 to 60 minutes.

Rum Chiffon Pie

Submitted by Mrs. Mabel Young, Cornelia, Ga.

3 egg yolks
1-2 cup granulated sugar
3 teaspoons rum.
2 teaspoons granulated gelatin.
1-4 cup cold water.
3 egg whites.
1-4 cup granulated sugar (for egg whites).
Beat egg yolks, add sugar and rum. Cook over a low fire until thickened and cool. Soak gelatin and heat until dissolved. Beat egg whites and fold in sugar. When they begin to hold shape, pour gelatin in very slowly. When light and fluffy fold in the rum custard and pour in a baked pie shell.

Japanese Fruit Cake

Submitted by Mrs. M. R. Stephenson, Rex, Ga.

2 cups sifted cake flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
1-2 cup butter.
1-4 cups sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
3 egg whites.
Sift flour. Add baking powder and salt. Sift again. Cream butter, add sugar, and cream until light. Add flour, milk. Beat egg whites until stiff, fold in. Bake in 2 greased 8-inch layers. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in 350-degree oven.

FRUIT LAYER.

1-2 cup raisins.
1-2 cup cherries.
1-2 cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
1 3-4 cups flour.
1 cup milk.
1 teaspoon cloves.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
2 eggs.
Mix well. Bake in 1 greased 8-inch layer. Bake approximately 30 minutes in 350-degree oven.

FILLING.

1 1-4 cup sugar.
1 orange, grated.
2 teaspoons cornstarch.
3 teaspoons butter.
4 egg yolks.
Put into double boiler and cook until thick. Add 1 cup crushed pineapple and 1 cup grated coconut. Let boil. Cool and spread.

Charlie Mallory Dies at LaGrange

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
LAGRANGE, Ga., Nov. 20.—Services for Charlie Ellis Mallory, 66, who died Thursday at a local hospital, will be held at the Trinity Methodist church on Friday at 3:30 p. m., with the Rev. J. W. Brinsfield, pastor, assisted by the Rev. J. D. McMillan, pastor of Callaway Baptist church, officiating. Burial will be in Hillview Annex cemetery.

Mr. Mallory, a native and lifelong resident of Troup county, was living in the Hillcrest community, where he had moved from the Gray Hill district of Troup two years ago. He was a farmer and textile worker. He was a member of the Trinity Methodist church, and had been in declining health for the past year.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. C. B. Mallory, of LaGrange, R. F. D.; six daughters, Mrs. Tony Culp, Mrs. A. L. Patterson, Mrs. Howell McKee and Mrs. E. M. Crenshaw, all of LaGrange; Mrs. A. S. Rollins, of Roopville; Mrs.

Nation Facing Crucial Time, Pace Declares

Congressman Urges 'All-Out' Effort for National Defense.

AMERICUS, Ga., Nov. 20.—(AP) Declaring "it is high time that definite action be taken to insure uninterrupted production," Congressman Stephen Pace today urged an all-out effort for national defense.

In a telegram to the American Times-Recorder, the third Georgia district representative, said the nation is facing its most critical time.

"And the time has come when every man should forget his selfish interests and be willing to devote his entire time and effort to the defense of our nation, and to aid those who are today so courageously resisting the aggressors," he said.

"Our boys in the service have a right to expect an equal sacrifice by those who enjoy the safety and comforts of their own fire-sides."

Pace said that notice should be taken of "the patriotic co-operation" of the American Federation of Labor members in Georgia, who months ago voluntarily agreed not to strike in defense production, and to submit all disputes to arbitration.

"They have stood by that promise and haven't been off the job one hour," he said, adding "our national security demands similar conduct by everyone, everywhere."

The Georgia representative referred to his amendment, offered in the house of representatives several months ago and calling for mediation of all labor disputes without strikes during the present emergency.

The amendment received house approval, but was defeated in the senate. Its adoption, he said, would have eliminated all stoppage of production "and" would have prevented the situation facing us today.

Burns May Be Named Ambassador to Russia

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP) Major General James H. Burns, major-league executive, was reported in diplomatic circles today to be a likely choice by President Roosevelt for the post of ambassador to Russia.

Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt, the present envoy who is en route home by plane, is understood to have asked to be relieved after more than two years in Moscow.

General Burns, a Regular Army officer and a member of the recent official mission to Moscow, is a specialist in the production of munitions. His appointment to the Moscow embassy thus would give the United States an ambassador with technical knowledge on problems of supplying the Soviet armies with munitions.

LOSES EYE.
VIDALIA, Ga., Nov. 20.—Moody McDonald, superintendent at a chemical plant here, has lost an eye as the result of an accident. He was making some repairs, using a hammer and chisel, when a piece of one of the tools or a nail struck him in the eye.

THANKSGIVING DAY.
WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 20.—Mayor M. M. Monroe has set apart Thursday, November 27, as the official day of Thanksgiving for citizens to observe this day of thanks.

Four Charged With Attaway Slaying in 1940

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
DUBLIN, Ga., Nov. 20.—Laurens County Sheriff L. F. Coleman said tonight that Jimmie Canady, Dublin tavern operator, was arrested here today on a murder warrant charging him with the slaying of Lloyd Attaway, 29-year-old Dublin automobile salesman and member of a prominent family here, whose bullet-riddled body was found on a roadside in Monroe county the morning of November 27, 1940. Also arrested on murder warrants as accessories were Canady's wife, Mrs. Gussie Cannon Canady; Mrs. Canady's father, John Nathan Cannon, who only two weeks ago was convicted here of murder in the slaying of a country storekeeper in 1932 and given a life sentence, and Irvin Alligood, the sheriff stated.

Confession Claimed.
The arrests were based on an alleged confession credited to Alligood, who was taken into custody at Vidalia last night, Sheriff Coleman revealed.

Canady and his wife were arrested this morning at their tavern, "Oak Garden," just outside the city limits on the Macon road, and with Cannon, who was brought in from the Laurens county public works camp where he is serving his sentence, were questioned at the State Patrol station.

good were later taken to Forsyth county seat of Monroe county. The arrests were made by Sheriff Coleman and state troopers at the request of Sheriff L. C. Blitt, of Monroe county, and Solicitor General Frank Willingham, of the Flint circuit, which includes that county.

Details of the alleged confession were not made public, but Sheriff Coleman said Alligood told the officers that Mrs. Canady was with Attaway when he was shot. The shooting, the sheriff quoted Alligood as saying, occurred when Attaway stepped from his automobile after it had been forced off the road by a car driven by Canady, 13 miles north of Macon just inside the Monroe county line, the night of November 26, 1940.

Met in Macon.
According to Alligood, the sheriff said, Canady was in Macon the night of November 26 and ran up with his father-in-law, Cannon, and Alligood. A short time later, he said, Canady saw his wife and Attaway in Attaway's car parked on a downtown street. Canady, Cannon and Alligood decided to follow Attaway and Mrs. Attaway and the route led out the Atlanta highway.

After the shooting, Attaway's body was placed in Canady's car, according to the sheriff's version of Alligood's statement, and Canady drove on to a point about eight and a half miles north of Forsyth on the Indian Springs highway, where the body was left. Alligood, a native of the Rentz section of Laurens county, was identified as the man seen by passers-by some time before day at the spot where Attaway's body was later found, Sheriff Coleman said.

LeCraw Vetoes Resolution on Firemen Here

Brands Proposal 'Nothing But Unadulterated Salary Increase.'

Branding a proposed reclassification of 13 members of the fire department as "nothing but a plain unadulterated salary increase," Mayor LeCraw yesterday vetoed the measure passed to him from Monday's sessions of council and the aldermanic board.

The mayor ended the veto message by saying some misrepresentations had been made to him about recommendations made by Public Administration Service, which prepared the classifications for municipal employees, adding that "the fire department is now top-heavy with officers, and this bill seeks to give 13 additional men officer status."

"I am convinced that this is unsound both from the standpoint of the city and from that of the firemen themselves," the salary boosts contained in the resolution would increase fire department salary accounts about $1,500 a year. LeCraw also vetoed a resolution prohibiting the use of prison labor in construction of a new prison building at the city prison farm, saying he feels sure he can work out an acceptable program with labor leaders. Representatives of labor had the measure offered at council's last session.

NAVAL ACADEMY SOUGHT.
BRUNSWICK, Ga., Nov. 20.—The city commissioners took the initiative at its meeting today to endeavor to secure for Brunswick one of the new naval or military academies the government plans to establish. A motion prevailed that the matter be taken up by the Brunswick Board of Trade and that necessary steps be taken to secure the academy which is contemplated in the south.

By GEORGE B. ANDERSON.

Surveys made by independent research organizations show that everybody who reads anything reads some advertising. I break readers of advertising down into these classifications:

The timid soul—the fellow who does anything an advertiser tells him to do.

The "I Don't Care"—the reader who isn't impressed by much of anything short of a typographical bombshell.

The Bargain Hunter—the reader who looks for price first; who is more interested in the price reduction than the practical value of the advertised item.

The "Just Looking"—the reader who scans all advertisements with an open mind but without looking for any particular thing.

The "Information Please"—the reader who reads every ad carefully, looking for all pertinent facts.

The "Just What I Want"—the enthusiastic reader who immediately gets ready to make a purchase.

The "Oh, Yeah"—the reader who wouldn't believe that Santa Claus was a nice fellow unless you had affidavits to prove it.

To sell "Oh, Yeah," the advertiser must have complete information on his product or service, good reasons why the customer should buy, proof of value and an invitation to immediate action.

To sell even the easiest of these prospective customers, the advertiser must first of all create interest in his message. It isn't an advertisement until somebody reads it.

Joan Bennett Stars Tonight On 'Playhouse'

Friday's Local Programs

These programs are given in EASTERN STANDARD (ATLANTA) TIME and are subject to change by the stations or networks without notice.

'Girl in News' Will Be Presented by Charles Martin at 9.

Hollywood's Joan Bennett files to New York to play the lead in Charles Martin's adaptation of "Girl in the News" on "The Playhouse" tonight at 9 o'clock.

First produced in England, the play starred Margaret Lockwood and Emyln Williams. "Girl in the News" is the story of a nurse acquitted of two murders, who marries the lawyer who defended her in both cases.

Born in New Jersey in 1910, Joan Bennett is a member of the royal stage family of Bennetts and made her stage debut in her father's production of "Jarnegan."

Her first major movie role was that of "Phyllis" opposite Ronald Colman in "Bulldog Drummond."

She has since been seen in many pictures, including "Three Live Ghosts," "Trade Winds" and "Little Women." Now in Hollywood working on a picture, she interrupts that schedule long enough to appear on "The Playhouse."

Laughton Reads Noted Thanksgiving Letter

Charles Laughton continues his readings of important American prose on Mutual's "Three Ring Time." Hollywood variety show, tonight at 9:30 p. m. over WATL when he reads the 1938 Thanksgiving Proclamation of ex-Governor Wilburn Cross, of Connecticut.

Governor Cross' Thanksgiving Proclamations, hailed by educators as lasting documents in the field of public letters, are notable for their prose and their simple, effective manner of describing the American tradition of Thanksgiving. The 1938 proclamation is considered among Cross' best.

French Court Refuses Extradition of Caballero
 VICHY, Unoccupied France, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A French court refused today to extradite Francisco Largo Caballero, Civil War Republican premier of Spain, to his homeland to face charges pressed by the Franco regime. The former premier was released by a Nimes court where he had been taken for hearing on the Spanish extradition request. He was reported still held under administrative observation, and required to live in a place selected by the French.

FAMOUS FOR FLAVOR!

The finest soft wheat available plus the most modern milling methods account for White Lily's delicate and uniform texture... for its rich nourishment value... and the extra good flavor it gives to pastries, cakes and biscuits. White Lily has a fine granular texture and its Vitamin B¹ and food minerals are so thoroughly distributed you get a scientific blend of their important health properties. MRS. S. R. DULL

The Army and Navy in Georgia

If an army marches on its stomach, the men at Fort Benning should be ready for a thousand mile hike after yesterday's Thanksgiving dinner. Topping the quartermaster's menu was 50,000 pounds of turkey with oyster dressing. That's about one pound to a man, and look what went with it:

Fruit cocktail, cream of tomato soup, rice and giblet gravy, Virginia baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, creamed cauliflower, mince pie, pumpkin pie, ice cream and coconut cake.

Of course, that's just the official quartermaster menu. On the side there was cranberry sauce, various salads, asparagus tips, stewed corn, oranges, apples, bananas, grapes, hot rolls, coffee and lemonade.

All this, officers say, was enough to make every soldier happy and thankful he belongs to an army in a land of plenty.

NEW RECREATION AREA PLANNED FOR SOLDIERS
 Plans for a new Camp Stewart soldiers' recreational area near Brunswick are under consideration by officers of the Fourth Corps Area.

Major R. H. Holmes Jr., assistant morale officer, returned from an inspection of the proposed site. The new recreation facilities will be situated adjacent to the causeway to St. Simon's Island, approximately six miles from Brunswick, according to tentative plans. It will include a big tent city with wash room facilities, a recreation room and other conveniences for troops on holiday.

CONSTRUCTION STARTED ON SPORTS ARENA
 AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Construction has started on a sports arena at Camp Gordon, large enough to seat 4,000 men. The building will provide facilities for basketball, boxing, wrestling, tennis and badminton as well as stage shows.

130 TRAINEES ASSIGNED TO CAMP BLANDING

One hundred and thirty trainees with one officer and three non-commissioned officers have just been assigned to infantry units of the 31st Division, moving to Camp Blanding from Camp Wheeler.

This is the largest movement of trainees into Camp Blanding in the last week, although men have been arriving for some time in small groups and even singly for assignment to various units.

PERSONALS.
 First Lieutenant John A. Ball, a native of Atlanta, has been appointed commanding officer of the headquarters and headquarters squadron of the Third Air Force. A graduate of Dartmouth and the United States Naval Air station at Pensacola, Lieutenant Ball was appointed to the Army from the United States Naval Reserve.

An Atlanta trainee, Private Joseph E. Cobble, has been promoted to the grade of corporal at Camp Wheeler. He has completed 13 weeks of basic infantry training with Company "A" of the Sixth Battalion and will remain with the organization as instructor.

Private William A. Dawes Jr., of 1137 Lanier Boulevard, N. E., a member of the Army Air Corps at Fort Benning, left last week for Kelly Field to take the enlisted men's flying course.

FABRIC EXPERTS RECOMMEND SUPER SUDS!

Here's How to Wash Rayons, Silks and Wool

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Better Fabrics Testing Bureau, widely-known authorities on all textile and fabric subjects, say "Wash rayons, silks, and woollens in Super Suds." Here are their expert instructions:

Test a small patch in plain water for color-fastness. If color runs, it's not washable. (Test woollens in soapy water.)

Wash garments separately, by hand.

Use lukewarm suds as follows: Dissolve Super Suds completely in warm water, then add cold water to get lukewarm suds.

Do not soak. Wash quickly and gently. Do not rub, wring or twist. Woollens especially shrink from rubbing—avoid any excessive handling while wet.

Rinse thoroughly, gently, in clean, lukewarm water. Roll in towel, but don't leave there. Never dry woollens in excessive heat or direct rays of sun.

Shape garment over ironing board before ironing. Use a moderate iron.

Certain types of weaves and prints should never be washed. Many makers guarantee washability. Look for this when you buy.

"Tarzan" Weissmuller Leaves Jungle for Role In South Seas Film

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 20.—(INS) Hold everything! Weissmuller takes—and that, my friends, is news about the great grunting king of the "Tarzan" pictures. Believe it or not, Johnny is going to turn actor with dialogue, expressions and emotions in a little number titled "Black Pearl," authored by Bogart Rogers, brother of Adela Rogers St. Johns. Taking Johnny out of the forest and down to the South Seas isn't too radical a step when you stop to think it over—because Mons. Weissmuller will still be able to swim like a fish and display his famous torso.

Pat Dane, who is really coming along at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, will play the Dorothy Lamour to Johnny's Jon Hall, but she won't go into competition with Dottie in a sarong. Pat appears in a Pareau which is like a sarong—only more so. John Carroll and newcomer Anna Ayars are also in the lineup of "Black Pearl," which will be directed by Al Santell and produced by George Haight.

Looks as if Preston Foster is starting out on that career that we prophesied for him after he did such a magnificent job in "Unfinished Business." Preston has just signed a seven-year contract with 20th Century-Fox and his first job for Darryl Zanuck will be a light comedy role in "Tommy in the U. S. A.," the next John Sutton movie. Twentieth has Preston's exclusive services, and from now on in he's going to have the type of role that has made Walter Pidgeon's name such a household word. The two men do not look unlike. Of course this means that Pres will not be with Gregory La Cava in the next Irene Dunne movie.

Tried to reach Mary Pickford today to confirm the rumor I keep hearing that when "Life With Father" is brought to the screen that she will play the mother role. It is such a wonderful part—so giddy, gay and amusing. Mary has been in New York at the United Artist meeting and returns tomorrow morning. She and David Selznick are so happy that Gradwell Sears, the new vice president and general sales manager, is to be in charge of distribution for U. A. He is not only one of the best men in his line, but one of the most popular. We also hear many nice things about Edward Raftery, the new United Artists president. With this personnel and the plan of U. A. to make more pictures, things look bright for this organization.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM:

Glenn Tyron and Jane Frazee are serious; word from New York says Mrs. Jack Warner has been quite sick with a strep throat; Pat Dane's Thanksgiving gift from Cedric Gibbons is a new car-lucky girl; Peggy Moran and Henry Koster at the Mocambo—and don't forget we said it's a romance; Edward Ashline has fallen for Mona Maris—and how! Chester Vanderbilt, of the Bank of America, is taking time off tomorrow to celebrate his birthday. His friends have flooded him with wires and good wishes. Chet always has a smile for the movie crowd; Marlene Dietrich is wearing a V necklace—the latest thing—two diamond V's on a slender chain; Jink Falkenberg has a book coming out the first of the year—"How To Be a Model"; Dorothy Sebastian with a lot of white orchids around her neck, at Charley Fox's with Chester Winters, a Texas oil man; Mary Martin ate her Thanksgiving dinner at the Good Samaritan hospital—but she doesn't mind—her new daughter, her young son and husband were with her; Cy Bartlett and Ellen Drew gave a cocktail party at their apartment at the Sherry Netherlands. They are living in Washington, where Cy is doing some work for the government; Paulette Goddard changed her mind about going to Mexico and planned to New York from Texas. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

How To Figure Income Tax

"How much do I owe in income tax for this year?" With the new rates—starting at $750 for single people and $1,500 for married—that question's beginning to loom in everyone's mind.

Better to know the answer now! After you've subtracted your rightful deductions, you may find your tax is not so imposing. Also budgeting your tax ahead, you can take filing day, March 15, right in your stride.

These questions and answers show some of the many deductions that are allowed.

Q. My car was wrecked in an accident; may I deduct its value?

A. A car lost in an accident is deductible whether it was used for business or pleasure. The amount of the loss is the difference between the value of the car after the accident and the original cost less depreciation.

Q. I have contributed to charitable and patriotic organizations; can both types of contributions be deducted?

A. Yes, if contributions are made to a regularly organized charitable or nonprofit organization.

Q. I am a small businessman; my son, under 18, helps me. Are his wages deductible as with other employees?

A. Wages of minor children are deductible from the gross income of your business, but must be counted in family income.

Send 15c in coins for our book let, "HOW TO FIGURE YOUR INCOME TAX," to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Victorian influence will be seen in many of the evening styles this year. Charlotte Manson of CBS "Stepmother" series chooses a striking model of this era for early winter parties. It is in the cover-up mode so popular the past year and features a tight-fitting black velvet basque with red, yellow and black plaid taffeta ruffle yoke.

Girl Is Unwise To Date Teacher on Sly

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie: I am 18 years old and am a senior in high school. I am considered very pretty and popular in my town. I am in love with one of our teachers. He is twenty-three and does not live in my home town. I have had four dates with him and he says that he likes me more than anyone else in this town, although he goes with a lot of girls here. I have to meet him secretly when I go out, as it is not a custom for the teachers to go with the students. My mother does not even know of this, and I am afraid that if I told her, she would disapprove of it. It has been about three weeks since I have been with him. I talk to him every day, but he does not ask me for dates. Do you suppose he is losing interest in me?

EIGHTEEN.

I think you made your big mistake in meeting him on the sly and dating him when you knew that it was against the rules of the school. I feel sure that he still likes you and thinks you are attractive, but perhaps he realizes that since you are one of his students, it would be unwise to continue dating you. I would not take the affair too seriously if I were you.

GIRL'S LETTERS SHOULD EXPRESS INTEREST

Dear Dixie: About two months ago I began going regularly with a boy who is just the type of boy I admire most. About two weeks ago he had to take his mother and some other members of his family to Louisiana. It almost broke my heart, he had to go, although he said that he did not want to. He came to see me three or four times a week, and I have been in his home and think his mother is a sweet. He knows I love him and he hated to leave for that reason. Do you think he will come back? He has written me twice since he arrived in Louisiana. He asked me if I was going with another boy. Should I tell him? Why should he want to know that? Should I try to get him back?

BROKENHEARTED.

I think your beau will come back if he can. Of course if his family has moved away, there may be circumstances to prevent his returning. He wants to know what you are doing because he is interested in you.

Of course, ask him to come back if you want to see him. Let him know how much you miss him and ask him to write and tell you all about himself, what he is doing and the new people he has met.

A Reader Insists on Having "Nerves"

By Dr. William Brady.

Correspondent who signs his letter John J. Doe (let us say), Research Engineer, Member of Technical Societies, closes with the following benediction:

"It is my hope that you personally may have to suffer from nervous exhaustion, so that you may face the truth and thereby be better enabled to more intelligently aid your fellowmen and women, in the great art of healing the sick."

Mr. Doe's application has been placed on file. His wish will be duly considered in its proper turn. We have to take these curses in the order in which they are received. Thus the one that I may some day be aged and decrepit and so become better enabled to understand just how it feels to be an old geezer or an old fogey, must be fulfilled first, for it has been on the books almost from the days before the war. Then when I can no longer roll somewhat I'll have to develop a bad case of chronic rheumatism in order to satisfy the prophesy made by many a poor geek who believes bad weather, exposure, dampness and the like an adequate explanation for what ails him. Let Mr. Doe be patient—no telling how soon I may have to have a complete nervous breakdown in sheer self-defense. I'm not superstitious but nevertheless I worry a good deal about around edges of eyes and frequent styes. Once read in your column about vitamin A for dry eyes and poor vision in dull light.

(Mrs. M. T. S.)

Answer—It will do no harm to give her 50,000 units of natural vitamin A (two capsules) daily and half a dozen tablets of vitamin B complex (for riboflavin).

Terpin Hydrate.

In an article on winter cough you mentioned capsules of terpin hydrate. What do these capsules contain? Are they harmless?

(M. T. G.)

Answer—Terpin hydrate is a derivative of oil of turpentine. Two grains in capsule twice a day after food is harmless to take as an expectorant in chronic bronchitis. Often two or three drops of pure oil of turpentine (not crude spirits of turpentine used by painters) on a little sugar or in a capsule, twice daily after food, will give the same relief for chronic winter cough.

Sulfanilamide.

Would the fact that a pilot was taking sulfanilamide or sulfathiazole have any bearing on unexplained loss of control of his ship?

(P. W.)

Answer—Well, a locomotive engineer who was taking sulfanilamide thus described an accident: "I was looking out, feeling that I was alert. . . . Actually I was not on the job with all my faculties. I passed landmarks customarily observed to locate position without seeing them, even to the station board. . . . Competent physicians prescribing drugs of this class caution patients to remain at home and at rest until four or five days after the drug has been discontinued, and particularly against driving a car, making any important decision or signing important papers—because it is known that such drugs are likely to impair judgment for a while."

My ignorance prevents me from comprehending John Doe's explanation of nerve energy and nervous exhaustion. So far as I can learn there is no difference between ordinary physical or muscular energy, expended by muscular action and the energy John Doe calls "nervous."

Now perhaps some Class A neurotic will give us his or her idea about nervous exhaustion or "neurasthenia."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Undulant (Malta) Fever.

Sixteen cases of Malta fever in the past two months—its source not discovered. Does the use of raw milk spread the disease? Doctors here differ. (S. M. G.)

Answer—Not definitely known whether the infection is transmitted through milk. More likely contact with infected animals or their flesh after slaughter. However, you can be on the safe side by bringing the milk to a boil for one minute, which would destroy any disease germs in it.

Granulated Eyelids.

Daughter has red granulated eyelids mornings, also very red

Curled Lashes Have a Longer Look

By Winifred Ware.

The fact that much eye make-up is overdone makes many women think it always looks artificial. The truth is that correct eye make-up is so subtle that it can't be detected easily and therefore it is only the bad jobs that stand out. Those who do a proper job of enhancing their eyes are usually just credited with having more beautiful eyes.

You will be surprised how much of the beauty of eyes lies in the lashes and brows. Both size and sparkle is increased by lashes which look longer and darker. A great deal of apparent length can be added merely by curling lashes back so that they show up more.

Curling them is a quick, simple matter if you have an eyelash curler. This gadget has handles like scissors handles. You place the curler over the lashes, as close to the eyelid as possible, and squeeze the handles together gently, 10 or 12 times. The short squeeze, produce a soft roll rather than a stiff, affected crimp, giving a natural upward curl to the lashes. The curler is edged with rubber so that it can't pull or injure the lashes.

If you have shied from using mascara because you couldn't apply it properly, here's a trick that will help you. Apply it to the tips while the lashes are still in the curler. This means that only the tips are darkened, which will add to the apparent length of the lashes without the chance of that beaded artificial look. Also, when the mascara is just on the tips there is little chance of it rubbing off.

I'll be glad to tell you where you can get this eyelash curler to train your lashes to roll upward. Call Winifred Ware at Walnut 8585 or write in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Today's Charm Tip

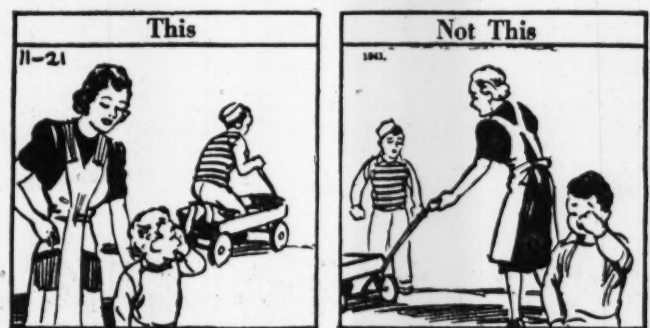

Imagining things is a futile pastime and a dangerous one. That other person may never have said anything about you or done you a wrong. "Imagining things" produces queer brain children.

Anne Shirley, R-K-O Radio star, shows us that eye make-up needn't look artificial, but can enhance the natural beauty of the eyes.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Mother: "No, Son. You told Bill he could play with your wagon if he gave you two marbles. It was a fair bargain and you can't go back on it now."

Which method, think you, will teach a child to consider well before making a bargain but, once made, to stick by it?

Rest Comes First in Program To Correct Poor Posture

By Ida Jean Kain.

When you come to analyze it, your ability to maintain a naturally erect posture depends on whether you are getting enough rest. Any time you are so tired you could drop, you droop. You can't seem to help yielding to an inclination to round the shoulders and let the small of the back cave in. This is the characteristic stance of the thin girl whose vitality is low and who is easily fatigued.

To see the effect fatigue has on your posture, take a look at yourself in a full-length mirror the next time you force yourself to go on working past the point at which you should have stopped to rest. The longer you keep going after you are tired out, the more pronounced is your interest to slump. And, to make matters worse, slumping itself adds to your fatigue.

If you are too tired to hold yourself erect, rest comes first. In the case of the thin girl, a general building-up program is needed: proper nourishment through a weight-gaining diet, complete relaxation, an increase in the hours allotted for sleep, and an exercise program worked in along with the other measures. Since posture reflects the general state of health as well as temporary or habitual fatigue, it cannot be treated as an isolated problem.

With many of you, however, slumping is a habit acquired when you have been overly tired, rather than an indication that your vitality is low. Because it is so easy to slump when you are tired, the muscles are gradually strengthened in the wrong position. As this goes on, you feel more and more comfortable in poor posture regardless of whether you are tired or rested. Actually, it takes far more energy to sit, stand or walk with your body out of alignment than with the muscles co-ordinating properly and with the weight in perfect balance. But it may be that you will have to exercise to overcome the damage of poor posture habits.

Faulty posture is an individual problem, but it is always a good plan to begin with the muscles of the abdomen and lower back. To correct sway back, stand sideways to a mirror, feet perfectly parallel and straight, knees stiff. Have the feet about four inches apart. First, push the buttocks out and up with the muscles all loose—as if you were wearing a bustle. Then pull up hard with the front thigh muscles and slowly begin to draw the buttocks down and under, closing the hips as in a vise. As the hips are rolled under, pull up with the abdominal muscles. So how much slimmer you look? Rest and repeat five times.

One of the best correctives for round shoulders is to lie on the back on the floor with a folded towel directly under the outcurve, knees flexed and soles of feet on floor. Lie and rest in this position for at least half an hour daily.

Your Figure Expert, IDA JEAN KAIN.

Druid Hills Leaders Open Safety Drive

Judge Roan, Mrs. Key, Chief Dailey Plan To Clamp Down.

Citizens of Druid Hills were urged yesterday to co-operate in a voluntary safe-driving campaign or face a "clamp down" by the law for violating stop signs and speed regulations in that section.

A citizens' group headed by Judge Augustus M. Roan, president of the Druid Hills Civic Association, and Mrs. E. D. Key, chairman of the safety and health committee, planned the campaign with DeKalb County Commissioner Scott Candler and Police Chief J. T. Dailey.

A notice was mailed yesterday to 2,000 home owners in Druid Hills asking co-operation in a drive to cut down accidents in the section by more strict observance of present traffic rules.

Police will first make warnings to violators and will later make arrests if co-operation is not voluntary, it was said.

Building Awards Hit All-Time High

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The F. W. Dodge Corporation reported today October construction contract awards totaled $606,349,000, the highest for any October in history.

Sixty-one per cent, by valuation, of the total was for public ownership projects, primarily defense construction, the statistical service reported.

The total was 58 per cent greater than in October, 1940, awards and exceeded by $6,000,000 the previous record high for the month, reached in October, 1928. While October contracts were slightly under awards of September, the report showed, the amount of private contract work, $235,762,000, was higher than the like division in September.
